ADVENTURES IN Speech PATHOLOGY

G'DAY and CHEERS for your purchase! As an SLP who has worked around the world I know those baggage limits well!

So with that in mind I hope you find these resources:

- Very FUNCTIONAL — use them across different settings/places
- FLEXIBLE — because I like YOU to get lots of use out of 1 item
- And just ESSENTIAL — because every SLP needs 'the basics'

ARTICULATION DRILL & DRAW

SENTENCE BOOKS

HOW TO USE ARTICULATION SENTENCE BOOKS

- You have a choice to work on initial, medial or final position for your targeted speech sound.
- Print the necessary pages, cutting them in half and stapling to make a 'book'. An extra page has been included so that you can write the sentences down FIRST. This is highly recommended so that you can get maximum practice of your speech sounds in sentences and THEN your students can draw on their sentence creations.
- Only one page has been included to write sentences, so you may want to print extra copies of this, or simply use a blank piece of paper to write sentences and 'add' to the book.
- If you don't want to make a book, print the pages as is. They make great speech practice in session (if you complete one half of the worksheet) while the other can be sent home for homework. It's a great way to show what was completed in session and what families can continue working on.

CONTENTS

Sentence Sheet	pg. 4
K Initial Sentences	pg. 5-9
K Medial Sentences	pg. 10-14
K Final Sentences	pg. 15-19

* Think creative and have an assortment of different crafts to make these come to life. I'm talking sequins, beads, glue, markers, paints, scrap cloth... anything that can be affixed to a page! *

Indicate whether the student said their sentence correctly using symbols e.g. + -

SENTENCE IDEAS

- Add color "The kangaroo has a hot pink tail"
- Add objects "The kangaroo is wearing a hat"
- Add actions/verbs "The kangaroo is licking a lollipop"
- Add thought/speech bubbles "The kangaroo is thinking about boxing"
- Add places "The kangaroo is in outer space"

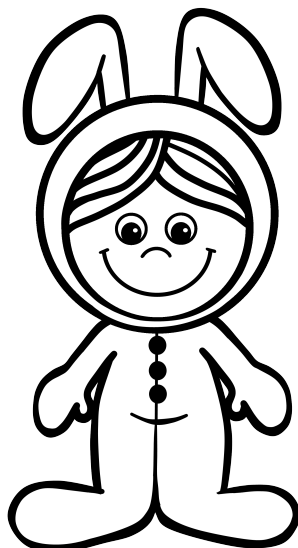

This task is great to integrate general language goals with, so think 'big picture' about your child and what other areas could be targeted!
