Junior Max Capra can't help but smile as he settles down to do some school work.

Juniors flash their picture perfect smiles as they show off their ranger pride for Maroon and Gold Friday of Spirit Week.

Sophomores Alexandria White, Sadie Nelson and Katie Boleen take a break from their soccer practice and soak up some sun on the field.

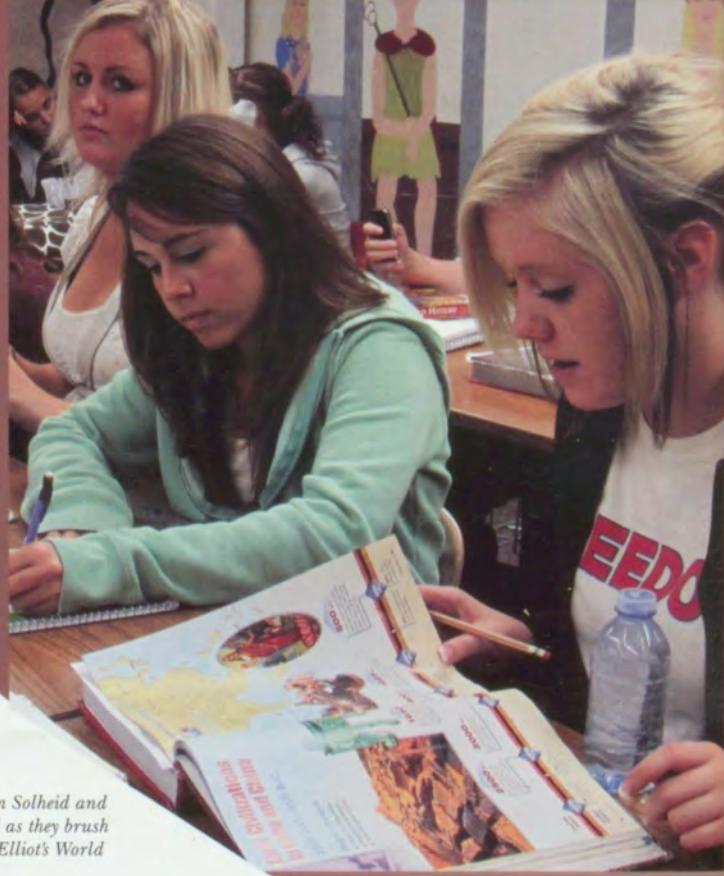

Seniors Corey Johnson and Jerry Wathen steady their aim as they partake in archery during fourth hour Team Sports. Archery is just one of the many sports students can try in that class.

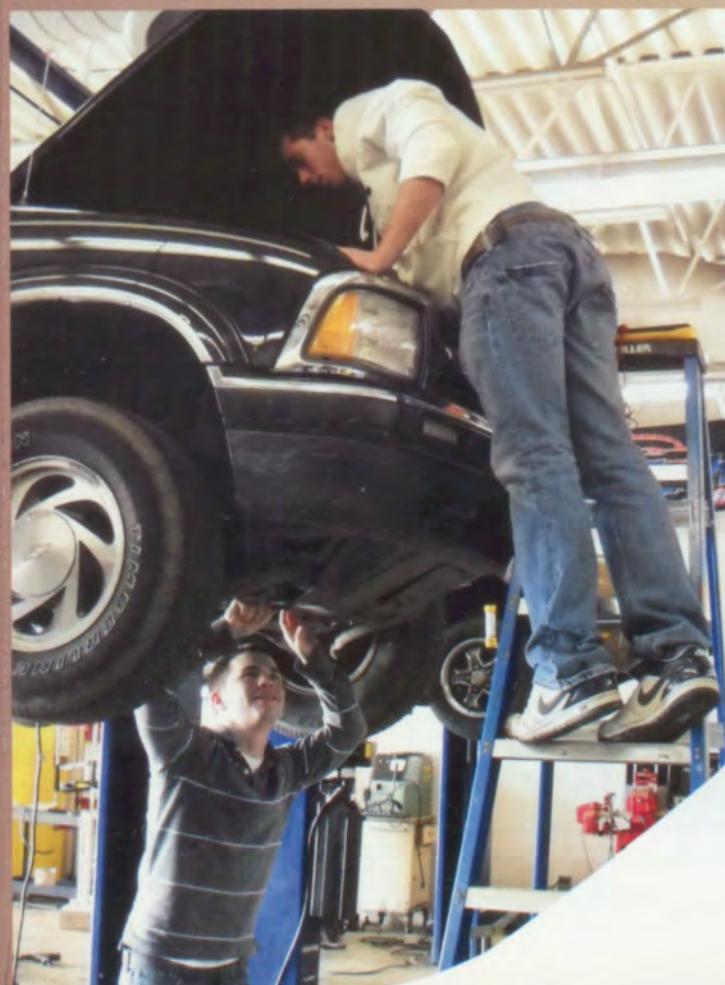

It's crunch time for Senior Taylor Lipp as she warms up for her fourth hour Gym class.

