

A Tree Talk by Steve Weinsier in 1993

If there is one thing that sums up my talk, it is the phrase: It is not what you can do, but what you will do that is important. You are not judged by your potential. You are judged by what you do. Instead of thinking that you can be more of a leader, work hard on being one ... All of us are lucky enough to have the potential to be whoever we want to be and to do whatever we want to do, but for this to happen, we have to reach that potential. You can improve yourself, but will you? Do you have enough desire to reach your potential? So it is the bottom of the ninth. You are down by one run, and there is a man on third. The count is full. Here is the pitch. It is coming right over the plate. You swing and ... I'll let you decide.
