A. Attendance update(7:05): John

We have seen a decrease in the number of students who are tardy. There are still more students who are absent and tardy than we can adequately address with the staffing that we have. We will still continue to move forward with the systems that we have in place and address what we can. A question was asked about the relationship between the new tardy policy and absences. John commented that the attendance started dropping back in the first semester even before the tardy policy went in place. We are looking at options related to peer court and community court as a way get students to school.
