The Benefit of Paying For College Before, Not After

A quick and simple analysis of the challenge of how to pay for college is this: You can pay before, during or after. To meet the costs during a child's college years, for the vast majority of families, is simply not feasible. To pay for college after means creating a burdensome debt load that can be difficult, if not impossible, for young adults to handle. The difference in the actual cost of saving vs. borrowing is stunning, even without considering the added CollegeInvest tax benefits.

Saving vs. Borrowing Cut the cost of college nearly in half.

In this illustration, saving $161.95 a month for 10 years would yield about $25,000 assuming a 5% return. Borrowing the same amount would require 120 payments of $265.78 each at the 5.05% federal unsubsidized interest rate plus a 1% loan fee of $250. Total amounts are rounded to the nearest dollar. This hypothetical illustration does not reflect an actual investment or any taxes payable upon withdrawal. All results assume no withdrawals are made, and do not reflect any taxes or penalties that may be due upon distribution. Your investment will vary and may perform better or worse than these examples, which are for illustrative purposes only. A periodic investment does not assure a profit or protect against a loss in declining markets.
