Commencement

Dr. Taxay to Speak

Commencement exercises for the class of 1950 will be held in the school auditorium Thursday evening, June 1st, at 8:15 o'clock.

The class address will be presented by the Rev. Dr. J. Marshall Taxay, Temple Israel, Akron. His subject will be "Adam and the Atom".

Class speakers will be Genevieve Summers, Thomas Derr and David Meek. Music numbers by Richard Price and Helen Hopkins Crile. Rev. O. R. Willits of the Bath Church will assist in this program.

Baccalaureate

Dr. McKay, the Speaker

Baccalaureate exercises for the class of 1950 will be held in the school auditorium Sunday evening, May 28, at 8:15 o'clock.

The sermon will be presented by the Rev. Dr. Paul L. McKay, First Presbyterian Church, Akron.

The processional and anthems will be sung by the Bath Church choir, directed by Mrs. Ruth Pugh and Lester Swartz. Rev. Robert Jacobson, Ghent Church, will assist in this program.

"Our hearts, our hopes are all with thee",—Longfellow

SENIOR SKETCHES

Jerry Cranz

Abenezer, or just plain Abner, entered Bath in the first grade. His pet saying is "Howdy" or if he is late, "Greetings." Abner, manager of this year's basketball team is going out for track.

When asked what he is going to do after graduation he replies, "I might come back and dynamite the place." Truthfully, he plans to go on to college.

Opal Bailey

Blond hair, blue eyes, five feet tall—that's Opal Bailey. She is considered the brain of the class and wins honors in scholarship contests. Her favorite pastime is reading.

Wherever a gang of kids are talking about horses, you'll find Opal. She hasn't a horse right now, but she plans someday to own a ranch in Texas. She hopes to go to Tarleton University in Texas and study animal husbandry.

Lois Valentine

Lois Valentine, sometimes called "Cookie", is one of the few members of our class who have survived twelve years at Bath. This tall, brown-eyed blond is always pleasant and consequently is very well liked.

She is prominent in school activities, holding several offices, and her scholastic record is high.

She wants to be a nurse, but her real ambition is to travel. She likes lemon pies and all outdoor sports and hates macaroni and cheese.

Genevieve Summers

Genevieve Summers, more often called Genny or Quinevere, joined the class in the fifth grade.

How she gets all those good grades we'll never know for she is more likely to be working for one of her many activities than studying in study hall. She is a live wire.

Genny's pet hate is getting up so early in the morning; her hobbies are swimming, reading, and listening to baseball or football games. Her ambition (believe it or not) is to capture a lion in Africa.

After graduation she plans to work for a while and then go to college.

Charles Squires

Charles Squires is another lad who has spent twelve years at Bath. He has always been "well fed" and now hovers around the two hundred pound mark. He is six feet tall and well proportioned.

He has owned two cars, a '36 Ford and a '39 Chevy. He has played football four years, earned three varsity letters, and this year was named All Summit County Left Tackle.

Although Norma Rice claims him to be her pet gripe, he is really well liked by everyone.

