V. COMMITTEE REPORTS

A. Committee of the Board Meeting of January 26, 2010

The agenda consisted of: Approval of the proposed 2010-11 District Calendar; a review of the Board Academic Awards Criteria and a work session covering: board representation on external committees and district councils, board budget considerations for 2010-11 and the application process for BFAC and CEAC.

1. Proposed 2010-2011 District Calendar

The proposed calendar was developed in accordance with Board policy and the Saint Paul Public Schools Strategic Plan for Continued Excellence by the School Calendar Task Force. The committee had developed a strong instructional calendar for the 2010-2011 school year. After receiving the committee’s recommended calendar, administration held a “meet and confer” session with the Professional Issues Committee (PIC) of the Saint Paul Federation of Teachers at which time the calendar was discussed and modified to better accommodate the needs of staff and families.

Some notable revisions for 2010-2011 include:

- The start date will be the first Tuesday after Labor Day.
- Winter Vacation will be a two-week break for students and staff.
- Spring break will be moved up so that it does not interfere with preparation for high stakes testing and semester exams.
- The calendar maintains the practice of four Early Release Days for professional development. However, to better accommodate families, the early release days have been moved from Wednesdays to Fridays for the 2010-2011 calendar.
- June 14 is the last day for students and June 15 the last day for staff.
- The summer session will begin on Monday, June 27, 2011.
- Parent Teacher Conferences will be September 7, 8 for Kindergarten students, November 12 and March 18 for Kindergarten and elementary students. Secondary conferences are site decisions.
- New Teacher Orientation will be held on August 27.

RECOMMENDED MOTION: That the Board of Education approved the 2010-2011 District Calendar.

The motion passed with the following roll call vote:

Ms. O’Connell       Yes

Mr. Hardy           Yes
Ms. Kong-Thao       Yes

2. Board Academic Awards Criteria

Administration reviewed the current criteria for the BOE Academic Award Criteria and provided a brief history of the awards. The awards recognize superior academic, artistic, and performance in the areas of: visual and performing arts, world languages, social studies, mathematics, science & technology, writing & speaking, community service and problem solving.
The number of students recognized improved from 2008 to 2009 by 31.2% and the number of schools participating increased by 20%.

Current efforts to increase participation include such things as:

- Presentations which provided staff, teachers and families information regarding underachievement of persons of color and the identification and services for these students.
- Recommendations that schools participate in a minimum of two academic and/or visual or performing art competitions and include at least two competitions in their annual SCIP.
- Encouraging schools to enlist support from families to run competitions.
- Revisiting the criteria annually to ensure all SPPS students are being honored
- Increasing communication between building principals and Gifted Services.

Targets for 2009-10 are an increase of 10% in students nominated for awards (73 additional students) and 20% increase in number of schools with award winning recipients (8 additional schools.)

For secondary students administration recommended the award presentations be held at secondary sites during the school day.

RECOMMENDED MOTION: That the Board of Education continue with the Elementary Academic Award Ceremony as it has been done in the past for the 09-10 school year. That recognitions for secondary students be done at their school sites with Board participation wherever possible and that a new category of Recognition of Student Achievement be added to the Board Agenda for the remaining Board of Education meetings through June so that Academic Achievement recognition can be made for individual students during the meetings. (This would be limited to secondary students for this year.)

c. BFAC/CEAC – Process

The Board Chair provided background on the committee assignment process. She indicated there were several areas she wished to review relative to the committees:

- The composition of the committees – the profile of the committee relative to inclusion and diversity.
- The timing aspects of committee appointments – rather than applicants being reviewed in terms of the whole, they are now being treated individually as they come in.
- Redefining the process and addressing issues of application management and timeframes around applications
- Considerations around diversity of experience and ethnicity
- The current compliment of the committees
- Are there vacancies and, if so, the urgency of filling those
- How are the committees currently functioning with their current compliment of members.

Following in-depth discussion the following motions were made:

RECOMMENDED MOTION: That the Board of Education accept no new applications for CEAC so the committee remains as it currently stands with eight members and that the Board recruit up to three more members for BFAC with applications submitted no later than February 11. No additional applications would be accepted after the February 11 date for this year's BFAC committee.

