Mission

Fairfield College Preparatory School is a Jesuit, Catholic School of excellence forming young men of intellectual competence, who possess the conscience to make wise decisions, a compassion for others, and a commitment to justice in our global society.

For Others

Thank you for being part of our vibrant Fairfield College Preparatory School community. As board chair and the mother of two Prep alumni, I am deeply grateful for your loyalty to our school, caring for our boys, and generous support.

Fairfield Prep has a long tradition of educating young men with the intention of forming Ignatian "men for others." Here, cura personalis—care of the whole person—is achieved by providing a well-rounded education that allows young men to grow in intellectual competence, on the athletic field, through arts, and spiritually. Looking back on the past year, I see a steadfast commitment toward our vision of encouraging young men to find the strength within to rise to the highest levels of personal achievement and graduate as leaders in an interconnected and complex world.

While honoring this commitment, Prep continues to reflect on the school resources needed to support our holistic approach to education. We have increased course offerings and expanded advising and counseling. To support the social-emotional well-being of the boys, Prep added a clinical Social Worker. In addition, an identified need for a specialist to work with our diverse learners led to the formation of a new position, the Director of Academic Support.

Reaching for these higher ideals and providing a nurturing environment in which our young men gain confidence and support one another requires ongoing reinvestment in our campus. The school's recent capital investments, including new labs within the McLeod Innovation Center, renovated offices for School and College Counseling, and the recently turfed Grauert Field, strive to enhance physical space that encourages learning and collaboration in line with our Jesuit, Catholic tradition. Though the needs of teen boys can be challenging and complex, the Prep Brotherhood provides a nurturing environment in which our young men gain confidence and excel.

Leading the Board of Governors has been a pleasure, and is exciting, rewarding, and enjoyable. We could not do our vital work for the young men of Prep without the steadfast support from you and the entire Prep community. Thank you for making our vision possible. You embody our mission, and the Governors are truly grateful.

Respectfully yours,

Sally Bednar

Retreats, community service, and extra-curricular activities play a transformative role in cementing students' dedication to each other and to the Jesuit mission. In creating an environment rooted in fellowship and camaraderie, Prep allows young men to discover and embrace their authentic selves. These programs are made possible by the generous support of our community, allowing our students to immerse themselves in serving for the greater glory of God.

Commit to Care

SERVICE AWAKENS AWARENESS, ACTION FOR OTHERS

Ignatian service opportunities are woven into the fabric of student life at Prep, designed to open the eyes, hearts, and minds of the boys so that they develop as "Men for Others" in their faith as well as actions.

The school's four-year community service program progressively moves students through meaningful volunteer work that culminates in immersive experiences on campus and out in the community. Through their service, young men feel empowered to elevate themselves as they mature in the realization that their time and talents are meant to be shared with others for the benefit of the greater good.