Norma Rice

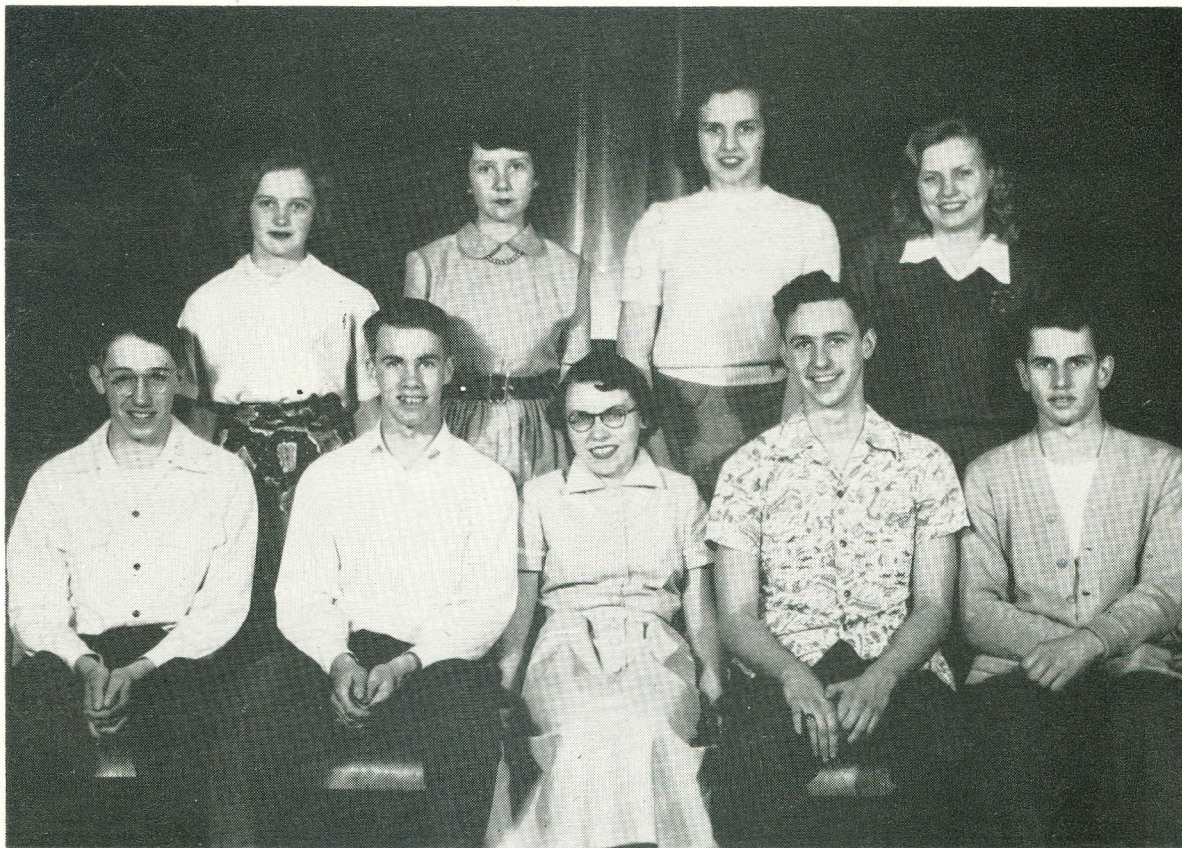

Norma, blond and blue-eyed, is sometimes called "Salt" since her trip to Gettysburg.

She has been a good student and belongs to most of the organizations, but it is as president of Student Council that she has done the most outstanding work. She has kept things humming all the time.

She likes to dance, canoe, and swim, and her ambition is to do the high dive. Her hobbies are playing with

Our Instructors

The page of photographs of our instructors does not include the part-time members of the staff who have instructed us in music and art. These teachers are Mr. Delmar Graff, Mrs. Evelyn Schmidt, Mrs. Rosalie Overholt and Mr. Walter Morey. We appreciate the high grade of instruction we receive from these teachers and regret we do not have pictures of all.

SENIOR CLASS WILL

We, the members of the Superior Class of 1950 of Bath High School, in deepest appreciation for the way we've been treated for the past fifteen years, feel that it is our duty not only to leave, but also to leave our most precious belongings, habits, defects or what have you, to those extremely fortunate students who will accept the responsibilities and hardships of being a SENIOR in the near future. In addition to our personal gifts, Irvin Sir Louis, Charles Rosco Squires, and Jerald Robert "Abenezer" Cranz, would like to leave to the Junior boys the kitchen, the lunchroom, and all the hard work that goes with them.

We, individually, hereby award the following nonsense to be received upon the graduation (or the kicking out) of our class.

I, Raymond Buehrle, leave the task of shaving my beard dogs and collecting figurines, and she spends her spare time (where does she find it?) with Carl.

She wants to attend Akron U. and she is thinking of social service work.

Dick Price

Little Richard (so named by Mrs. Miller in the sixth grade) is a dead-pan humorist who is sober as a judge while you laugh yourself sick at what he has said.

