

RESOURCES YOU MIGHT NEED

NCWISEOWL: This free NC database is full of amazing resources for all of your research needs. The site is updated regularly, and has so many collections and resources for students K-12.

Tumblebooks: Now available, thanks to the Craven Pamlico Regional Library.

Epic: This app is available for free. Most teachers have already assigned this resource to their students on their iPads.

Storylineonline: Books are read aloud by famous people. Great stories!

Spaghetti Book Club: Books are reviewed by kids plus links to other book resources.

Starfall: This site is a phonics-based reading website. Many students love this site!

Lexile: This site can be used to find reading levels of books you are reading, or find a book suggestion for your reading level.

NCSLMA: The site of the North Carolina School Library Media Association's Battle of the Books website, where you can learn about the BOB competitions and free books lists.

ALSC: The Association for Library Service to Children, where you can find notable book lists for children, as well as lists of award winning titles and more.

Craven-Pamlico Regional Public Library: Get you a public library card today and take advantage of the many resources and books available through our local public library.

Vanceboro Public Library: Vanceboro is so lucky to have our own branch of the Craven Public Library System. Please visit this local public library to check out books, or participate in the various free activities they have to offer weekly.
