

Diggin' Dinosaurs

Bolles Lower School Whitehurst Campus Kindergartners roared during KCOVE Oct. 3, wearing dinosaur masks and hats, and sporting hand-crafted paleontologist vests as they rotated through interactive stations ranging from excavating dinosaur figurines in the sand pit to chiseling "fossils" out of hardened clay.

KCOVE stands for Kindergarten Creating Outdoor adVentures through Exploration. It is located outside behind the two Kindergarten classrooms and includes a water table, a sunken boat in a sand digging area, several outdoor tables and learning tools. Kindergarteners participate in KCOVE twice per month from September through May, with each KCOVE having a specific theme that the teachers incorporate into their curriculum.