He's been student band director for three years, and is so good on the trombone that he's played twice with the Cleveland Philharmonic Orchestra.

Dick likes to collect dollar bills (who wouldn't) and his ambition is to become an engineer. Since the senior play his stock answer is, "Didn't get into Canada."

Dave Meek

Dave is completing his twelfth year at Bath. He has been competing in sports for the last four years and has also been busy in the Dramatic Club.

When asked about his chief ambition, he says that he wants to see if the moon is really made of green cheese, but we've also learned that he would like to study chemistry on the side.

Although he enjoys almost every sport, fishing in the wilds of Canada is his favorite.

Irv Sir Louis

The chief mechanic of this year's class is Irv Sir Louis who is always a good worker and very helpful when needed.

His favorite foods are steak, fried onions, and French fries. At the present he has fun saying, "Shut up and sit down." The one thing he dislikes is quiet people, and if you know Irv you know why.

His chief pastime, besides getting into trouble, is working at Harold Caylor's Emporium.

Irv hopes someday to be his own boss so he can do as he pleases.

Gilbert Burke

Gil Burke, an ex G.I. who has no love for army recruiting officers, entered the class this year.

Although silent much of the time, he often produces a funny joke at the right time which makes him popular.

He came from Indiana and his favorite sport is "Hoosier basketball". His pet peeves are rain, snow, people who are lazier than himself, and girls who are beautiful and know it.

His pet saying is, "If I were in your shoes I'd have them re-soled."

Dick Shafer

Dick "Slingshot" Shafer, a native of Cuyahoga Falls, came to Bath in the eighth grade. Since then he has been active in athletics and in many school organizations. He talks of becoming a professional baseball player.

He ranks high scholastically, and his personality makes him liked by all. He enjoys bowling and watching auto racing.

Dick is seriously considering engineering college.

Mildred Clawson

Milly Clawson, a brown-eyed brunette, will long be remembered for her outstanding, energetic cheer-leading for old Bath High.

She also likes to play basketball and was co-captain of the Y-Teen team. She keeps busy eating, listening to the radio, or going out with a certain fellow.

When asked about her favorite hangout, she replied, "It surely isn't school!"

Her ambition is to be a model.

Ray Buehrle

Ray, who joined the class in the eighth grade, is always friendly and pleasant, but he's a sly one. Although he generally looks serious, he suddenly says something funny which has the kids in stitches.

Ray's activities include football, band, and business staff of Hi-Spy.

His pet peeve is his Model A, and his ambition is to go to college and learn how to become a millionaire.

Dolores Spangler

Dee should be well known to Bath sports fans for she has been a varsity cheer-leader this year after being a reserve last year.

This little gal is surprisingly full of fun, always ready to go along with the crowd. She enjoys basketball, ice skating, and eating olives and blackberry pie.

Her ambition is to be an interior decorator and travel to Florida. She expects to work after graduation and then go to business college.

Denny Smith

Denny Smith is known to his friends as "Smitty." He can usually be found at Larry's garage along with Glenn, Ray, or Irv. He also likes to visit at a certain apple farm when he's not working on cars.

"Smitty" doesn't like oysters or bananas but he does like chicken.

His favorite sport is riding in his car with the top down. His favorite car is the Mercury and if you happen to see a cream colored convertible '48 it's probably Denny.

Queen of the May, Milly Clawson is his queen too.

His pet saying is "That's for sure."

Glenn Woods

Glenn started at Bath in the second grade. He is very ambitious and what you might call a hard worker. He has always been independent and has puddled in everything you can think of: such as photography, mechanics, cement and metal working, collecting stamps, and believe it or not, cooking.

Through his eleven years at Bath he has taken on the name of "Mayor." Or since his great promotion it's been "Governor." If you're wondering what he governs—well, it's Siberia.

Tom Derr

Tom Derr, known to most of us as "Buckie," has proved himself an all-around athlete by his outstanding performances in football, basketball, baseball, and track.

Besides his athletic ability he has maintained a high

I, Norma Rice, leave my passionate love for Charlie Squires to Christine Miles and Dorothy Napier. They are welcome to it.