Juniors Alex Fedorchak and Mitch Tessier take a look through the microscope to identify some specimens for Biology.

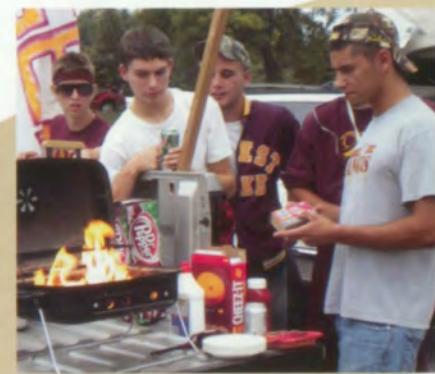

Juniors Stacy Apman, Devan Solheid and Allison Chapeau study hard as they brush up on their chapters in Mr. Elliot's World History class.

Where You've Been

It's the place where you can show your individuality and reveal characteristics within yourself. It's a road, a journey, a lifetime experience. It's a question, where to go next? Before we move forward, we need to see where we've been.

Every event creates a path. A path of memories that one day will come back to you. You will then re-trace your steps and again make that journey. The journey through high school is broad, yet defined by little moments that will soon frame the future. We've all been through the best...and for some, the worst, but eventually made it to the end to say those final three words "We made it."

A common activity for students is tailgating before football games. Especially before homecoming! Seniors Nate Ferderer, Parker Winning, JJ Lindenberg and Jake Urbanski had a good time getting ready to watch the game.

Senior Danielle Lardani pops her head around the corner into her math class, making sure she's not late to class.

Seniors Cody Erickson and Dean Determan work hard to fix a car in their Auto Tech class.

What You're In

What were you in?
How were you involved?

Being involved is about committing yourself to what you are best at, and what you love to do. Theodore Roosevelt once said, "Do what you can, with what you have, where you are." Were you involved in Student Council, Drumline, Debate, Robotics, DECA, Jazz Band, Homecoming Week, FFA, Concert Choir, or the Environmental Club? Here, we are known for our wide variety of fun activities and clubs and where students are able to let their interests and talents shine.

~Michelle Jensen

Seniors, Katelyn Plautz and Kayla Erickson are preparing cotton candy for lunches during Homecoming day. During lunches, DECA sold Cold Stone Creamery ice cream. According to Kayla Erickson, "Making cotton candy is a fun fundraiser for FFA and it was a big hit with all the students."

The Pep Band plays our school song at the Pep Fest while the crowd sings along. The lively performance was certainly impressive. Junior, Josh Bergan admitted, "We may not be the best band, but we definitely have the most fun."

ACTIVITIES

Seniors Zachary Riedeman and Kevin Nelson lead the crowd in what is the new tradition the Ranger Rollercoaster. Riedeman expressed, "The rollercoaster with Kevin on my shoulders was probably my favorite part of the day. The activity brought excitement and energy all day long.

Junior Sam Anderson and Seniors Charisse Kendrick and Whitney Fenne jumped aboard the spirit bus to show their school pride. Anderson exclaimed, "The spirit bus was my favorite part of Spirit Week. It was a lot of fun!" The bus was beneficial and exciting for all those involved.

Ranger Pride Ignites

This was a week awaited by everyone. It was a time to show off the students' dedication and admiration for the school. The journey began with Get Up and Go Day. A senior who showed a great amount of spirit, Jenna Novotny, stated, "Pajama Day was fun, I liked being able to wake up and come right to school, considering I wear my footie pajamas every night to bed!"

From the footie pajamas and bathrobes it was off to Twin Day! And no that does not mean dressing up like Joe Mauer, but matching attire with someone else in the school. Wacky Wednesday can get pretty crazy and students like to go all out. Wednesday was also a day for spreading the cheers and intensity to the junior high and elementary schools.

