EVERYDAY LEADER

So often teen girls think that the only way to be a leader is to do BIG things that result in great recognition, like being voted team captain or class president, or getting the lead role in the play. What they fail to realize is that leadership is about being confident enough to share their voice and go after those things that are most important to them. It is about earning respect from others and making a difference in everyday situations.

In this workshop series, teen girls will learn who they want to be as a leaders, the strengths they'll lean into, and the values they want to honor as they make a difference in their world every day.
