

LAUNCH AT RUNWAY GREEN

AN EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING CAMPUS

A COMMUNITY VISION THEIR FIELD TO BUILD A BETTER WORLD

Tomorrow's leaders will be tackling climate change, food injustice, and systemic racism. That's why we're developing, RUNWAY GREEN, a state-of-the-art experiential learning hub located on over 1,000 acres of land at Floyd Bennett Field. Here, public school students will engage with the complex challenges facing their communities and the planet. Launch at Runway Green will be the first high school located on an education ecosystem in New York City intentionally designed to advance sustainability and racial equity.

THE CAMPUS A UNIQUE AND INNOVATIVE INSTITUTION

In collaboration with a collective of exceptional partner organizations, Floyd Bennett Fields historic grounds will be transformed into a world-class learning ecosystem serving hundred of public schools and over 50,000 public school students who have historically been denied access to world-class schools. By directly providing access to career exploration, work-based learning, and employability skills, our visionary students will gather on this campus to learn, work, and co-create a sustainable, equitable and just society for all.

STUDENTS WILL:

- Run a Three-Acre Farm
- Manage a Solar Panel Workshop