Three buses full of students departed on a day long adventure pumping up everyone in their path. Trailing behind that was Neon Day, which really brightened up the school. Finally, the excitement hit full throttle with Maroon and Gold Day on Friday.

Junior Angela Klebe exclaimed, "Shopping at Wal-Mart at 10:30 Thursday night searching for every last maroon and gold merchandise to complete your perfect spirit day outfit was definitely a memorable and exciting experience." Spirit was just one of the things the students made sure they had for the year 2010.

~Tristen Uram

Forest Lake Dance Team shows their loyalty to the school by doing their Homecoming dance not only on gym floors, but also on the parking lot. Senior Alex Chilson added, "I was a little nervous about doing our roll on the gravel, but we're tough so it wasn't too bad!" The girls danced with energy and poise that shined throughout the day.

Seniors Brogan Stegner and Lonna Anderson really know how to show their love for the Rangers on Maroon and Gold Day. Stegner raved, "My favorite part of Spirit Week is dressing up and just being crazy!" Maroon and gold filled the school on Friday.

Student Council members Jacqueline Ohman, Sophomore, and Taylor Kiesow, Junior, show their school pride by decorating the community. Keisow shared, "It's fun to go and paint the town and get all of Forest Lake excited and spirited for homecoming." Over 20 businesses in town allowed decorating of their front windows.

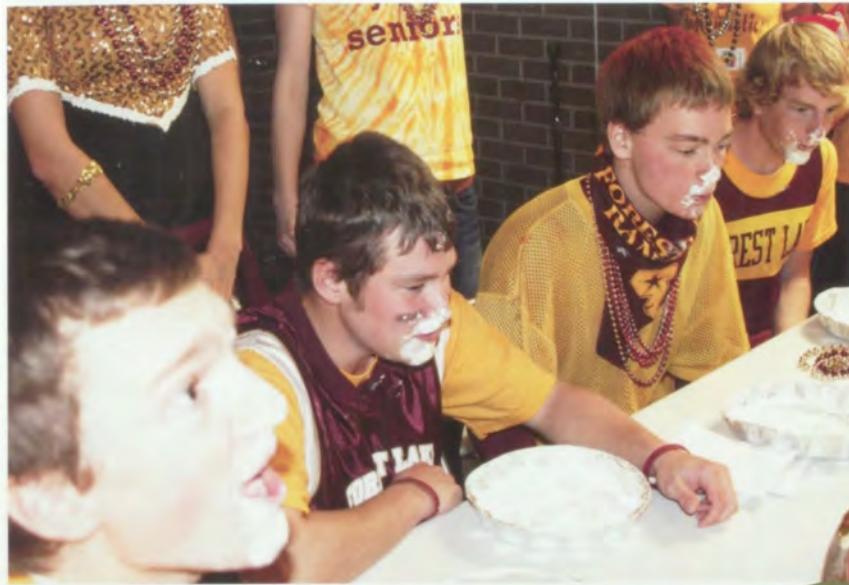

Juniors Sarina Hannon and Vanessa Agnes know what it takes to go all out on Get Up and Go Day. Hannon announced, "What a great day to have slippers! Agnes even brought a stuffed animal to finish off the look."

Sophomores Lenae Wilson, Trisha Penrnick, Virginia Lida and Victoria Plaisance help brighten up the halls on Thursday. "It was the only day I wanted to dress up," noted Wilson. Neon Day was a huge success and really lit up the school.