VIII. SUPERINTENDENT’S REPORT

A. American Recovery & Reinvestment Act (ARRA) Update

In June, 2009 SPPS approved a plan for use of ARRA funds along with the district’s 2009-10 budget. ARRA provided $29.1 million in State Fiscal Stabilization Funds (SFSF) and $28.9 million in Title I and Special Education funds to SPPS over two years. ARRA funding is for short-term use only and is intended to propel reform efforts while also saving and creating jobs.

In planning for its used of ARRA funds, SPPS followed Federal and State guidelines related to the use of ARRA funding while incorporating SPPS stakeholder input. ARRA funds have been dedicated to three main areas:

- Improving instructional and system practices, including additional staff and resources at Title I schools
• Professional development for staff, primarily teachers, with coaching support
• Data systems improvement, so teachers can better understand student progress

To the greatest extent possible, resources were directed to schools for improvement of student outcomes while diverting the reporting burden to the central office.

State Fiscal Stabilization Funds did not generate any new revenue for the district. The State replaced $29.1 million in state allocated General Fund revenue with federal funds and added a reporting requirement. This was applied to administrative staff positions (289.1 full-time equivalents) during the first half of 2009-10 in order to avoid paperwork burden at school sites. It maintained existing fund positions (previously funded by State aid) but added time and effort reporting requirements. The district met all Federal and State guidelines for expenditure and spent the money in the first six months of FY 10 relieving some of the cash flow strain.

Title I allocations (2009-11), a total of $7.6 million, were directed to services for students with $3.6 million still awaiting federal waiver for allocations to Title I schools in SY 2010-11. District AYP Professional Development, a total of $8.6 million, was directed toward Cultural Proficiency Professional Development ($1.4 M) and elementary and secondary reform ($7.2 M): These areas included: the Leadership and Learning Center partnership; support for implementation of Mondo at all elementary schools; secondary curriculum and instruction reform; support for development of a district-wide Pyramid of Interventions and Peer Assistance and Review for SY 2010-11. It was also used to support Systemic Implementation of ARRA initiatives including Evaluation Reporting and Accounting and indirect costs and other Title I required services (parent involvement and equitable services).

IDEA Allocation (2009-11) included Early Intervention Services (EIS) to support general education interventions aimed at reducing referrals to special education ($1.5 million) and Special Education reform ($9.4 million) which will improve collaboration between general education and special education; permanently reduce paperwork burdens and improve IDEA compliance and provide equipment and professional development for Special Education teachers’ use of technology to improves success in the general curriculum.

To date $19.1 million has been awarded and reimbursed from the State Fiscal Stabilization Funds. The remaining funds will be released in the spring once the U.S. Department of Education award them to the Minnesota Department of Education. The remaining $10 million will be reimbursed to SPPS based upon expenditures incurred. Title I and IDEA will continued to monitor each of the main elements for necessary adjustments.

In developing evaluations for ARRA three questions will be addressed: (1) what is the level of implementation, (2) what is the impact on student achievement and (3) what is the impact on student engagement and behavior.

A description of the evaluation and reporting planning process was provided along with a description of the plan steps. There were seven key initiative areas:
• The Leadership and Learning Center
• Strengthening literacy instruction (Mondo, RIS)
• Assessments (MAP, End of Course)
• Data Management (data warehousing)
• Cultural proficiency professional development
• Special education redesign (special education collaboration and Universal Design for Learning, reform of EBD programming)
• Positive school-wide behavior model (PSB)

An extensive discussion on the specific details on each of the seven initiatives was provided.
The next steps include continuation of the refinement of the evaluation plan; monitoring implementation of key initiatives; ensuring sufficient support for evaluation efforts through June, 2011 and preparation of the end-of-year report including a comprehensive review of implementation to date.

The Board reiterated its request that a Glossary of Acronyms be developed for the district.

