New York

When Drivers Have to Stop For School Buses

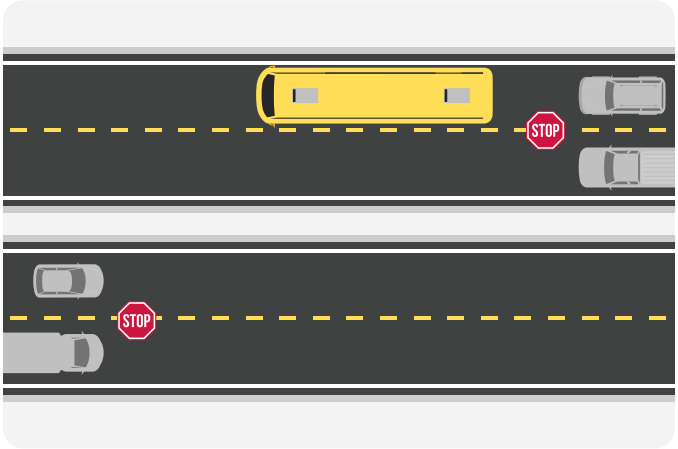

Understanding when a motorist is required to stop for school buses that are picking up or dropping off children can help keep students safe. Here's a breakdown of some common situations and the laws in New York.

Two-lane road

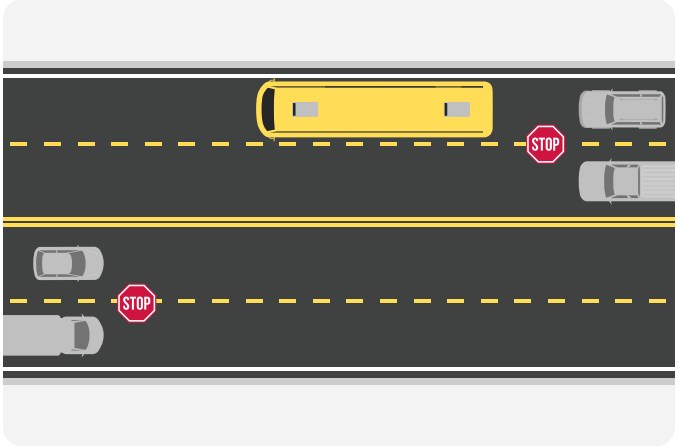

When a school bus is stopped on a two-lane roadway without a median, all cars traveling in either direction must stop.

Four or more lanes with median

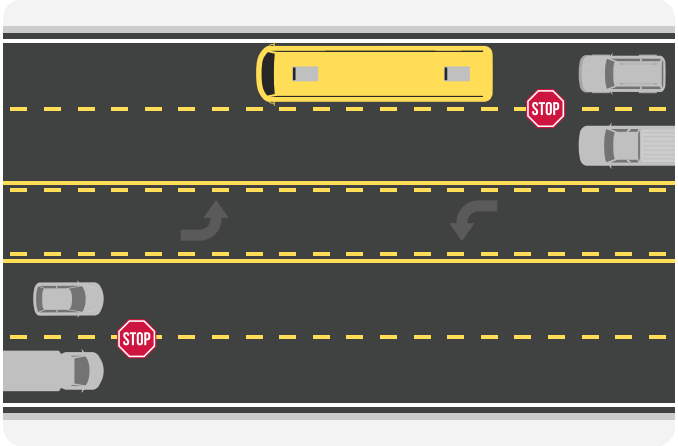

If a bus is stopped on a multi-lane road with a median—whether it's concrete, grass, or just an unpaved separation—cars traveling in either direction must stop.

Four or more lanes without median

If the bus is on a road with four or more lanes without a median, all vehicles traveling in either direction must stop.

Four or more lanes with center turn lane

When a school bus is stopped on a road with four or more lanes and a center turn lane, cars traveling in either direction must stop.

SOURCE: State Driver's license manual and Education Week reporting

EducationWeek

Download the rules for any state > edw.link/SchoolBusLaws