

Minimalism Key Word #1

Mosgrove Provides New Information

Mr. Mosgrove states that “Minimalism” is one of the key words to why he wears white shirts. Minimalism was a trend in sculpture and painting that arose in the 1950s and used simple, typically massive, form. “Simple forms” is probably the key word here. Detectives think that with no decision of what to wear, he can be faster in deciding what to wear every morning, saving him time in getting ready. White shirts are also easier to wash because you can use bleach on them, minimalizing washing time and saving money.
