ACADEMIC REGALIA

The custom of wearing a distinctive dress for academic ceremonies goes back to the middle ages, when people dressed in keeping with their class: nobility, clergy or third estate. The academic gown came from the robe worn by the clergy as they were the literate class. A heavy gown, usually black or brown was worn at all times. Hoods and capes were also necessary during the cold European winters because the buildings where scholars lived and studied were cold.

-GOWNS-

The gowns worn by today's graduating class represents the academic costume of the middle ages. Today's gowns are now made of light weight synthetic materials.

The gowns worn by the faculty differ in style according to the degree they hold. Those holding bachelor degrees wear black gowns closed in front and with long pointed sleeves. The holder of a masters degree gown is also black and has long sleeves, these being closed with a short slit near the elbows to free the hand and forearm.

-CAP-

The square "oxford cap" of serge or broadcloth has a stiff crown. The tassel hangs down on the left side. After the diplomas are granted, the graduates will change the tassel to the right side as a class.

-HOODS-

The masters hood is black with a three inch velvet border. The lining of the hood is in the institution which awarded the degree.

REVERE ALMA MATER

Revere, our Alma Mater,
Thy name we give acclaim,
And pray that all our lives shall be
So lived to bring thee fame.

The scarlet, white, and royal blue
Inspire each heart to cheer
Our school, our Alma Mater dear
Revere, REVERE, Revere
