Academic Program

Concordia International School Hanoi offers a rigorous, college preparatory curriculum based on American standards and benchmarks. All instruction is in English with the exception of world languages. A few students may be assigned to Concordia's EAL program when their demonstrated English skills are one grade or below recommended grade level proficiency, and upon completion of the program they are then eligible to enroll in one of the World Language classes. In addition to classes taught on campus, students have the option to petition to enroll in online courses through Virtual High School. These classes are typically offered when there is a scheduling conflict, when a student is requesting a course that is not on offer in Concordia's curriculum, or when a student is striving to complete a graduation requirement.

Applied Learning Labs

Applied Learning Labs are unique and advanced learning opportunities provided to students who are interested in producing knowledge. These intensive learning opportunities are tailored to a particular discipline, where students may choose to produce research targeted toward submitting a conference paper or paper for journal publication, or develop and host an art show, direct a movie or play, produce a film, or other activities designed to contribute to the body of knowledge in a particular area of study.

Independent Research: Science/Social Sciences

This advanced research course is available to a select number of students who have demonstrated exceptional academic achievement in the sciences or social sciences and are interested in engaging in an intensive year long research project with a faculty mentor.

Wellness

The Concordia wellness program uses grade-level seminar classes to help students develop a healthy lifestyle, and strategies for coping with academic rigors and life challenges. The program encompasses the use of weekly wellness surveys to help track students mental health, in conjunction with classroom instruction regarding physical and emotional health, social skill development, university and career preparation, and life wellness components to facilitate the development of the whole student.
