Student Life

Classes brought new faces and new work. With little time to spare in each period, students diligently undertook every assignment thrown their way. New challenges brought new goals which every student rose to the level to meet. And when work overwhelmed someone, a friendly face was always there to help that person along.

The most popular time in Student Life was the midday break also known as lunch. Whether working to finish next period's homework or just conversing with friends, lunch was always a wild time. But after eating your meal and spending the rest of lunch talking, working, or both, it became time to head back to class.

The year of 1998 made many friends. From the conversation in the hallway to meeting at lunch, new faces became familiar, while old ones were refreshed. Conversations around lockers brought many memories and everyone remembers the crowds each grew into. Student life involved studying, talking, and doing countless hours of work, but the friendships made this year will live long after graduation from I. W. A.

As the World Turns

Study, study, study!!! During finals week, you can find the halls filled with studying students. Studying in the library is always much quieter, but getting help from your friends in the halls is much more fun.

GUIDING LIGHT

Mass

Each year there are nine school wide Masses. At each of these, a different religion class prepares the atmosphere, music, and all the other details which are needed to prepare a liturgy. Along with these preparations, there are also other jobs for the students.

The students and faculty all helped out during the Masses in order to make them great successes. Dr. Harris shared his musical qualities by playing the piano for the Mass.

Another faculty member, Sr. Henri Amador, played the guitar at a class Mass.

LITURGY OF THE EUCHARIST. LITURGY OF THE WORD.

One of the opportunities to help at Mass is reading. Masses are sometimes celebrated in the chapel. A Mass celebrated in the chapel is usually class Mass which includes two, or more, religion classes at a time.

Fr. Glen Mullan bowed at the altar in the chapel to begin the class Mass for a 2nd period religion class.

Fr. Paul Hesse distributed communion to Leslie Escobedo at one of the nine schoolwide Masses.

Fr. Paul blesses the bread and wine.

Amber Schulze read at one of the many class Masses in the chapel.

For Seniors, graduating can be a momentous occasion. It is the end of their high school years, and it is the beginning of the rest of their lives. As Seniors walk down that stage and receive their diplomas, they know that they have completed a major part of their school lives. Seniors sometimes have to leave their friends behind and start a new life in a totally different environment. As a Senior graduates, it is also a meaningful moment for their parents because they have succeeded in putting their son/daughter through many years of school and have come out with a strong head on their shoulders.

Michael Heinz is waiting patiently as Mrs. Sue Coleman is fixing his crooked tie.

Kerith Vara and Mika Mathews take a couple seconds out of their time to show off their beautiful faces to the camera.

Ashley Palmer and Leslie Escobedo smile as they recap their high school years.

Joey Boberg and Steven Snapka give a little smirk as their picture is taken.

Jackie Hallmark patiently waits for graduation.

Alma Rodriguez and Crystal Gomez take a picture together as a sign of their ongoing friendship.

Frankie Davila and Carlos Flores, both members of the soccer team, take a picture together.

Barbara Schauer and Kristen Dill recall the years of fun they had in high school.

Brandon Trevino, Sarah Cruse, and Molly Fritz strike a pose as they wait to get on their cap and gown — well, except for Molly.

Lizette Solis poses as she walks to the meeting room.

Mika Mathews and Justin Mendieta hug each other as a sign of their friendship that will never end.

Winter Ball

Saturday Night Live

Seniors Kristen Dill, Kerith Vara, Susan Wardle, Mika Matthews, and Lauren Gonzales pose for a quick picture after leaving the dance floor.

Although the Homecoming Dance was cancelled this year, the Science Club came to the students' rescue by throwing a semi-formal Winter Ball on December 19, 1998. Glitz and glitter along with jeans(!?) were seen on the dance floor as students danced the night away and had a blast doing it.

Andrew Matey, Charlotte Castaneda, Sarah Steele, and Elaina Barroso have fun at the Macaroni Grill with friends and dates prior to the dance.

Students and their dates head to the dance floor with the first sound of a good song.

Roxana Apacible and Kathryn Tabone take a break from the dance floor to relax and socialize.

Graduate Monica Valadez, seniors Raquel Gonzales and Thomas Lazo, and friend Nick Cabral sing their hearts out together at the dance.

