Financial Aid

Financial Aid is the different forms of financial assistance that can be applied to your student account to pay for your college education. Student must verify that all requirements are met to receive financial aid from the Financial Aid Office.

- Free Application for Federal Student Aid
FAFSA—studentaid.gov

The FAFSA Application opens every year on October 1st. College students are encouraged to complete the FAFSA once a year to be eligible for specific student aid, for example work-study and scholarships. Graduating high school seniors are now required to complete a FAFSA Application as part of their high school graduation requirements. For more information regarding graduation requirements, please contact your high school counselor.

- Grants

A grant is a form of financial aid that doesn't have to be repaid (unless, for example, you withdraw from school and owe a refund, or you receive a TEACH Grant and don't complete your service obligation). A variety of federal grants are available, including Pell Grants, Federal Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grants (FSEOG), Teacher Education Assistance for College and Higher Education (TEACH) Grants, and Iraq and Afghanistan Service Grants.

- Scholarships

Many nonprofit and private organizations offer scholarships to help students pay for college or career school. This type of free money, which is sometimes based on academic merit, talent, or a particular area of study, can make a real difference in helping you manage your education expenses.

- Work-Study Jobs

The Federal Work-Study Program allows you to earn money to pay for school by working part-time.

- Loans

When you receive a student loan, you are borrowing money to attend a college or career school. You must repay the loan as well as interest that accrues. It is important to understand your repayment options so you can successfully repay your loan.

- Aid for Military Families

There are special aid programs or additional aid eligibility for serving in the military or for being the spouse or child of a veteran.

- Aid for International Study

Federal student aid may be available for studying at a school outside the United States, whether you're studying abroad or getting your degree from an international school.

- Aid From Your State Government

Other than federal aid, you might be eligible for financial assistance from your state. Contact your state grant agency for more information.

- Aid From Your College or Career School

Many schools offer financial aid from their own grant and/or scholarship funds.
