

Are you ready to learn more about Twice Exceptional Learners?

Experience Johns Hopkins University School of Education firsthand! Apply today for our Masters in Gifted Education with a focus in Twice Exceptional Learners. Designed for parents and caregivers advocating for their gifted/2e child's disability rights, as well as administrators, counselors, special educators, gifted education specialists and teachers pursuing the expertise to support all learners. This program equips you to:

- Identify characteristics and behaviors associated with giftedness and disabilities;
- Design and implement appropriate lessons using technology for twice exceptional learners that maintain safe and inclusive learning environments to support their social and emotional well-being;
- Identify and define key features for the identification of 2e students and recognize masking effects;
- Establish ways to effectively communicate and collaborate with 2e learners, caregivers, teachers, counselors, and administrators.

Explore our flexible Gifted Education graduate programs. Expand your education career at Johns Hopkins University and find out more today!

Take your coursework to the next level.

JOHNS HOPKINS
SCHOOL of EDUCATION