I, Gerald Robert "Abenezer" Cranz, give to Charles Dykes my stubborn attitude and ability to argue with Mr. Bayliss about geometry problems.

I, Dolores Spangler, give my innocent little blush to Jean Howe.

I, Gilbert Burke, leave my shapely figure and beautiful legs to Mary Clawson and Spencer Freeman to be disposed of equally between them.

I, Tom Derr, leave all 97 pounds of my bulging muscles and athletic ability to Frank Brophy and Richard Sandmann.

I, Glenn Woods, have so much to leave that I've decided to distribute my favorable qualities equally among the Junior Class in hopes that they will all be satisfied for the rest of their lives, and will not fight over me.

I, Lois (Snitch) Valentine, leave all of my broken and corrupted love affairs to Iris Mhlbach, Mary Ellen Schuneman, and Janet Wilmot.

I, Charles Roscoe Squires, bequeath to Gary Banas and Knute Meek all my extremely wonderful qualities and characteristics of a Debater.

I, Opal Bailey, give my ability to get excellent grades without studying to Patricia Ellis, Nancy Brewer, and Betty Botzum.

I, Irvin Sir Louis, leave to Max Strboya my skill in su-

His ambition is to travel through the west this summer. His pet saying is "it makes no never mind."

Senior Class History

One-half score and two years ago, our fathers and mothers brought into this school a new first grade, conceived in youth and dedicated to the proposition that in twelve years we would become SENIORS. Now we are engaged in a long and terrible struggle for education, testing whether we or any other class, so conceived and so dedicated, can long endure.

In the first grade Miss Ann Low taught us to read the Peter and Peggy books and how to spell cat. In the second grade Mrs. Evans reviewed the word cat and led us on into spelling contests and allowed us to play store. In the third grade we were separated, half going into Mrs. Evan's room and half into Mrs. Alleman's. Those of us in Mrs. Evan's room made butter one day while Mrs. Evans was down teaching the first grade. Miss Low came up with a jar of cream which she had each of us give five shakes and pass it on until we had butter.

While in the fourth grade, with Mrs. Alleman as teacher, we put on a play about Pilgrims and sang and dramatized "America the Beautiful". In the fifth grade, Mrs. Jauchem had us make a dough map of Mexico because we were studying Mexico in geography. In the sixth grade, under Mrs. Miller, we were September 16, 1972. Today, we returned to the ruins of Bath High School, which had been blown up by the Chemistry Class in an attempt to split an atom.

At the bottom of the heap of rubble, we found one of the steel files, which had been kept in the office by Mr. Pugh. We pried it open; in the top drawer was a Hi-Spy dated March 24, 1967. In it was an article, written by Mr. Pugh which concerned his trip East of the autumn before. We will now reprint some of the valuable information extracted from this archive.

Apparently, Mr. Pugh had been on his way to New York to try out a new hair restorer, which had been invented by Charlie Squires, who was also a debate coach in the mental ward of Bellvue Hospital. Charlie had once been a professional debater, but his partner, Irvin Sir Louis, had lost his voice during one of his opening speeches, the famous, "We of the Affirmative contend firstly". Irvin now lives in Cranz's woods with the rabbits.

While in New York, Mr. Pugh attended a banquet given by Norma Rice Boleslav McTavish Checosi Eweinstukke Jones, much wedded U. S. President. Mrs. Jones claimed that her many marriages were an attempt to attain international unity. The dinner was given in honor of Opal Bailey and Denny Smith. Miss Bailey was commended for her extraordinary work in the scientific advancement in the breeding of Gigantic Zebus.

Denny was highly praised for his marvelous missionary work in North East Italian Somaliland. Smith, a rheumatic bachelor, had supplied free nosedrops to all Ubangis over twelve years of age.

Later that evening Mr. Pugh saw the new hit opera, "I Gasperi;" or "The Upholstress", which had won the Pulitzer Prize for that year. In the audience were the composer and librettist, Tom Derr, and Dave Meek. Tom sported a Van Dyke and a receding hairline, while Dave limped as a result of a foot injury which was received while putting it in his mouth. Apparently Dave was biting his toenails when he hiccupped, causing the loss of three toes.

