School plans memorial

by Beth Thomarios

When senior Becky Strazinsky was killed in February, the senior class asked for the school to come together and raise money to dedicate a memorial to her. The first school day after her death, the senior class council raised the surprising sum of $375.30 from the student body.

One of the ideas proposed before the money was raised was to plant a tree with a plaque in Becky's memory. However, due to the amount raised, other options are available.

Mrs. Anne Coughlin, school librarian and senior class advisor, requested, "If you have any suggestions as to what to do with the money, talk to me or Lee Scherr."

As of yet, no plans are definite. Coughlin has some ideas of her own, but she would appreciate some input from the student body. "I have some ideas, but I want the project to be based on what the students want."

Strazinsky Tree:

The tree was planted in 1992 in memory of Becky Strazinsky. She was a senior who died on March 13, 1992 in a car accident.
