Commencement

Dr. McKay Speaker

Commencement exercises for the class of 1951 was held in the school auditorium Thursday evening, May 31, at 8:00 o'clock.

The class address was presented by the Rev. Dr. Paul L. McKay, First Presbyterian Church, Akron. His subject will be "The Honor of a Certain Aim."

Class speakers were Rice Hershey, Gary Banas, Charles Dykes, and Patricia Ellis.

Music was presented by Christine Miles and the class. Rev. O. R. Willits of the Bath Church was assisted in this program.

Senior Class Prophecy

The Class of 1951 of Bath High School is very fortunate in being able to hear Who's What in 1981. We shall now tune in on station F. A. T. E.

Station F.A.T.E. signing in.

Anyone desiring to know the destiny of the class of "51" of B.H.S. will please stand by:

RICE HERSHEY has become the leading scientist in the United States. He has discovered BEATURCTER-PNIDIARUSIPROTACTOPHURTEN, the germ that causes spring fever.

DOROTHY NAPIER is the owner of a large restaurant in Antarctica which specializes in peach ice cream.

MARY CLAWSON is an old maid running a lonely hearts club for young chicks.

GARY CRILE is president of the Lawson Milk Company in Lithuania.

BETTY BOTZUM is selling all day suckers to the natives of Bonga Bonga, Bongal. She is working in advance of her assistant NANCY BREWER who carries a portable dentist case.

CHARLIE DYKES has acquired a fortune through his inventing a compound which can be used either as baking powder or complexion cream.

IRIS MIHLBACH is now owner of Miihlbach bakery and everyone urgently recommends her doughnuts, especially the holes.

KNUTE MEEK has accepted the position of head coach at Harvard University; he is busy training his regatta crew in Yellow Creek for the championship.

SUSY McNEIL makes and puts up the famous McNeil cough drops guaranteed to kill a cold and anything connected.

CHRISTINE Miles - Here we have a pianist who is destined not only to appear before the crowned heads of Europe but also the bald heads of America

DICK SANDMANN is in the making of his second million by selling Stay-Fut lipstick to U-Bangis in Africa.

JEAN HOWE is a well known horse doctor of Tinkle Town.

SPENCER FREEMAN is that famous inventor of galvanized tooth paste—guaranteed to clean.

REBA CASTO is the women's high dive champion in the Olympics this year.

GARY BANAS is in his third year of singing all the Metropolitan tenor leads.

GWEN COFFEE is teaching dramatics in the Alaskan Academy of Drama for poverty stricken Eskimoes.

MAX STRYBOYA has been appointed Secretary of War in Upper Slobovia and Commander-in-Chief of the Mounties.

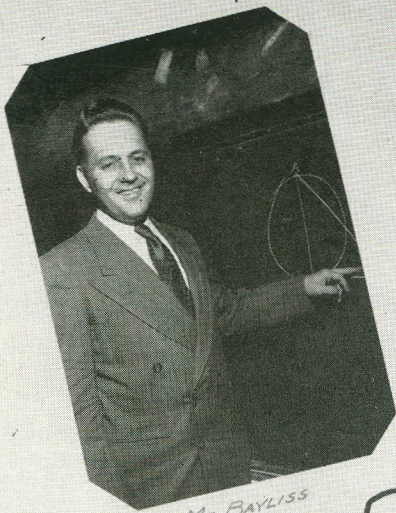

PEGGY ELLIS is recast in lead role of "Born Yesterday" which is in its thirteenth year.

SKETCH BROPHY is now president of the Wordsworth Literary Appreciation Club.

LOUISE COLLINS first woman to win Indianapolis Speedway race for two years consecutively.

BOB STARK is International Revenue collector and still has hope!

CLASS HISTORY

The year of 1939 was one of progress and achievement for the United States. It was the year of "Gone With The Wind." Robert Sherwood won the Pulitzer Prize for his play, "Abe Lincoln in Illinois." Alice Marble won the second of her three tennis championships.

And during this year, a new first grade was added to the records of Bath School. Immediately, Hitler invaded Poland. Although this is no direct reflection on the class, things have been going at the same break neck pace for twelve years now.

Miss Low welcomed us with open arms, as she did each new crop of first graders. Arithmetic and reading were investigated by all of us; we were exposed to the first shock of knowing that two and two make four, and that the boy was Peter, the girl was Peggy and the dog was Rex. It was nice, but the thought of eleven more years of the stuff was sort of depressing.