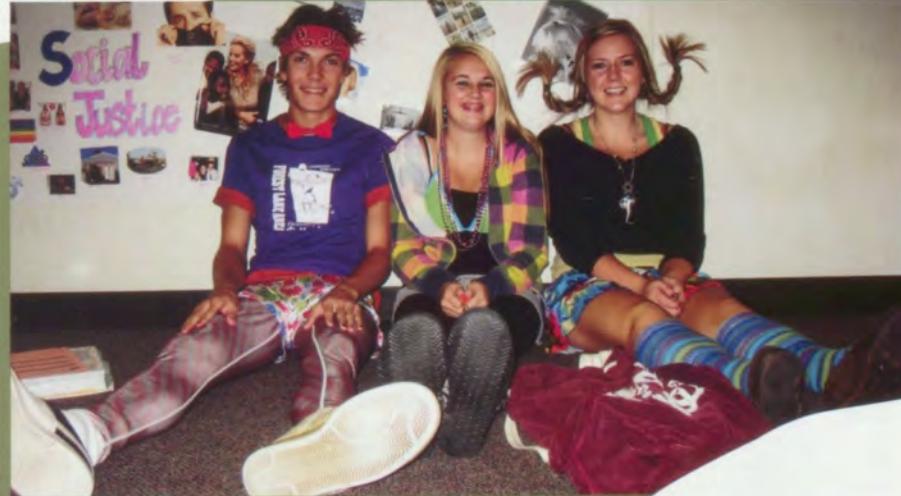

Seniors Jenna Novotny and Amanda Montague express their love for Pajama Day to the extreme. Montague announced, "I rocked my footies all day long!" Footies were a popular item for students this year.

Senior Trevor Waldoch, Juniors Andrew Massey and Matthew Goossens, and Senior Michael Howe show their dedication to the bubble blowing, pie eating contest. Howe explained, "I can't blow bubbles well, but it was fun anyway!" Friday was full of all sorts of contests and events including a chubby bunny contest and a Cold Stone ice cream fundraiser.

A sophomore crew celebrates their first year of homecoming at the high school. Sophomore Jaelyn Unger stated, "Homecoming was so fun! It was a big difference compared to the junior high." The "strong sophomores" made their mark in the school.

Senior Doug Sewall and Junior Chris Seales match from head to toe on Twin Day. Sewall reported, "We raided that Miley Cyrus section!" The boys' selection got many looks and their matching nail polish really topped it off.

Craziness hits an all new high when sophomores Joe Jackson, Bailey Nelson and Katelyn Wick make sure their outfits are the definition of wacky. Jackson informed, "Story of my life. Wake up, throw on tights and trade a girl for her tie dye boxers." Many items of clothing were uniquely put together to show school spirit.

A Pep Fest Fit for Royalty

We welcomed seniors Adrienne Acosta, Erin Daninger, Niccolette Johnson, Kevin Nelson, Zack Riedeman, and Trevor Waldoch into our gym during the Friday Pep Fest. The winners of last year's royalty Samuel Kolbow, and Samantha Opsahl, also known as the "Sams", came back to crown Daninger and Nelson as our new Homecoming King and Queen for 2009.

When it all came down to it, the royalty was warmly welcomed by seniors, juniors, and sophomores. It was a close race for all six of them, but Daninger and Nelson seemed to be pleasantly surprised to be crowned. "It was exhilarating and an experience of a lifetime, and super rewarding to be voted queen," said Daninger. Also Nelson chuckled saying, "I think the flyers helped." Overall, the crowning ceremony went extremely well and all of the candidates were fit for royalty.

After the crowning of the royalty, the Pep Fest continued with energetic cheering, as the crowd watched the guys and girls dance, listened to the fall captains come down on the floor to talk about their seasons, and also entertained by the limbo contest.

-Kiersten Caine

Senior Mitchell Wohlk, the "MC" at the Pep Fest, got the crowd all riled and ROWDIE. "I was chosen by Student Council to be the MC," said Wohlk. "It was really cool to be in front of the whole school for my Senior year, and to have a different experience for my last Pep Fest."

Sophomore Ashley Moore showed the crowd her flexibility by winning the limbo tournament. "It was very embarrassing and awkward when it got down to just the two of us" stated Moore. "The 75 dollars cash was a great start to high school". Moore won another limbo contest with Dance Tech last year.

20-10 20-10 20 20 20-10 chanted the seniors during the Pep Fest. The gym was filled with Ranger spirit on Friday afternoon. "This was one of the best Pep Fests in my high school career. You know that we own the year cheer...20-10, exclaimed Lonna Anderson.

The girls do a "6 o'clock" when dancing at the Pep Fest. Senior Alex Chilson likes to dance at football games and perform at the Pep Fests. Chilson also dances off season at different dance factories. "I enjoy the girls and love coming back every year, but the one thing that I am going to miss most about the girls is being so close to them", said Chilson.

The boys showed off their moves once again this year while dancing with the girls. They pulled the man card and got into the football huddle and cheered. Senior captains Cody Edelen and Logan Romines say that the hardest move was the donkey move. "I did not know what I was doing" said Romines.

Our new 2009 Homecoming Queen, Erin Daninger, and King, Kevin Nelson, stop from all the commotion to smile for us. The two perched on the thrones and posed for the cameras after being crowned. "What a great Senior year homecoming" said Daninger. She took the crown with honor and complete surprise. Nelson was also surprised and thrilled to be crowned.