QUESTIONS/DISCUSSION:
- The term “short effectiveness measures,” what is the timeline? Response: Admin is looking at the end of the first full year of implementation, so June 2010.
- The way the term “short-term” is used it suggests you will be looking at long-term evaluation which will go beyond the end of the funding cycle? Are the measures used for longer-term evaluation natural extensions of those used for the short-term or are there different ones which might come into play? Response: This is the heart of the challenges facing the evaluation process; how the short term efforts are going to pay long-term dividends. For example, literacy supports; can the efforts in 09-10 be connected to work that is taking place in the junior high this year to improve graduation rates in 2014 or 2015. Short term is within the first 12 months; intermediate/long-term is 24 months and we will want to see some impact on the more sustainable indicators now in existence and there should be some tails to that carrying forward into future years. This is an on-going issue in each area; finding ways to measure long-term effectiveness. The ARRA funding has created additional burdens in that the district not only has to report out on the use of the original Federal ARRA funding but also on the effect of the State supplanted funds as well. The results are expected over a short period of time. Additionally it will be difficult to maintain some of the efforts with further budget cuts facing the district for the next several years.
- The board commended the focus on implementation measures; implementation is a key point to achieving long-term results and encouraged administration to tie into the Strategic Plan metrics for longer term measures to avoid creating unnecessary complications in measurements.
- On slide 9, can the Board get a financial report, similar to the budget report, which looks at the income in some of the general categories by dollars? Particular more detail in the costs being lower and higher that anticipated in various areas. Response: Some of the money was put into slightly different categories than originally budgeted. The Superintendent indicated she was pushing for data which might allow some predictions of where the district will be with the MCAs (fall compared to winter). This will allow staff to narrow down to the areas where the students need additional support. Having his data should create a different way of thinking about and providing instruction. Information will be shared as it becomes available.
- Concern was express on the timeline of cultural proficiency professional development and the ability to provide it for the rest of the staff? Response: Much thought was put into determining how to do to 6,000 employees in two years. There will be a need to work on how to adjust and adapt to provide training next year in a high quality manner. Needs will have to be looked at, particularly the issue of initiative fatigue. It is the district’s intention to provide strong proactive training to all employees in the district in order to better serve students. The district must be willing to change plans to best benefit the district and staff; flexibility is key.
- What was to original scope? Response: Training all staff in cultural proficiency in a two year period..
- The evaluation measures will look at change. What is the process for setting specific benchmarks against which the evaluation results will be compared? Response: This is an on-going issue being looked at. It was desired to have simple measures many of which do not have much to benchmark against because they weren’t there previously. In terms of some of the longer term pieces such as the MAP data, the Fall 2009 data will need to be used as the baseline to assess progress. Strategic plan indicators were looked at in the process of identifying measurable outcomes.
- A board member commented they looked forward to the refinement of the evaluation systems, the extension of evaluation into everything being done and establishment of benchmarks against past performance (both internal and external). The board and the public will then hear more about this as it is couched within the evaluation framework rather than random results

- On slide 27, what do Special Education Resource Coordinators do? Response: They were hired to help with paperwork reduction, to help streamline better compliance with IDEA requirements and to establish better systems for future use. They are helping to establish consistency across buildings, updating IEPs and standardizing it all into a data base. They work directly with the schools and with Special Education staff to provide support to staff and work with technology in the schools.

- There are student supports and staff and system supports. As the issue of PSB is addressed, do school-wide behavioral expectations address things like attendance and credit sufficiency or is it a matter of a check on student behavior? Response: Schools works toward increasing positive behavior in buildings which address consistency across schools, across teachers, at all levels. Attendance and credit sufficiency are not part of PSB. PSB provides behavior and expectations which whole buildings are to follow to create a set of expectations for all students within the buildings.

- If students aren’t in school, all applications become weaker. How is attendance recorded? Is it seen as positive behavior and an intervention/prevention tool versus being just an expectation? Response: PSB provides positive interventions which create a climate which makes students want to be in school. It provides a more positive experience in school so more students are motivated to attend school. Data shows suspensions have been diminished and this is, in large part, from the provision of more support to students so they don’t have to be out of school.