The stars of the opera were Gil Burke and Genny Summers, each married and divorced seven times; Walter Winchell claimed that their love was one not to be trifled with.

As Mr. Pugh left the theater, he noticed a mob of scientists around a lady standing in the lobby. He was proud to see that the lady in question was Milly Clawson O'Shaughnessy, mother of Pat and Mike, who had invented a revolutionary new drill press. Milly had started her career as an auto mechanic, but had gradually come up in the field by completely restyling engine blocks.

While sitting in Dr. Squires' office the next day, Mr. Pugh picked a copy of the New York Times. Across the headlines were the words, NOTED LAWYER DEFENDS ACCUSED COMMIE. Reading the article below, Mr. Pugh saw that Dee Spangler, noted orator and graduate of Harvard Law School, was to carry the defense of Dick Price. Price, editor in charge of western circulation of Pravda, was accused by Senator McCarthy of poisoning the minds of America's youth by circulating the communist comic book, "Little Alexievitch, Boy Stalin".

Sad to read this news, Mr. Pugh turned to the sports page to see how his favorite cricket team, the Pismo Beach All Girl Comets, had done in their late game with the South Podunkers. He was sorry to see that the team had lost, but proud to find that coach Dick Shafer, voted "Coach of the Year" by the East Flatbush Federation of Older Women's Clubs, had praised Lois Valentine, first team left hopper, for her extraordinary work guarding the water bucket.

He turned to two matrons of high society who were sitting near him and heard them discussing in their gushy way, "WHAT HAPPENED AT THE LAST BUEHRLE TEA PARTY?????". They grabbed the society section of the paper which Mr. Pugh had placed on the table and began to eagerly devour the article. Mr. Pugh gathered that during millionaire Buehrle's weekly tea party, the gates of the mansion had been crashed by Jerry Cranz, who insisted on attending such affairs in spite of the absence of his name from the social register. Mr. Cranz was the man who had made the doctors happy throughout the world by willing his skeleton to them upon death. Ray Buehrle had made his millions by speculating on Junior candy prices.

The two matrons were delighted that Glen "Governor" Woods, matinee idol and part time detective, had rescued the party from the bedlam caused by Cranz.

Incidentally, Mr. Pugh now has hair or moss . . . or something.

prepared for that awful ordeal that we knew awaited us on the third floor. We entered the seventh grade in fear and trembling and more than once felt the grip of the iron hand. Life was more pleasant in the eighth grade.

Our Freshman year was not without excitement, for Mr. Pierce tried to prove to us that a mouse was bigger than an elephant. We knew better, we had seen both animals. Then came our Sophomore year, with Mr. West, his Biology class and his detentions. We were then prepared to start our Junior year of chiseling and conniving to make enough money for the prom. And in spite of a Senior menace to our candy sales we acquired enough money for a suitable prom.

Now we are Seniors and considered definitely superior, both mentally and physically, by all. All the Seniors that is. We took a trip to Gettysburg, Pa., where we saw the place where Lincoln gave his famous speech, from which the first part of this history is taken in a slightly mutilated form. We have had a pleasant year heckling the Juniors, according to tradition, but they are still making enough money for the prom, we hope. We just recently took another trip, to Cleveland. This time we visited three museums, the Museum of Natural History, the Museum of Art, and the Western Reserve Historical Museum. We are now loaded with culture.

The only persons of the nifty-fifty class who have spent twelve years here at Bath are: Tom Derr, Charlie Squires, Jerry Cranz, Dave Meek, Denny Smith, and Lois Valentine. We acquired the rest as follows: Opal Bailey and Glenn Woods, 2nd, Norma Rice and Genevieve Summers, 5th, Dick Price, 6th, Milly Clawson, Ray Buehrle and Dick Schafer, 8th, Dolores Spangler, 9th, Irvin Sir Louis, 11th, and Gil Burke, 12th.

So ends the history of the class of nineteen-fifty.