One of the candidates Zach Riedaman, lead's the rollercoaster cheer at Century Middle School – at their very own Pep Fest. The kids seemed to enjoy this cheer, showing their enthusiasm by participating and going up down and side to side with Riedaman.

Candidates wait anxiously on stage to find out who will be crowned the next Homecoming Queen. All the girls will remember this moment for a lifetime. "Go sip, savor, slowly repeat", commented Daninger.

Riedaman, Waldoch, and Nelson all stand on stage waiting for Sam to come and crown the next king. "The lights were really bright when standing on stage", said Waldoch. "What I loved most about being one of the candidates was feeling like a celebrity".

The six candidates take time out of their busy Homecoming festivities to have fun and smile for the camera. They graciously took time for all of the activities going on to show their dedication and commitment to the school. "It was a fun, different, enjoyable and a fast week" said Nelson.

Waldoch, Riedeman, Nelson, Daninger, Acosta, and Johnson lined up at Century Middle School to announce their names. "My favorite moment was when I was asked what my favorite cartoon was. My answer, 'The Little Mermaid'. I also loved coming into all the schools and having the kids be so excited to see me. It makes me happy to see other kids happy", stated Johnson.

Royalty nominee Adrienne Acosta runs her way through the tunnel of her fellow peers. "My heart was racing because so many things were happening at once" said Acosta. "I also felt very honored to be nominated as royalty". A funny moment of the day was when Kevin fell off Zach's shoulders.

A sophomore team comes together for a picture after their loss. "Powder Puff was really fun, until we lost to rock, paper, scissors," explained sophomore Jaclyn Unger. Many of the teams' fates were decided by this method.

The team celebrates their triumph. "For the first time this year, the seniors didn't have to pay the refs to win," giggled senior Jamie Thorson. The Senior Snipers proudly took first place.

Girls Lay it All Out

"One apple, two apple, three apple!" shouted the girls at the beginning of the plays. The games all began a couple weeks earlier with the grueling, sometimes confusing, yet humorous practices where the boys taught the girls all about the game of football.

Once the game day arrived the lights made the field come alive with animation. The bleachers were filled, yes, even though it was snowing and thirty-eight degrees fahrenheit outside. The girls filed in decked out in matching shirts covered in four layers of sweatshirts, long underwear with an extra two pairs of sweat pants, hats and mittens. It was the girls turn to show the boys that their hard work had paid off and were actually paying attention during practices.

The seniors of course were claiming it was their turn to take the title from the previous seniors. Then there were the juniors and sophomores who were equally playing hard to break the cycle of seniors always winning. Fortunately for the Senior Snipers they came out with a win in the championship game against the Junior Mints. Powder Puff was a remarkable experience and very entertaining.

~Grace Guttormson

Senior team members Nicole Maxwell, Tara Kettler, and Molly Dimmerman show their excitement for Powder Puff. "The game was really fun and it brought a lot of the girls together, we made a lot of new friends," stated Maxwell. The team faced two tough losses due to Rock, Paper, Scissors.

The team prepares before the game with layers of clothing. "Our winning team made the decision to wear ski masks to portray the image of 'snipers' and to keep warm," noted senior Jordan Boniface. The fans drank hot chocolate to stay toasty.

The junior team of only six comes together for a picture. "We are the six reasons to be very afraid," warned Jennifer Scott. The team beat a junior team with only their mighty six, but ended up losing afterwards.

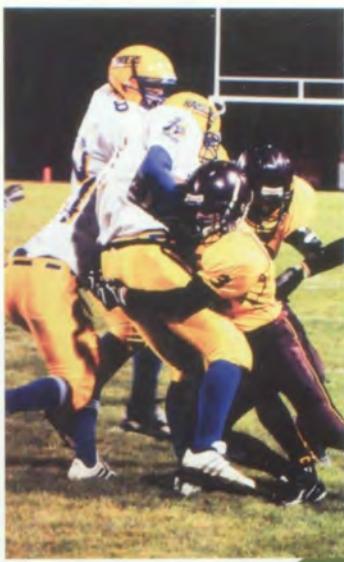

The team intimidates the others with their spirit. "To get pumped up for the game we climbed in Nick's Truck and drove around yelling at the other teams," exclaimed senior Tara Kettler. The S.W.A.T team took third place.