- Slide 22, there are opportunities in the district to improve technology systems. Is the evaluation goal to look at how information for student achievement, etc. is shared within the district or are opportunities being looked at to move technology into the 21st century and make it more equitable across buildings? Response: Both, the district has data, how it is being used and streamlined is the issue. There is no across-the-board, consistent data system in the district but a mix determined largely by schools. Now the district is working to align ways of collecting the data and providing a better way for staff and administrative support to use the data to align/focus instruction. What the proposed system will do is collect all the data and warehouse it so is accessible and aligns to provide consistency to all users. The cost of the initial system is minimal, it is the maintenance of systems and updating of data that is the major investment. Currently the ARRA dollars are being used to provide the system but this system must be maintainable by the district over the next several years. The focus is internal in order to know where students are and to provide parents and community with more accurate data and to improve the learning curve of students by focusing on what needs to be addressed for each individual.

- Appreciation was expressed for the resources being put into the special education efforts which will provide better and more consistence service.

B. Preview of the 2010-2011 Budget Process
The Chief Business Officer provided an overview of the 2009-10 (current) budget shortfalls with a breakdown of areas contributing to the shortfall which totals $25.1 million. He reviewed the FY 10 adopted budget and the budget balancing plan which was implemented. He reviewed labor settlements/cash borrowings and unfunded requirements which are adding a potential of $3.1 million to the shortfall. He provided a mitigation proposal for FY 10 which includes reductions of $200,000 in transportation; $300,000 through a strategic hiring plan; $900,000 in enrollment adjustments; $449,000 from Central Administration; $600,000 General Fund operations and maintenance; $200,000 in cost shifts and $1 million from schools through a 1% reduction across all schools (in non-salary lines). This provided a total of $3.6 million in potential reductions.

The State economic forecast shows a deficit of $1.2 billion. 70% of this is due to reductions in income tax receipts. The next biennium is projected with a $5.4 billion deficit without the inclusion of inflation factors. Current law requires the state to withhold payments to school districts before it can borrow to cover cash flow. If SPPS money is withheld the district will need to borrow $25 million in April.
Planning for FY 2011 started in October 2009 with student projections with those numbers being continually refined since that point. The current projection for FY 11 is a shortfall of between $23 and $28 million. Several approaches have been looked at to mitigate the shortfalls. These include: the Chiefs developing 2, 5 and 10% reduction plans; the formation of a FY 11 Budget Assessment Team; the LLC Committee report; the Broad audits; a budget survey feedback implement and community feedback sessions.

A Budget Assessment Team has been established to provide recommendations on the budget which will be put into a report for review by Administration.

The Broad Associate will conduct an external review of the budget planning, the budget process and potential cutbacks which might be made. This work will help determine an inclusive and transparent budget reduction process. They will review and analyze:

- All SPPS budget documents, timelines, procedures, processes and overviews
- The constructs of the SPPS budget and budget planning
- The paradigms of the operations of the budget and district
- The costs inherent in the district site-based decision making paradigm
- The costs/expenditures/needs for the current use of educational facilities
- The costs and needs of the current educational structure, and
- Proposed reductions for FY 2011 and projected FY 2012.

It was reiterated that the district is facing a projected bottom line shortfall for the FY 2011 budget (General Funds) of $23 to $28 million.

Budget milestones have been established and include:

- Budget projection assessment
- BAT initial recommendation list
- LLC Committee report
- Broad alumni service report
- Budget Survey feedback
- Community engagement and feedback
- Administration balanced budget proposal
- Approval and adoption of a budget no later than June 30, 2010.

The Chief Business Officer provided a five year cumulative projected shortfall showing a bottom line shortfall by 2013-14 of $151 million in overall reductions. This is over the five year period of 2009-2014. Additionally, the 2006 referendum expires in 2013-14.

