Center Grove Technology Director takes job with Indiana University
Search for replacement to begin immediately

GREENWOOD, IN (April 22, 2014)—Center Grove Community School Corporation (CGCSC) Director of Technology Julie Bohnenkamp is resigning her position to take a new role with Indiana University (IU). The search for a new director will begin immediately.

Center Grove Technology has received numerous state and national honors under her leadership. Most recently, the corporation was ranked among the top 10 in the nation in the annual Digital School Districts Survey by the Center for Digital Education (CDE) and the National School Boards Association (NSBA).

"While this is a tremendous opportunity for Julie, it is a huge loss for Center Grove" said Rich Arkanoff, CGCSC Superintendent. "Under her leadership, innovation has become a part of our culture. She has set us up to be hugely desirable to potential candidates."

"I am fully confident that Center Grove will remain a lead in innovation," said Bohnenkamp. "The high quality teachers and the outstanding tech staff will continue to find new and exciting ways to improve student learning using technology."

Bohnenkamp will begin her new position as Director of Learning Spaces for University Information Technology Services for IU in late May. In this role, she will work collaboratively to articulate a vision for technology to support next generation learning spaces at IU.
