

Bolles students and children from Sanctuary on 8th Street celebrated at Bolles' Halloween Carnival.

No Tricks, Just Treats

Children served by Sanctuary on 8th Street were treated to a Halloween Carnival celebration at the Bolles campus, hosted by the upper school's Community Connections organization. The treasured tradition included games, prizes and candy and served as a first-quarter reward for the Sanctuary children. All 75 of the upper school clubs worked for about a month to organize their table and games like cornhole and pumpkin ring toss. The carnival is typically the first event for each of the clubs, providing an early team-bonding experience for them as well.
