- Although it's anonymous to start, it may not stay that way. The app encourages users to exchange personal information in the "Meet Up" section.

The bottom line for most of these tools? If teens are using them respectfully, appropriately, and with a little parental guidance, they should be fine. Take inventory of your kids' apps and review the best practices.

Kelly Schryver July 22, 2014

Common Sense Media