But we stuck it out to the second grade, where the girls discovered nail polish, and the boys found out that other boys are tanned when they throw other boys glasses down the sliding board.

This thing called love was found to be quite nice by a few, but several beautiful friendships were broken up when we were promoted to the third grade, for half of it was under the watchful eye of Mrs. Evans, and the other half under Mrs. Alleman.

The picture looked brighter when we entered grade four, but not for long. We started long division, and all but a few have not yet recovered. Many a noon hour was spent toiling over grim little Arithmetic Workbooks.

The fifth grade was a little more entertaining, for we had a new teacher, Miss Potts. She wore bobby sox, and was just one of the gang. It was the ideal teacher-pupil relationship; some of us even slapped her back. Very ideal. If you wanted to read and someone else wouldn't stop, you got up and hit him. Then you read. Then you stood in the hall for ten minutes.

Miss Potts passed us all and then stopped teaching. But we didn't care. We had entered the charmed circle. We went to the portable! We had been terrified of Mrs. Miller, but soon came to see things with a different eye. She was just like any other teacher, only better. For being nice to us, we put worms in peanut shells and gave them to her. We put snakes in her desk drawer. We stole her pitch pipe. But we went on a campaign to have her transferred to the seventh grade with us. We probably had nothing to do with it, but transferred she was, much to our delight.

It was wonderful. Besides having Mrs. Miller, we were at last on the third floor. We had gym class. We went from room to room for classes. We had study halls. We had detentions.

But we were a moderately well-behaved class, and went on to the eighth grade, where some of us "got culture." Instead of the usual Bobbsey Twins at the Seashore, we took in Tolstoy, Stendhal and Zane Grey. And opera. Some of us were accused of not knowing Aida from a hole in the ground.

It was otherwise an uneventful year, except for the fact that nearly all the boys dropped music because their voices started to change.

As we became Freshmen, we found that studying wasn't nearly as much fun as playing football and going to speech tournaments. Besides, we all had algebra; it was one year before general math was added to the curriculum. Several were astounded to discover that two equals one if the problem is done wrong. Some of us liked algebra very much; we even took it again in the summer.

We weren't too happy about being Sophomores. Just on the borderline of being Juniors we weren't aggressive or brave enough to really taken an active part in school affairs. We were something and nothing.

But promotions changed all that. We became interested in high finance, and started the annual robbery carried on by the Juniors. Class rings were flashed at total strangers. We gave a super Prom in Cleveland.

And then we were Seniors. The world was our oyster. We had back seats in study hall. We were presidents of things. We thought that what we said was law. We took a wonderful trip to Washington, and started to think about college.

And then the fact suddenly dawned on us that we had passed through what are probably the most wonderful twelve years in a lifetime. We began to think of all the things we'd rushed through or almost forgotten, the wonderful Christmas parties, the thrill of getting an activity letter, that feeling you get when you're in your first play, or giving your first debate.

The memories flooded back. Now they are ours and come what may, each of us has a special place reserved for those years which have without a doubt been the best of our life.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

These present witnesses that We, the Senior Class of Bath High School, Summit County, desiring to indicate in due legal form what disposition of our various attributes and talents is to be made after our graduation, do this thirty first day of May, A.D. 1951, at Bath, Ohio, make, publish and declare our Last Will and Testament, in manner and form following, hereby revoking all wills and codicils by us heretofore made:

I, Nancy Brewer, do bequeath my silence to Louise Bailey.

I, Louise Collins, do to Dick Pearson give my ability to sling the bull.

I, Gary Crile, leave my love of literature to Chester Cramer.

I, Christine Miles, give my sarcastic remarks to Wanda Bartholomew, to be used as she sees fit.

I, Spencer Freeman, leave my slim hips and graceful figure to Eugene Vann.

I, Iris Miihlbach, leave my technique with Washington sailors to Kathleen Spickard.

I, Betty Botzum, do give my ten year's perfect attendance record to Miles Walk.

I, Gwendolyne Coffee, leave to Maureen Darst my athletic ability.

I, Charles Dykes bequeath to Charles Mealey my skill in handling one George Bayliss, teacher.

I, Bob Stark, give to Faith Harris my driver's license.

I, Gary Banas, leave to Mike McCoy my attempts at trying to out-talk one Douglas Bonney, Speech Coach.

I, Peggy Ellis, do leave to George Schultz my muscles and volatile temper.