QUESTIONS/DISCUSSION:

- The projected shortfall, do the numbers assume flat or increased enrollment? Response: Projected enrollment is used for doing the assessments. It is not flat, it is based on projections (decreasing enrollment).
- Is there a monthly cash flow projection report which might be available to the Board? Response: Staff does projections, the Superintendent would need to decide how this would be provided. It was noted the Board did not want to make extra work or ask for additional reports but a month-by-month report through the end of the calendar year would be helpful. The Chief Business Officer indicated this would not make added work for staff and the information can be provided in any manner the Board wishes. Electronic delivery was indicated.
- On Slide 5 (FY 10 budget mitigation) those are actual dollars? Response: The money depicted was captured through a logistical assessment. The caveat is in the enrollment adjustment, if the State changes something the figures would not be accurate. The intention was to capture more ($3.6 Vs $3.1) and deal with slight risk mitigation in relation to State plans.
- Does administration anticipate any further mitigation needs? Response: Only in that the District does not know what the State will do. The figures shown are very attainable.
- The community engagement pieces in March what will this focus on and how will it relate to site-based decision making relative to budget reduction? Response: The committee has provided a recommendation which “trims the bear.” It cuts a little from many things, there are no drastic cuts. Broad will work with the district to look at what the district needs to do as an organization to realign the district and establish a strategy to mitigate district structure to address future deficits. They will help create a strategy to bring to the community and stakeholders for their input. Things have changed drastically since November so there is greater need of a plan on how the district will evolve.

- On page 9, the projected percentage reduction plans. This is a common approach and it assumes equitable current funding and the impact for equipment based on percentages. Would you unpack that? Response: This is primarily an exercise to find ideas of efficiencies using a defined strategy within a framework common to all. If any one of the percentages were taken and applied holistically across the district it, would be problematic. However, if you are looking for ideas, efficiencies and impacts this provides magnitudes for degrees of separation. This was done to change the conversation from what needs to be protected to what can be reduced. It is an exercise which provides a chance to see where the district can cut, what will impact schools and students the least. The District is looking at every angle within a very short timeline. The community does not understand the severity of cuts facing the district. The District and community need to look at the budget cuts from a very different perspective from what has been done in the past; major decisions have to be made with the bottom line being what is best for the kids..

- A question was posed by a board member to other board members asking if the board can gather what other districts are doing relative to budget cuts. This should be accomplished prior to the next board meeting.

- On Page 9, the budget survey, is this in place or being created? Response: It is in the development process right now.

- Will questions be included related to suggestions on how to increase enrollment? Are there actions on what the community can do to talk with legislators on providing help with education funding and what can Board members do? Can these considerations be incorporated into the survey? Response: At this point, due to the short timeframe to obtain input from the community and staff the district needs to be cautious about expanding what is being surveyed, we need to focus on the budget now. This may be something which could be done in a different manner. Allocations to schools cannot be made until the bigger budget cuts have been made. Concern was expressed that incorporating these unrelated areas would distract from the budget input. The District needs data that can be used, that points out general areas and how the public feels about cutting those areas.

- Support was expressed for keeping the survey focused. To get at some of the points mentioned and to frame it accurately about how we got to this point. It needs to be framed within the context of State budget cuts and shifts and unfunded Special Education mandates. Frame the discussion in straight forward terms that puts it into the context of Federal and State situations that make people aware of where to target their advocacy and ideas.

- The notion of the budget cuts minimizing the effects on schools and students. This all will affect students. A request was made to hear administration’s thoughts on (1) cutting the budget that affects student achievement gains the least; how can the District further its gains, minimize damage to the gains? (2) How is the District thinking about other external sources of support for programs deemed important? (3) The notion of amputation as opposed to trimming the bear? Are there ways to ask the questions differently? How is the District approaching conversations about those three items? Response: Because of the timeline the District needs to get together as a team and find a way to combine ideas and find what will work to improve student achievement. It needs to be a philosophical discussion with decisions made as a team. Sometimes a crisis brings the best results. The bottom line is improving achievement for all students.

- Administration was encouraged, as it thinks about reduction strategies, to also think about how to add through community partnerships and what can be brought back to the District to beef up what may have to be reduced.

