Hello Ms. Huffstetler-

This is in response to your FOI request dated 5/23/17 regarding "I am requesting information on the veterinary science program. Who can bring in their pets to get groomed by the students practicing animal grooming skills? Can the public, parents, tax payers bring in their pets to get groomed, so the students can practice? If so, is there a small fee for grooming? Where are the animals coming from to get groomed? Who owns the animals that get groomed? Is there a list of who brings the animals who get groomed? If so, I want the sign up list."

Students in Small Animal Care (second semester, second year) groom dogs once per week for approximately 14 weeks. For the first few weeks, students groom their own pets because the animals are comfortable with the students and it allows the students to learn procedures. After that, anyone may bring their dog for grooming as long as space is available. There are 12 kennels in the lab, so no more than 12 per week are groomed. The service is provided for a small fee and is first come, first serve. Proceeds from dog grooming pay for supplies and equipment (shampoo, grooming kits) and help defray other costs of the program.

Attached is a flyer for the program.

Thank you,
Derek
