International Community School News

Hello ICS families!

We hope you have begun to review the Focus Week experiences available to students as a family. Here is the post from earlier this week for your convenience. We are excited to bring back a more robust program this year. We hope when you are reviewing the opportunities for your son or daughter that you are having conversations about their passions and interests.

Several students completed the surveys almost immediately after they had been sent. This might indicate that parents were not consulted. Please note that students can resubmit these choices multiple times before the end of the day on December 14. This will give you another chance to resubmit choices after engaging in a conversation with them to ensure your family is on the same page with Focus Week choices.

We are in the home stretch for 2023. One more week to go before winter break. Make sure to check in with your child and see how they are doing leading into break. A lot is on their plates, and they are juggling quite a bit.

Have a wonderful weekend with your families!

Jacob
