BIOGRAPHY

I was born in Brownsville, Texas in 1982. I was the second of three children and raised in Mexico for ten years. When I was ten-years-old my family and I came to the United States. I am married and have two beautiful girls, Sofia, Sadie, and two handsome boys Oliver and Ryker.

I was an E.S.L (English as a Second Language) student from 5th grade to 9th grade. As an E.S.L student, I was forced to double the effort to understand and pass my classes. My 5th grade E.S.L teacher taught me, not only English, but how to be kind, understanding, persistent, and determined to accomplish my goals. She was a true role model, and an inspiration for me to become a teacher. I am a compassionate teacher because as a second language learner; I know how my students feel learning a new language. I also know how convenient it is for my students to be bilingual. They will have more opportunities to succeed in their professional life.

I absolutely love teaching. This is one of my greatest passions. I have been teaching Spanish for ten years. Students inspire me, make me laugh, and more often than once, it is them who end up teaching me great lessons in life! Spanish is what I teach, but overall, I want my students to learn to aim for the stars because the sky's the limit!!!
