IV. Superintendent Report

A. Updates

Dr. Rianna thanked the district's social studies coordinator, Sue Poulos, for putting together a celebration of veteran's day and who veterans are to our country as well as Glen Cove. All the veteran's that participated in this celebration were from either Glen Cove or surrounding areas. The Superintendent of School's stated that it was an amazing opportunity for the students to hear the stories from these veteran's as well as some of the heroic events that took place during the wars. The veterans also went to the high school library where a donation of a display case was given to the district. A replica of the display case is also at the Glen Cove library. Three of the veterans in attendance were graduates of Glen Cove. Dr. Rianna repeated some of the stories that they shared with the group. Watching our students introduce each of the veteran's was an amazing experience and they seemed so enthralled in meeting them and getting to know their story. When Dr. Rianna was asked by a reporter if she supports this kind of education her reply was absolutely. She went on to say, when you put meaning in whatever you're learning in a classroom with true understanding with what happened during that period of time, it's an unforgettable experience. Maria Rianna also thanked Assemblyman, Chuck Lavine, for helping to put this celebration together. It was a beautiful cameration of our flag, our country and those who serve. She wished all those that are listening as well as those not in attendance a Happy Veteran's Day and thanked them for their service.

X. Unfinished Business

Nothing at this time.

XI. New Business

Trustees Lia Leone, Meghan Lavine and Maureen Jimenez gave there reporting on what they got out of all the presentations and workshops they attended while at the annual NYSSBA (New York State School Board Association) Convention. President Venuto and Vice-President Raimo will share their experiences of the conference at the next board of education meeting.

President Maria Elena Venuto, reported on a N-SSBA (Nassau-Suffolk School Boards Association) security workshop that she attended along with Dr. Rianna in Suffolk County. It was interesting in learning about what emergency responders do. Dr. Rianna asked about them doing one in Nassau County so that they can meet with Nassau representatives.

Dr. Rianna added that it's important to learn new technologies and ways to enhance security measures from one year to another. The workshop had a lot of interesting information as well as the conference. Glen Cove was the first district to allow police officers in our buildings and other districts have now followed suit. Although there are a lot of differences within districts, there's a lot of similarities. Dr. Rianna continued by saying that sharing of ideas and best practices helps improve all our school districts. We should continue to always look at how else we can improve our programs and student's experiences. She also stated that supporting new teachers allows them to feel more comfortable in that space and will prevent them from leaving the profession. We need to work together with other districts and see Long Island as one voice, not with just funding but with best practices as well. Dr. Rianna is glad that the Board of Education was able to attend the NYSSBA conference knowing that it's not easy when you're juggling family and work but that they got a lot of information along with best practices and procedures from attending.

Dr. Rianna continued to say that the Board of Education also attended a financial workshop very important and thanked them for looking for more information and more ways in providing our community with more fiscal security and being financially responsive to their needs.

Trustee Meghan Lavine added the good news that Proposition I passed.

Dr. Rianna thanked the community in passing Proposition I. She went on to say that we are able to secure the same debit limit provisions as the non-small city schools. Allowing us to borrow monies at a better rate and a more effective manner, additionally allowing us to keep on-going renovations going while keeping expenses to a minimum. Assemblyman Chuck Lavine was the head of the judiciary committee and before this could become a proposition it had to be moved off of that agenda and approved by the judiciary committee. Chuck was a huge advocate for this proposition and Dr. Rianna thanked him.

President Maria Elena Venuto did a shout out to one of the volunteer tv studio students. Harrison Velentzas was accepted to the University of Leiden in the Netherlands, his dream school, and went on to say that we're very proud of him.