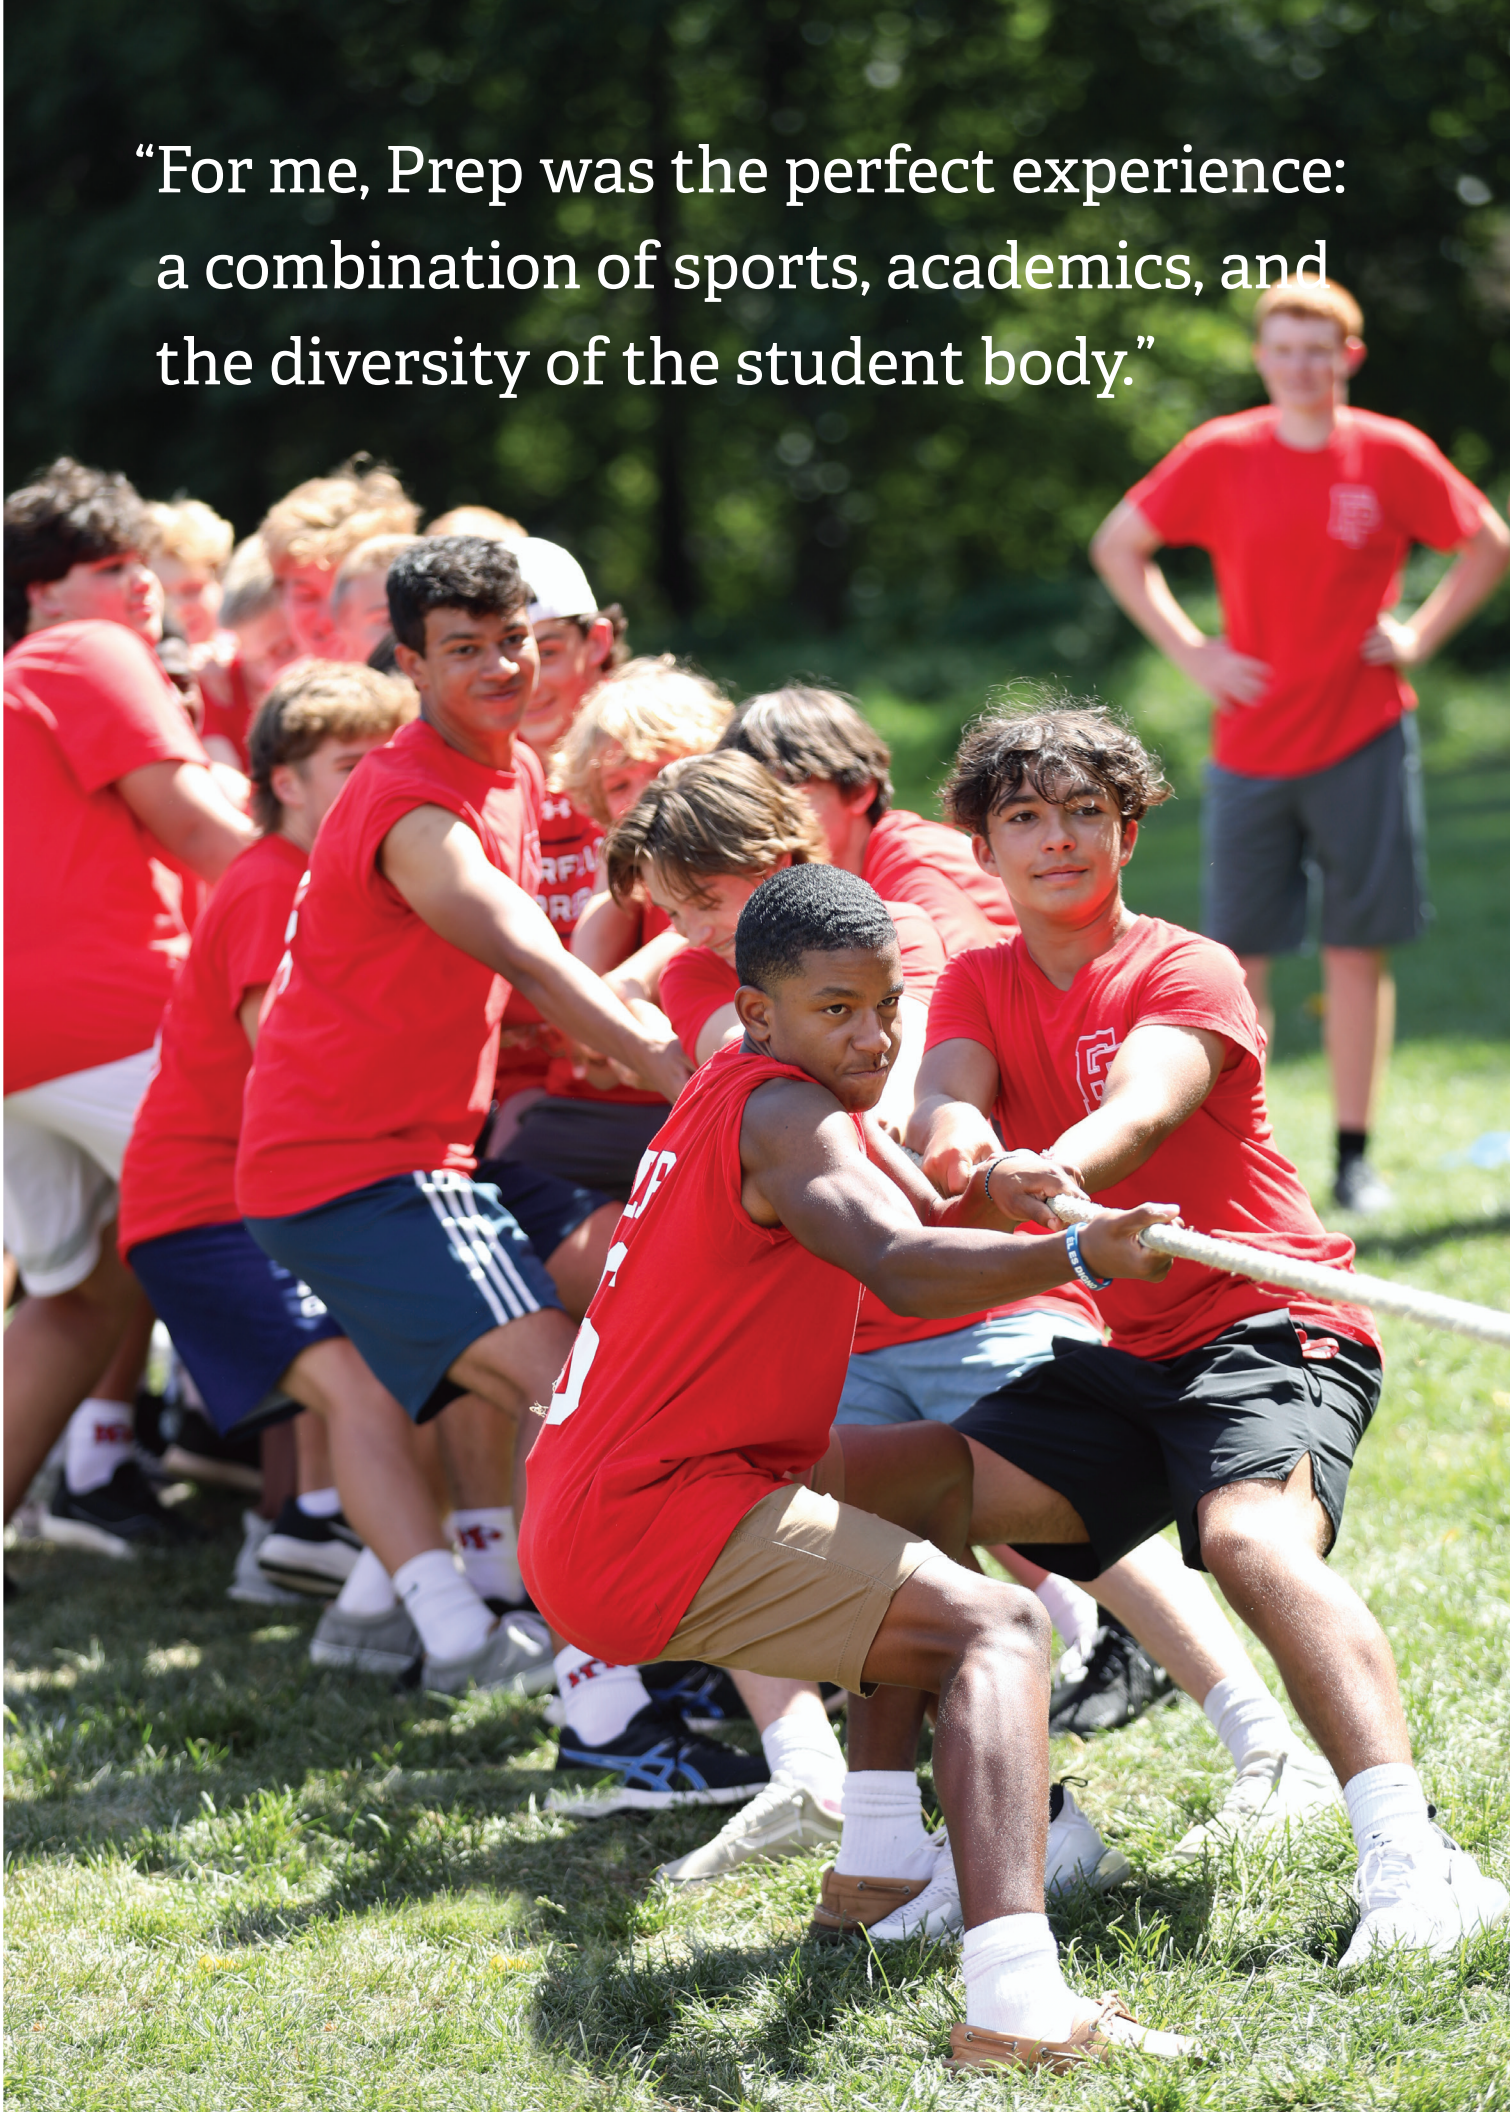

One such immersive service experience, known as the Urban Plunge, offers ways for students to contribute to our neighboring community. There, the boys work for up to 48 hours at schools and other non-profits to support initiatives. One recent example of a Plunge project includes cleaning the yard of a Catholic elementary school that was competing for a grant to build a playground on their property. School leadership believed their chances of winning the grant might improve if their site was cleared, prepared, and ready for a build.

