

Dear current and prospective students and families, district liaisons and community members,

The Future Self Center is a unique learning environment where students and staff work closely to build a culture of curiosity, active learning, and insight. Our team is committed to helping students find their voice so they can move forward with hope.

We believe that students need a hands-on, brains-on approach so they can learn to sustain focus, build tangible skills, and grow in confidence. You will often find us recording music, tinkering with robots, printing personalized t-shirts, and creating original designs in one of our makerspaces.

Every day presents a new opportunity, and we embrace this at the Future Self Center.

All the best,

Matt Housh
Excellence & Innovation Supervisor
