

High School Syllabus

Department: English

Course #: 11164B

Course Title: Core English 11

DESCRIPTION OF COURSE: Students will focus on reading, writing, speaking, and listening and will participate in close reading opportunities that support text analysis. This course will include exposing students to higher-order text-dependent questions to promote deeper thinking about texts. Students will read, critically interpret, and respond in writing to themes presented in selections from Collections one, three, five, and six. Additional literature selections will include, but are not limited to The Scarlet Letter. Students will read, understand, and respond to informational text as well as literary fiction. An emphasis on the writing process will help students complete various genres of writing and a research paper using MLA format. The study of grammar will be combined with a study of vocabulary to help students succeed on standardized tests and be college and career ready.
