

EMERGENCY CLOSURE GUIDELINES

The District believes it's in the best interest of students, families, and staff that schools remain open whenever possible. As Utah law requires missed days of instruction to be made up, options like a delayed start and virtual learning are considered before completely closing schools.

Below are some basic guidelines regarding school closures. More information is available at www.tooeleschools.org or by contacting the Student Services Department.

HOW WE... DECIDE

Our primary focus is twofold; student/staff safety and interruption of learning. Any closures are authorized by the superintendent of schools after consulting with senior staff members, operations, and transportation. We may also consult with the emergency management, National Weather Service, and other local agencies as needed. During inclement weather, this typically includes operations teams surveying road conditions and school access throughout the night.

HOW WE... COMMUNICATE

Regarding any school closures, we will notify staff, parents, and students as early as possible through email and phone calls. Sometimes that is the day before, but typically with weather that will be the morning of by around 6:00 am. We will also use our website, social media, and local news outlets as needed. Please follow our official Facebook and Twitter accounts for accurate information. No announcement means schools will be open and operate as usual.

Please note any closure is for one day only. Schools will remain open for in-person instruction on scheduled school days unless extreme weather limits school access or creates unsafe traveling conditions. Regardless of our decision, if parents/guardians prefer to keep students home, please do so.

Teachers will be available on remote learning days via email and connect with students through services like Canvas, Zoom, or Google Meet.