I, Reba Casto, give my placid temperament to Janet Olson.

I, Knute Meek, leave to Bruce Anderson and Rollen Summers my power over women.

I, Dorothy Napier, bequeath to Helen Tetzal my talent for managing both men and women.

I, Susie McNeil, leave to Jack Louthan my grade card.

I, Rice Hershey, give my well used line to Joan Gorbach.

I, Frank Brophy, leave Louise Caldwell.

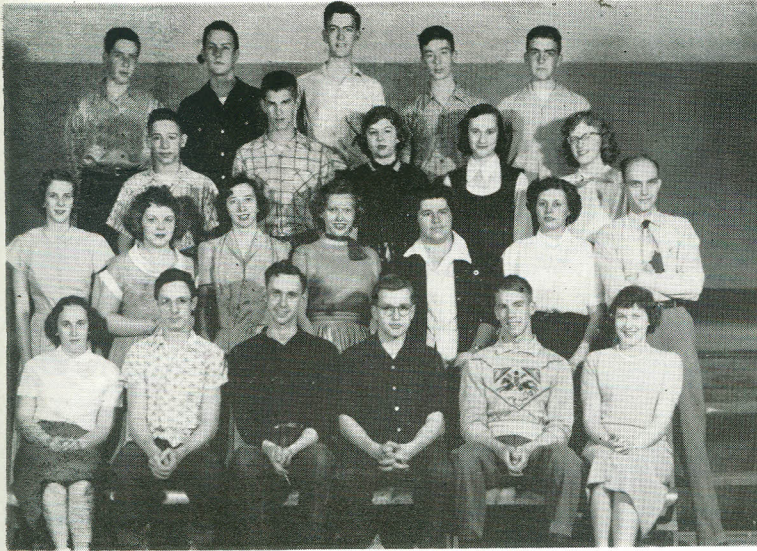

I, Dick Sandmann, bequeath my jokes to Ray Damian.

I, Jean Howe, give to Connie Burkett my address book.

I, Max Strboya, pass on my ability to swear for five minutes without repeating myself to Del Short.

In testimony whereof, We have set our hand to this our Last Will and Testament the day and year first above written.

SENIOR SKETCHES

A senior girl much noted for her ability to say much in few words is LOUISE COLLINS. This more or less reflects on her favorite pastime of loafing. However, when Louise does stir herself to move, she loves to play baseball. As far as having a favorite food Louise says that is her favorite—food, just plain food. She intends to spend the summer at home after graduation but may get a job in the fall.

PAT ELLIS is Bath's answer to perpetual motion. Never was a 5'1" package ever so explosive. She is also active in many school organizations, and acts as a typist for the Hi-Spy. Her favorite occupation around school is Chemistry Lab., where her famous questions and answers, all very confusing, originate. Sea food of all kinds is her weakness. After graduation she intends to work till fall when she hopes to attend Kent State.

GWENDOLYNE COFFEY—better known as "Midge," entered Bath in the fifth grade. Her favorite pastime is eating chipped ham sandwiches and going for long rides on Sunday afternoons.

She will be remembered for her outstanding work as captain of the Y-teen basketball team. Midge likes all sports, but enjoys basketball the most.

Her ambition is to just do work for her own good and she intends to do so after graduation.

GARY CRILE—This tall blond lad has been a participant in the class since the first grade, where he distinguished himself by being the only boy in the room eating peanut butter sandwiches for breakfast. Since then his tastes have varied toward the more conventional, chocolate cake.

Nicknamed "Putt" by his brother Wes, he has been active in boy scouts for five years, and is now junior assistant Scout Master.

He is following in his father's footsteps, and wants to be a dairy technician when he "gets big."

DOROTHY NAPIER—coming to Bath in the third grade, immediately she left for Hudson at the start of the fourth, and again entered the fifth grade and has been with us ever since.

Dorothy is the artist in the class, her hobbies are painting and sewing, and her life goal is to be a designer for Metro Goldwin Mayer.

She confesses to a craving for cheeseburgers, and her pet peeve is Rice Hershey.

JEAN HOWE—"Beautiful Beautiful Brown Eyes" best describes Jean Howe who is another twelve year veteran at Bath. Jean is active in N.F.L. and would like to continue her study of speech in college.

She readily admits her first love is her horses—she has two. If wishes came true Jean would like to own a big ranch in Wyoming.

