Dear Oakland Unified Community,

The talks between the District's negotiations team and the team from the Oakland Education Association continue, but as yet, there is still no agreement. That means the District is preparing for tomorrow, day 7 of the teachers' strike. As negotiations continue, we are always hopeful that a deal is imminent, but because there is no deal yet, we must give our community enough notice to make alternate plans. We will update you again as soon as we can.

Thank you for your patience and understanding as we continue to work through this process.

In community,