Junior Tyler Brunjes grills steak during tailgating before the game. "Steak dust and Killabrew makes everything taste better," claimed Brunjes. Many fans grabbed a bite to eat before they watched the big game.

The fans shine in maroon and gold to show off their Ranger pride. "My favorite part of Homecoming is showing our spirit when we perform at Pep Fest", declared junior Leah Dobihal. The dance team performed two dances earlier in the day at the Pep Fest.

Sophomore Thomas Tison tackles a Hasting Raider to the ground. "It's not the size of the dog in the fight, it's the size of the fight in the dog," claimed Tison. Tison played defense for the team as a sophomore.

Senior Kevin Nelson runs for extra yards against the Hasting Raiders. "I'm pretty good, but I'm no Zach Riedeman," joked Nelson. He had an exceptional game with three touchdowns.

Seniors Reuben Stenberg, Benjamin Vos, and Tyler Firkus sing one of their songs in the parking lot before the game. "It's never a good thing when you have to print the lyrics out and read them off when you are singing," explained Firkus of his performance.

Fighting for Victory

When the long awaited Friday football game came, it was the boys' turn to show off their skills. The Hasting Raiders came to town to try to defeat our high spirited team. The whole week, everyone anxiously awaited for the clock to hit seven and for the battle to begin.

It all began Friday after school with tailgating. A few bands played including Remedial Drive and Intervene. The stands were filled with returning and current students showing their heart and loyalty. Students with painted faces, beads, headbands, cowboy hats, maroon and gold; with an exception of the few camouflage jackets covered the stands.

The first quarter started the game off quickly for the boys with Kevin Nelson scoring. Followed by him, Zachary Riedeman scored and Nelson again. They ended the first half with a 32-0 lead. The dance team entertained the cold spectators with their dance to "Bad." The Royalty threw candy into the stands as they drove by the crowds. The team kept the lead in the second half. Samuel Miller helped the team by having two interceptions. The fans stuck out the chilly weather to watch the team finish proudly with a 44-13 win.

Traveling half way across the world to a country filled with new customs, people, and, of course, food are only a few things the foreign exchange students experienced during their stay in America. All of the students were involved in many different sports ranging from dance, soccer, and skiing. Since they were so busy with extra curricular activites, the students had a hard time getting together with each other and catching up. Señior Wing made it possible for all of the exchange students to be in his homeroom so they could meet every Wednesday and catch up.

Iahoma The Music Man The Wizard of Oz Footloose Annie Get Your Gun

Ducklings Rebecca Feidt, Janet Wiggins, Michaela Scheldrick and Laura Lundstrom all gawk at their unpleasant new brother. "I got to be mean and obnoxious like never before!" exclaimed senior Laura Lundstrom.

Cast: Vanessa Agnes, Anne Brown, Lauren Cooley, Rebecca Feidt, Sarah Flaherty, Adriana Gallo, Kara Gamelin, Gweir Glewae, Kari Grundmeier, Nicholas Jensen, Joe Joyer, Ian Lexvold, Laura Lundstrom, Klara Manning, Nicole Maxwell, Chloe Miron, Bailey Parenteau, Neil Peterson, Garrison Shea, Davanna Smith, Danielle Snider, Michaela Scheldrick, Ahren Schuwerck, Katie Schwister, Lindsey Sieber, Kaitlin Steinberg, Jacob Stendahl, Hannah Theisen, Ben Vos, Derek Walter, Hayley Westphal, Janet Wiggins, Chung Xiong

Technical Crew: Danielle Arvin, Sarina Hannon, Alex Iverson, Douglas Kotchen, Nicole Maxwell, David Moe, Eve Yang

Senior Anne Brown and junior Hannah Theisen belt it out for the egg-hatching song "Joy of Motherhood". Brown recalls, "It was great working with Hannah; she is so talented and VERY funny!"

Senior Bailey Parenteau comforts her feline friend, junior Vanessa Agnes. "Bailey is a really good actress and she has lots of energy. It was great working with her," exclaims Vanessa of her poultry partner.

A fresh face to the stage, junior Ian Lexvold opens the show with a soothing solo. Though new to the stage, Ian is no stranger to theatre. "I love to be on stage because it's a great way to express yourself. But, I like the technical aspects backstage as well."

All the geese prepare to take off in pursuit to find Ugly's mother in "Wild Goose Chase". Captain of the fleet, junior Jacob Stendahl jokes "I liked wearing the goggles!"

