Evidence from the text or standards relating to EDUCATIONAL SIGNIFICANCE:

*relates to the culture of the school community through depicting the reality of growing up in a small conservative town - Hilton Head and Beaufort county can be described similarly - many students can see their own experiences reflected in the story as a result - page 3-4 "nobody could... was the rule" page 82

*reflects the needs/interests of the school and its students by providing accurate and relatable perspectives of young students going through a variety of experiences as they prepare to graduate - each theme throughout the story provides insight & validation for students sharing the same experiences - mourning childhood, exploring sexuality, living in a broken home, loneliness, self-esteem, etc. page 32 "But what if I...", page 40 "so I'm falling..." page 164 "What is it about..." page 93 "Then Larry had..." page 148

* Novel supports BCSD's mission, vision & goals - prepares students to succeed in an ever-changing global society in a safe, nurturing & engaging learning environment by promoting themes about hard-work, friendship, and life after graduation - gives students access to the perspective of characters working hard to be successful in the word post-grad - novel values intelligence and thinking for yourself while aiding in giving tools to readers in the same boat dealing with the inevitable emotional & difficult decisions that come with this. page 159 page 152

The novel/material ensures a high degree of readability and/or comprehensibility.	✓

Evidence from the text relating to QUALITY:

* references to homophobic slurs & an offensive comment regarding socioeconomic class are jarring and shock the reader a bit, but the obvious purpose for them being included is not to promote the use of them, but to reveal the tough reality of living in an environment where they come up in real life – shows how these characters deal with these situations and get through them – these comments are still made only a handful of times, and in a way that is clear that the author / characters do not condone them – allows readers who have been faced with similar trials to feel less alone and be able to relate to others fighting the same way they are for acceptance and safety – page 31 "or am I the kind of..." page 44, page 70 "your father says..."

* novel has a high artistic quality and literary style – creativity switches perspectives between the three main characters – utilizes many symbols and themes throughout the story that create a clear and entertaining narrative about growing up – old volvo representing the kids' childhood, we hear about the volvo from each characters' perspective – creates an interesting text that becomes whole by the end, despite being split up by each perspective – leaves room for the reader to take away their own thoughts & morals

Author Ron Koertge's writing has won two PEN Literary Awards for Childrens literature, New York Library's 100 Best Childrens Books, ALA's Best Book, Friends of American writers Young Peoples Literature Award, and more.

AVOIDANCE OF PERVASIVE VULGARITY	Check all that apply
When considered as a whole, the novel does not appeal to sexual interest in a shameful way.	✓
The novel does not depict or describe sexual conduct in a clearly offensive way.	✓
The novel abides by prevailing standards in the adult community in regard to suitable material for minors.	✓
The novel is free from graphic depictions of sexual activity.	✓

Evidence from the text relating to PERVASIVE VULGARITY:

* The story does not depict sexual interest in a shameful way, and in fact does quite the opposite - reveals the way society can make you feel shameful & provides perspectives of young adults dealing with this and trying to overcome it - Lary is heartbroken and ashamed when he realizes he is gay - he sobs and fears all of the people in his community finding out (page 32), and his friends are who help him come to terms with it and accept it - defend him endlessly and give him confidence to be himself
* Scenes where the characters explore their sexuality are wholesome and romantic rather than grotesque or vulgar. The novel gives an accurate and sensitive perspective of what happens when you develop a crush. Also clearly demonstrates the value of not judging someone based off of how they look, and instead paying attention to one's work ethic and personality (Mary Annes character)
* Final scene of Elliot and Mary-Anne talking outside of her house shows how Elliot is interested in her for much more than physical attraction - promotes romantic feelings rather than simply sex
* Demonstrates sexual consent (page 10)

APPROPRIATENESS	K-5	6-8	9-12
The novel is appropriate to the age and grade level of students.			✓
The novel is appropriate to the maturity level of students.			✓
The novel is appropriate to the content area.			✓
The novel/material reflects the contemporary community standards.			✓

Evidence from the text relating to APPROPRIATENESS:

* The purpose of the novel is to provide an honest and relatable point of view of three kids in high-school getting ready to enter their adult lives - a perfect perspective for kids the same age to have
* Younger high-school students will benefit from this perspective as well. As they begin their highschool experience, this novel can help prepare them for feelings and decisions bound to come. Having the opportunity to begin developing the higher level thinking skills & problem solving skills that will come through reading this novel, they will be better prepared to make these decisions when it is their time. Rather than being confronted with these scenarios for the very first time as a junior or senior, they will be familiar with the story of Lary, Teresa, and Elliot, and be more confident with the tools they obtained from reading their story
* Shielding highschool students from these perspectives would only leave them unprepared and dependent on the thoughts / beliefs from others. The novel promotes the value of thinking for yourself, something the students will be better equipped to do after reading the novel ^ and feel more confident doing