FRANK BROPHY—This young man nicknamed "Sketch" has gone to school here all his life. He came into the world August 1, 1931, and he has always lived in Ghent. His favorite sport is football and his favorite food is swiss steak.

This fellow is 5' 9" and has blue eyes and black hair. His pet peeve are people who call him "Sidney," his middle name. He would like to be a stone mason.

CHARLES DYKES has very aptly earned the title "live-wire" in his career at Bath.

If there's a club at Bath, Charlie belongs to it—except Y-Teens; But he's working on that. Besides his athletic ability he has maintained a high scholastic average.

Charlie's hobbies are swimming and eating—particularly rhubarb pie.

He plans to enter college this fall to study engineering.

IRIS MIHLBACH—more often called "Gussie" joined the class in the fourth grade.

She has been outstanding in participation in school activities, holding several offices.

Iris's ambition is to win an argument with Peggy Ellis.

She's an expert driver and probably has a future as a stock car racer. However her present ambition is to be a receptionist.

ROBERT STARK—who entered Bath in the second grade has variously been known as Revenooer, Red, and just plain Bob. His tastes are as varied as his nick names. He loves food in any form.

His hobbies are Model Airplane building, and playing the piano.

His pet peeve is the 6th period study hall.

He hopes to go to college after High School.

CHRISTINE MILES—Chris also has spent all twelve of her school years at Bath. She has taken part in many activities but shows the most talent in music, piano being her specialty. Her plans for the future are to continue with her music at Baldwin Wallace College.

Although lacking in height, she's only five feet two, Chris is lacking in nothing else, vying with Charles Dykes for best grades in the senior class and National Honor Society.

RICE HERSHEY—Every class has a character and this year the title goes to Rice Hershey. One of Bath's twelve year men, Rice has been active in most of the school organizations. An avid Drama and Art fan, he expects to attend college next fall and follow these aims.

The favorite food and pastime of this 5'11", 160 lb., blond, senior are respectively lobster, over which he has worked many hard hours, and reading. This last makes him the expert on related subjects.

Rice has one (or more) pet peeves, nature lovers.

NANCY BREWER is a blue eyed brunette, having a reputation for being a brain, which is due partly to her hobby, reading.

She loves to loaf, which isn't the least bit obvious, and her pet peeve is people who show off.

Nancy plans to work after graduation and later go to college.

GARY BANAS—When the present seniors were in the seventh grade a major event took place which was to effect the rest of their school days, (Gary Banas entered Bath School). Since then he has been in practically every activity. In speech he has gained the distinction of having the highest number of points of anyone in Bath School since speech activity began. His plans for the future are teaching speech.

Another activity in which Gary excels is messing up his and everyone's lab assignments. Despite being editor of the Hi-Spy and liking peanut butter and jelly sandwiches, most people find this 6'1" senior very attractive and likeable, especially girls.

BETTY BOTZUM—Betty came to Bath from Northampton in the ninth grade, she has an enviable record of never having been tardy or absent from school for 10 years.

Her pet aversion is doing dishes. Her favorite food is potato salad. She has an even, likable disposition which is quite a rest from some of the nervous individuals in the senior class.

As for boys, this blue eyed light-brown-haired girl has "no particular interest in them" which we have reason to doubt.

REBA CASTO—a quiet brunette, with brown eyes, joined us in her sophomore year. She came from Charleston, West Virginia, and has the brownest eyes anyone has ever seen. The most important date in her life was June 17, 1933. Her favorite pastime is eating potato salad, toasted cheese sandwiches, ice cream and cake. She hopes to get a job as typist when she graduates.

MARY CLAWSON—came into the world on January 4, 1933. She has black hair and green eyes. Mary has been with us since the third grade. Her one love is eating chop suey. Her pet peeve is Mr. Bonney saying "tremendous." She hopes to be a buyer for one of the stores someday.

SUSAN McNEIL—A pretty brunette with brown eyes. She has attended school in Akron, Youngstown and Toledo. At meal-time she hopes for chicken. Her graduation gift is a television set on which her favorite program is "One Man's Family." Naturally a good reader and a clever writer, she has found journalism a favorite subject.

SPENCER FREEMAN—our "tall man of few words," entered Bath in the first grade. You can usually find Spencer whizzing around in his '39 Mercury (he runs a taxi service every day at 3:45.) Or you just might find him at the Rice plantation.

Spencer is quite a singer too, singing tenor in the boys' double quartet.

He says his future will probably be decided by the navy.
