Community

Together, the Warren Hills Regional Middle School (Grades 7-8) and the Warren Hills Regional High School (Grades 9-12) make up the Warren Hills Regional School District, which serves a developing semi-rural area located twelve miles east of Easton, Pennsylvania. The district serves a population of approximately 30,000 people.

School

Warren Hills Regional High school is a four year, comprehensive high school with an enrollment of approximately 1100 students, who come from a wide variety of backgrounds and abilities. The school supports a strong agricultural program, with an FFA chapter that has won numerous state and national awards. Graduates of the business program are in constant demand by local and area businesses. The academic program is rich with Honors and Advanced Placement courses, while the district's Horizons program provides comprehensive activities for gifted students. In addition, a complete Independent Study program allows students to study areas not covered by the formal curriculum. Annually, about 75% of our graduates pursue additional specialized training or education beyond high school. Many are accepted by the most competitive and well known colleges and universities while other graduates seek a small college, county college, business or technical school, apprenticeship, or military service experience.
