Piper USD 203 Welcomes Senior Communications Intern to District Office

Piper USD 203 welcomes senior communications intern Annabelle Kump to the District Office team. Kump is the student body president and yearbook editor-in-chief. After graduation, she plans to major in digital marketing with a minor in graphic design or business of creative enterprises. After graduating college, she plans to pursue a career in marketing for a creative industry.

Kump will be responsible for helping launch the district's Instagram and giving more district content geared towards students.

"I am excited to use my social media skills and put them into action on something that will be used even once I am gone," said Kump.

"I am hoping to create a platform that students, parents, and the community can interact with and enjoy."

She continued on to say, "I am making a difference through the incorporation of perspectives from a younger demographic. I also contribute through my knowledge of software and tech equipment manipulation from my photography and Adobe Creative Suite experience. I am incredibly grateful to be able to get real-life experience in the world of social media marketing via this internship and can't wait to see where it takes me as it helps me prepare for my future after high school."