Angels who dedicate themselves to achieving the best they possibly can academically are honorably rewarded by being inducted to the Incarnate Word Academy La Salle Chapter of the National Honor Society. Top ranked students, those keeping a ninety-five average or higher in their classes and who have the responsible reputation to garner a teacher recommendation may be selected for the Honor Society. Along with maintaining scholarly excellence, NHS members offer a much needed service to the community: tutoring. NHS members also publish a literary magazine in the spring. On the right-hand bottom corner, we have the 1st Place Poem that was chosen this year. 1st Place was won by Lizette Solis, 2nd Place by Leslie Meyer and 3rd Place by Robert Ertzner. TO HALLOWEEN CANDY

Snickers, Candy Corn, Mars, and Reese's Pieces, Tootsie Rolls, Milky Ways, Starbursts, and Hershey's Kisses.

Why, oh why, do you tease my hunger so,
Forcing me to silence my stomach with a stern "no?"

There in the aisle, you flirt with my appetite,
Teasing it with your good looks and your sweet might.

I read your labels, knowing you do more harm than good,
Yet this gluttonous lion within me roars for unnecessary food.

No, I will not succumb to your sweet-talk this time around;
Spare your efforts until the children my doorbell do sound.

Snickers, Candy Corn, Mars, and Reese's Pieces,
Tootsie Rolls, Milky Ways, Starbursts, and Hershey's Kisses.

If "the pleasure of the stomach is the beginning and root of all good,"
Then Epicurus would surely mock the aversion to you, O junk food.

Mu Alpha Theta

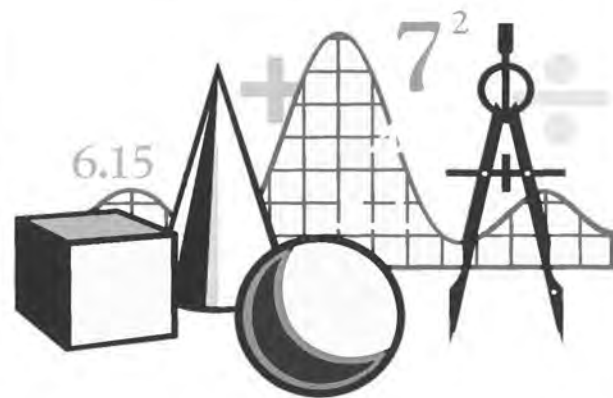

Mu Alpha Theta is a society willing to help those students in need of assistance studying math. When available, members were willing to help students, and had scheduled tutoring sessions on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Students simply notified a Mu Alpha Theta member or Sr. Catherine Brehony, the sponsor, if a tutor was needed. Mu Alpha Theta was important to many by helping to raise grades and improve students knowledge and understanding of math.

The sponsor of Mu Alpha Theta, Sr. Catherine always has time to help students whenever they need it in a math subject. Her smile always warms the hearts of others.

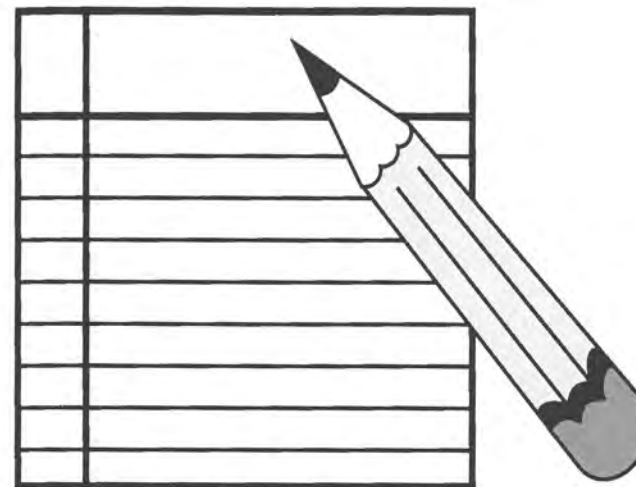

Members of Mu Alpha Theta gather in a classroom and wait for a lunch meeting to begin.

POLITICAL CLUB

Young Democrats and Republicans of tomorrow argued the grounds for such dividing issues as capital punishment and withdrawal from the United Nations. Though few opinions were persuaded, all the political club members had fun speaking their minds. With the period drawing to a close, sides would speak their final arguments and leave until the next debate.

YOU DON'T SAY

P.A.L.S. stands for Peer, Accepting, Learning and Sharing group. P.A.L.S. is a counseling group and also acts as peer mediation for all students of IWA. If a student doesn't want to talk to a teacher or a staff member, he or she can talk to a P.A.L.S. member. All P.A.L.S. are sworn to secrecy and any student can have confidence in telling a P.A.L. his or her problems. All the P.A.L.S. are specifically trained to listen to other's problems whenever in need of help. The P.A.L.S. sponsored a taquito sale and a Christmas food drive for the unfortunate people in Corpus Christi. "P.A.L.S. is one of the most successful clubs at IWA", Mrs. Isabel Cavazos, sponsor, said.