Unique to the March Plunge this year, Prep was joined by students from our brother Jesuit school, Belen Jesuit Preparatory School in Miami, where they teamed up at Nourish Bridgeport, a non-profit with a food pantry and soup kitchen for hot meals. Students constructed raised beds for kitchen gardens that Nourish Bridgeport can use to supplement fresh-food offerings.

Students not only contributed to an important hunger-fighting project, but they also experienced first-hand the strength and shared vision of the larger Jesuit community. This commitment to serving others encourages students to discover themselves and God in the process.

"If someone is hurting or hungry, we can help," said Elaine Clark, Prep's Academic Dean, an advisor and volunteer with the Plunge. "The students see close up that we're all in this together, which is very much part of our mission. In this weary world, we strive to be a garden for growing good leaders who will positively impact the world around them," she said.

"For me, Prep was the perfect experience:
a combination of sports, academics, and the diversity of the student body."

Build the Brotherhood

LOOKING LONG TERM

"Scholarships for three or five boys this year, next year, and the year after. And after I'm gone, forever. That's my objective," says Don Kiernan '58, explaining why he and his wife, Pat, pledged $1.5 million to Fairfield Prep. "I want to give the opportunity to get a first-rate Prep education to young men whose families might not be able to afford it."

Don explains that he was able to attend Prep 65 years ago because his hometown, Trumbull, didn't have a public high school. "You could go to a neighboring public high school or private school, like Prep, and Trumbull would pay," he continues. "My parents liked the fact that Prep offered a Catholic, Jesuit education. I liked that Prep had a wonderful reputation in sports. When you're an eighth grader, that's something really enticing."

Don recalls his Prep experience as "all-encompassing." "Football became an outsized part of my life," says Don, who is proud to have played on Prep's championship team. "But you just didn't play football; you also had to be on the track team because that was your spring training. And your teammates were your closest friends. From the time you woke up in the morning to the time you went to bed at night, you were doing something with your teammates."

Looking back, Don appreciates the socioeconomic diversity in the Prep student body as well as the mix of backgrounds and experiences. "We came from all over the area and economic spectrum. Our fathers were firemen, factory foremen, machinists, judges, doctors, and Wall Street bankers. Despite our differences, the integration was immediate. You're all sitting in the same class, struggling through Latin."

Don values the academic discipline he gained at Prep. Beyond book learning, he is also grateful that Prep provided "an environment that taught right versus wrong, a commitment to personal excellence, and how to be a good friend. There wasn't a course in it, but you learned it all the same. It was built into your DNA."

Following Prep, Don graduated magna cum laude from Boston College and then served in the U.S. Navy as a surface warfare officer. After the Navy, he obtained a CPA certificate and worked for Arthur Young & Company in their accounting practice. He went on to earn a master's in operations research from Florida State University and had a long and successful career with Arthur Young's national consulting practice. Don finished his full-time business career at SBC Communications as senior executive vice president and chief financial officer. He played a key role in SBC's expansion from a five-state regional phone company to a multi-national communications company, which is now AT&T.

The Kiernans retired in 2001 and now split their time between Florida and Michigan, which allows them to pursue their passion for sailing. In recent years, the couple have focused their philanthropy on K-12 education "because that's where you develop your character," Don says. In 2018, Don and Pat established the Kiernan Family Scholarship at Prep and have enjoyed watching "their" student on his Prep journey. The experience inspired them to pledge $1.5 million earlier this year. They will give $100,000 a year for the next five years and then a $1 million bequest to permanently endow the scholarship while also benefiting today's students.

"I'm smiling to myself. I feel good about it," Don concludes, reflecting on the gift's impact. "For me, Prep was the perfect experience: a combination of sports, academics, and the diversity of the student body. I loved Boston College. I loved my experience in the Navy, and I had great luck in my business career. But I would still say that, second to my family, Prep was the best experience of my life." And thanks to Kiernan's generosity, more students will benefit from that very same experience.

