Dear Oakland Unified Community,

For a fourth day in a row, many students across OUSD were out of their schools in a teachers' strike that should never have happened in the first place. Students belong in class where teaching and learning can continue in full, and where they can access many supports including nutrition services and social emotional support. Fortunately, dedicated staff from schools and the central office have been at schools, keeping them open and accessible to students who have been attending. We thank them for all their help.

We remain encouraged that the District's negotiations team and OEA's negotiators are making progress in their discussions, but they still have yet to come to an agreement. That means we are preparing for a fifth straight day of the teachers' strike on Wednesday, May 10.

Thank you for your patience and understanding as we work towards an agreement that ends the strike.

In community,
