

A Tree Talk by John Marshall in 1992

As I look back over my many years of involvement with Pasquaney, I recognize what camp means to me and how much it has done for me over the last 25 years. Almost every day of my life I am reminded of and put into use the many values that we discuss and learn here. Three values that I learned here and are especially important to me are friendship, perseverance, and doing the little things right.
