

Welcome to the Radnor Chapter

ART • GOES • TO • SCHOOL

The Radnor Chapter of Art Goes to School of Delaware Valley (AGTS–Radnor) is a fun and welcoming group that offers an opportunity to take time out to enjoy art, make friends and volunteer in the Radnor community.

The goal of Art Goes to School is to make fine art accessible to school students. AGTS-Radnor visits art classes at Saint Katharine of Siena School, Ithan, Radnor, and Wayne Elementary Schools to encourage young learners to get excited about art and visit local art museums. We host an annual exhibition showcasing a rich and varied portfolio of art reproductions. Students are encouraged to ‘look, listen and feel’ art through interactive presentations, story-time, games and more.

You can volunteer to be an Art Goes to School presenter or helper at one or more of our partner schools. No experience is needed; we will help you get classroom ready.

You can learn about the portfolio at our club meetings in the fall where we talk about the artworks over coffee. We also look for opportunities to see the original portfolio pieces in person. Members can also access virtual lectures and events hosted by our parent organization.

Take your pick to suit your interest, schedule and comfort level! For more information email radnor.agts@gmail.com

Exploring Art

Join our Portfolio Club. Members meet informally to explore the artworks in our portfolio. Runs weekly, September – November.

Volunteering

Become an Art Goes To School presenter or helper. Volunteer at one or more of our partner schools, March - May.

Having Fun!

Social highlights include our fall cocktail, field trips, workshops and our annual Holiday trip to an exhibition in New York City.