The new P.A.L.S. members, both high school and junior high students, attended a seminar to learn the rules, principles, and fundamentals of being a P.A.L. The P.A.L.S. had fun at this seminar and they also learned a great deal, too.

The Thespians goof around and even Mrs. Hasse gets in the action! The Thespians took acting very seriously but always took the time to have some fun.

Cyrus Mallison shows off the donkey head that he made for "A Midsummer Night's Dream". Cyrus was very crafty and beneficial to the Thespians when it came to props.

The Thespians are a National Honors Association for actors and actresses all over. This year the Thespians consisted of a small number of people but the director Mrs. Andrea Hasse was not disappointed at all. This year the president was Kelly Caldwell, historian was Juli Kim and Katherine Tabone was secretary. The Thespians participated in several competitions and attended many workshops to improve their acting skills.

Mrs. Hasse takes a breather from her work to strike a thoughtful pose for the camera. Mrs. Hasse had many wonderful ideas.

7th Heaven Choir

This year the choir consisted of of 47 students, a combination of freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors. Even though it had less students than last year, the sound quality was excellent. It had more boys this year which made a powerhouse of sound. The students participated in many concerts and numerous contests. Mrs. Kathleen Fowler was the director and teacher.

Cindy Gonzalez and Staci Johnson sing their hearts out at a choir performance.

Dorian Cordero made it into the top five at Region Competition. This qualified him to go to State Competition.

Mrs. Fowler helps Chinezeh Mogbo fix her tie before she goes to perform. Mrs. Fowler always made sure that her students looked their best for each performance.

THE IWA BAND

Sr. Rosa stands proud on her podium.

This year, the IWA High School Band has lead a very productive run. Not only has the band grown in size, but it has also joined together with the eighth grade band from the middle school.

The IWA band has been making great progress and added a few new things to their agenda. They have incorporated themselves into contests such as Regional Band. Unfortunately, even though they won an award in last years parade, they have decided to drop the marching parade.

The band played concert after concert this year, from school functions to auctions. The band has improved by leaps and bounds and if they continue in this pattern, we can expect even greater things from them next year.

THE IWA BAND

Chris Medina and Scott Grow play their trumpets diligently while under the direction of Sr. Rosa, along with another trumpet from 8th grade.

Justin Nauer and Travis Schendel warm up with the rest of the band by playing the B flat scale.

Don't we all just feel like we need to take the time out to relieve the stress of daily life. The IWA band is caught in the act.

Tim Castillo, Curtis Kelly and Ryan Reyna make up the trombone section of the band. They take the lead through many lively songs.

Ryan Murray shares stands with Kayty Carangelo who plays away to the music on her flute.

SPORTS TALK

Fanatic -Pep Rallies

The Juniors show their Angel spirit in various ways at the pep rally. The Juniors proved to have the most spirit as they won the spirit competition.

Sophomores stand and cheer as they show their spirit for their class. The underclassmen proved their spirit by challenging the upperclassmen during the spirit competitions.

The Battle of the Spirit Stick

Seniors Lauren Gonzales, Mika Mathews, and Susan Wardle show their school spirit by painting their faces red and white the traditional school colors. The pep rallies were a chance for students to show as much spirit as possible.

The Juniors stood and cheered as the cheerleaders threw candy into the crowds. The candy meant the end of the rally was near but many of the students still had plenty of energy left in them.

Juniors Allison Crain and Kelly McGettrick led the Junior class during the rally. The Juniors made many posters and bought noise makers in order to win the spirit competition.

The Seniors stood and watched as the cheerleaders began the pep rally. This year's senior class proved to have tons of spirit.

The cheerleaders began the pep rally with a new cheer. Each cheerleader spent many hours preparing for the first rally of the year.

WHO'S WHO

Congratulations to Mrs. Clelia Casey and Mrs. Kathleen Fowler who have been included in Who's Who Among America's Teachers 1998. Teachers were selected based on nomination by students.

TWO GUYS, A GIRL

The senior class of '99 waited calmly for their off campus lunch. It was like waiting for a new season of one of their favorite TV shows to air. Every senior couldn't wait to hear the words "Seniors can now go off campus for lunch." Some of us new exactly where we wanted to go while others didn't. Not every senior had a car but thanks to their closest friends, they were able to go off campus too.