- A board member encouraged the inclusion of one open-ended question on the survey on how to address the budget.
C. Organizational Audit
The Superintendent stated Broad provides resources and consultants to its alumni to provide audits at no cost to the district. Two keys tasks in this area are to complete an organizational audit to review alignment, effectiveness and efficiency of the current organizational structure and an analysis of the budget planning process and potential cutbacks and to propose different scenarios on how to create an inclusive and transparent budget reduction process as the District faces the challenges of limited resources for the 2011 and 2012 school years.

D. Focus on MCA's and GRAD
The Superintendent stated the next few weeks are essential to providing support to students and schools to move students to proficiency levels as they go into the testing season. The District is redirecting coaching staff (at both the building level and the district level) into targeted schools to help students become proficient on these important assessments. This re-direction is not designed to drill students on test taking strategies. Instead, it is to assist students in improving their reading and math skills. District and building coaches will work intensively with small groups of students in the classrooms, all the while working at the elbow of classroom teachers, modeling and sharing effective teaching strategies. This surge in targeted coaching support is another example of the District’s commitment to share the direct responsibility for helping students reach their academic goals – for both the short and long term. A video announcing the MCA II’s and Grad tests was presented to the Board.

QUESTIONS/DISCUSSION:
• How are students and families being made aware of the importance of the GRAD test? Response: The District has been working since the beginning of year to make students and families aware of the seriousness of the GRAD test to graduation. Information has been made available at many locations, information has been provided to high school and elementary staff about the opportunities remaining to take the tests. If students do not pass and cannot walk at regular graduation, there is an additional opportunity, if they pass the tests during summer school, to participate in a graduation ceremony arranged specifically for this group of students.

E. African-American Family Involvement Day
The day provided an opportunity for the staff to visit schools and also provided opportunities for parent involvement at the schools. An format was provided on the website for schools to show other schools what they are doing through various activities for the day and the month.

QUESTIONS/DISCUSSION:
• Does the District track the number of parents who participated in this, particularly African-American families? Can this be provided to the Board? Response: The information is not available. The focus has been on getting the parents more involved with the schools for more than one day so the day was used as an opportunity for bring all families in. Some schools track the data, some do not; this has not been made a requirement for schools.
• Regarding African-American History Month – what events are being encouraged to recognize the month? Response: There are a number of activities listed on the website throughout the month. The Professional Development Center and curriculum areas do send out information to schools so they incorporate the curricular aspects of what is happening in the school building along with what parents and families can do at home.

F. School Choice Season
The District has provided assistance to families over the past month so they can find the right choice of school for their student. The deadline for secondary schools is February 28 and for elementary March 5. The importance of enrolling before these deadlines was stressed.

XII. BOARD OF EDUCATION
A. Information Requests & Responses
1. Director Hardy requested that an overview on PLAs be scheduled at an upcoming COB meeting. Specifically he requested not only district staff present but also someone from the labor community be asked to share their perspective. Director O’Connell expanded the request asking that the Board policy on PLAs be addressed at the same time. Director Carroll expressed interest in including in the presentation the pro’s and con’s of PLAs from the perspective of other school districts; she specified factual information as opposed to opinion.
2. Director Varro requested the Board visit its policy on procurement and minority-owned businesses possibly as a part of the PLA discussion or as a separate item.
3. Director Carroll requested a discussion at an upcoming COB meeting to formulate a request for a monitoring report, tied to other work coming at the end of the school year, analyzing the results of the major school changes at Homecroft, Parkway, Linwood/Monroe, Farnsworth, and Humboldt. Specifically, results compared to the district's intended outcomes, as well as with respect to the fears and concerns expressed by community members about the impacts of these changes.
4. Director Carroll requested (regarding two major new and rigorous longitudinal studies on the impacts of Federal Title IX legislation in the early 70s on long-term outcomes for girls and women, and noting that Minnesota was a leader on a number of key indicators) a brief discussion at an upcoming COB meeting with relevant Research staff about whether there was anything of relevance to SPPS in those new studies, or if we had or wanted to assemble data about how SPPS fares within the state and country on some of the studies’ factors.
5. The Chair had also received a request for a discussion on the Board’s professional development policies and practices at an upcoming COB meeting.