"We're surrounding our students with more adults who really care about them and who are specialized in certain areas."

Invest in Intellect

KEEPING CURRENT FOR TODAY'S TEENS

Prep's dedication to a holistic education that develops a student's mind, body, and spirit necessitates changes over time to how the school approaches education.

As we deepened our manner of student support and academic offerings, we brought onto the team a clinical Social Worker experienced in working with teens and young adults. This professional works with students one on one during crisis or other moments of need, and in groups through workshops that cover mental health topics that are important in our students' lives and allow them to continue to develop in our Jesuit, Catholic mission.

This addition allows School Counselors to devote more time in helping students with matters such as course selection, social-emotional learning, adjustments to high school life at Fairfield Prep, and other questions they might have as they navigate their high school experience.

We also hired a Director of Academic Support to work with students, families, and faculty to create an optimal learning environment for all students. This individual has been instrumental in evaluating students for learning differences, educating faculty so they can support all learners in the classroom, and supporting students in their academic endeavors.

A second component of our dedication to cura personalis was demonstrated in two full days of professional development sessions for our faculty. The first looked at knowing today's diverse learners and what they experience in the classroom, while the second, taking into consideration cutting-edge research on boys and how they learn, focused on how Prep can continue to develop young men of conscience, compassion, and character.

Finally, we expanded the range of learning opportunities for our boys. We added a dual-degree class in conjunction with Fairfield University in Environmental Justice for students ready to accept the challenge of college-level coursework and begin earning college credits. In the McLeod Innovation Center, we created an Esports team and facility for students who want to participate in competitive electronic games and learn the important value of teamwork and brotherhood in the context of these games, and we introduced an opportunity to make a guitar in the new Guitar Ensemble class.

Through each of these investments, we seek to provide our boys with the staff, the resources, the academic offerings, and the spaces that will inspire and empower them to achieve more. "Being a teenager today is different from what it has been in the past, and it's harder than has ever been," said Principal Tim Dee. "The complexities of it are new, different, and changing. We're creating an environment with strong adults who can be role models for students, who will guide them and who will walk alongside them as these students strive to become the Graduate at Graduation, all while keeping the mission of our school at the heart of it all."

College Matriculations

Fairfield Prep is committed to preparing boys for an ever-changing world by laying a solid foundation that they will build on as they become men for others. We are extremely proud of and excited for our Class of 2023 graduates as they "go forth and set the world on fire."

"I donate to Prep because someone donated their money so that I could attend. Without their selflessness and generosity, I wouldn't be a member of this glorious Jesuit tradition. It's my hope that by giving to Prep, I too can be the catalyst for my little brother's transformative four-year journey."

"In the true Ignatian spirit, the generosity of Prep alumni, parents, and friends is not to be outdone, and last year was no exception. Gifts to Prep addressed our critical need to maintain access through financial aid and scholarship, to invest in gifted Ignatian educators and staff who support our boys, and to maintain our signature programs and state-of-the-art facilities. God bless our Prep Brotherhood and all who give selflessly to support it."

"I give to Prep because I remember the power of my own transformative experience, and because I get to see firsthand the transformation of boys from all walks of life within the walls of Prep today. My annual gift to Prep helps ensure that any young man, regardless of his family's ability to pay, gets the opportunity to transform himself through that same Prep experience."

"I give to Prep out of gratitude for everything that Prep has given to me. The strength of its academic programs and the high quality of its teachers nurtured my love of learning which served me well in college and beyond. The fellowship and camaraderie of the students provided me with lifelong friends. Finally, the moral compass inspired by the Jesuit teaching tradition has helped me navigate through life's dilemmas. By making a contribution, I hope to enable future young men to similarly benefit from everything that Prep has to offer."

For Others | The 2024 Fairfield Prep Fund
July 1, 2023 through June 30, 2024

At Prep, we recognize that everything we have is a gift.

- The opportunities for our students to grow in mind and spirit as men for others
- Our talented faculty's example of generous service
- Prep's incredible, well-maintained facilities that offer students an amazing learning environment

All gifts, made possible in part by generous donations, large and small, to the Fairfield Prep Fund.

At Prep, our Jesuit way of life begins with gratitude and leads to generosity. Give thanks for all you've been given by supporting the Fairfield Prep Fund, and help shape the next generation of men for others.

Can the brotherhood count on you and your support?
