

A Tree Talk by Alex Southall in 1990

Take small risks by learning something new this summer like playing tennis, hitting a baseball or trying out for a play. Don't be afraid of what others will think. Focus on what you will gain. Be a contributor and a leader. You have to be willing to try something new if you are to learn and grow as an individual. Taking risks and broadening your horizons is key to your personal growth, so have fun over the next few weeks and try something new.