Little Shop of Horrors Hello Dolly Seussical Once Upon A Mattress Urinetown

"It was a great opportunity for me to improve my acting and it was great meeting new people. It was a lot of work and practice, but it was all worth it in the end," explicates sophomore Neil Peterson of his breakthrough role.

Senior Lindsey Sieber stands with her swan mate, senior Gweir Glewwe. It was Lindsey's first musical, but unfortunately her last at the high school. "It was a lot cooler than I thought it was going to be," laughs Sieber. "It was great meeting and making friends with everyone!"

The pit orchestra was all smiles as they get ready to show their talents during a dress rehearsal. "It was awesome playing the alto and bari sax. I'm looking forward to doing it next year. P.S. GO JAZZ BAND!" says first time pit member, sophomore Daniel Kezar.

Senior Gweir Glewwe sits alone while singing the song "Different". Glewwe has acted in many productions at the high school over his three years.

The Ugly Duckling

As a whole new year begins in the lives of students, as does the auditions and rehearsals for the fall musical. Like every activity, theatre requires time, hard work and dedication. As new and returning talent comes to the stage, they must bring their experience of theatre to the show. Through using their past, they have all come together to make this year's production of HONK! one to remember.

This year, there were many new members in the musical, both young and old. Overall, director Timothy Newcomb was satisfied with the results. "There were a lot of new faces and it was great to have new people! Also, some of our veterans stepped up to take bigger roles," Newcomb said of the varied cast.

Though the title may be a bit odd, it is a musical retelling of the classic story The Ugly Duckling. The story follows Ugly, through his struggle to fit in. "Ugly is misunderstood. He never gets a chance to be liked because of his unfortunate appearance," states senior Gweir Glewwe.

This year's cast really came together as one to have a comical, yet meaningful finished product. "In the end I was very happy with it. There were times when I thought that we weren't going to pull it together, but in the end I was very pleased, and so was the audience," said Newcomb. As the curtain was opened, the cast realized that it's what's inside you that matters and not what you look like.

Fall 2004 15

Seniors Joel Peterson and Courtney O'Donnell pose for picture during dinner. "Billy Mays here!" laughed Peterson. They went out to eat before they headed out Trick or Canning on Halloween night.

Seniors Mitchell Wohlk, Eric Moris, Steven Cozennoy and Bradley Finley lean against the railing wondering, where Snoopy went? "We finally made it to the end," commented Finley. Many of the students felt exhausted and ready for a big turkey meal after their walk.

Sarah Radden, Haley Mills, and Anne Longfellow show off their Halloween costumes. "NHS is super fun and I get to give back to the community" assured Mills. Later that evening they made it their mission to collect the most non-perishable food to help the community.

Character, Leadership, Service and Scholarship

National Honor Society (NHS) begins in junior year when all the students with a GPA of 3.5 or higher are selected to show they want to be involved. It requires an essay along with an application. Once selected by a committee by showing the desirable traits of character, leadership, service and scholarship, the new members are inducted in the spring of their junior year.

Then all of a sudden senior year begins and it is a rush to get every single one of the fifty hours done. The hours include Trick or Canning on Halloween, by walking from door to door asking for non-perishable foods. Other people fill the hours by doing things like Breakfast with Santa, ushering plays, and working with the organization Feed my Starving Children. They help make the community a better place.

The community and the members thrive from NHS's involvement in the community. The members learn to not take anything they have for granted. They also learn the fun in helping little children make crafts. Whether the lesson learned is light hearted or deep, the members always enjoy taking part in these events. Not only are the lives of the people they volunteer for changed, but also their own.

~Grace Guttormson

Senior Mitchell Wohlk jumps and tries to imitate the flying manikins. "Being an officer for NHS is cool because I get to lead some of the service opportunities" said Wohlk. Many people gathered at the Mall of America on Thanksgiving Day to help raise money to buy food for the people in need.

Senior Jenna Novotny waits at a front door for the owner to open it. "Although it was a bit chilly on Halloween (hence the hat), we still had an awesome time collecting canned goods for those in need. I love hanging out with my two future U of M buddies...especially doing community service with them" claimed Novotny. She and friends went door to door trying to collect as much food as possible.

Some of the members befriend a new amigo. "I thought it was really fun and I was helping raise money to end hunger," explained senior April Enrooth. The Walk to End Hunger happened on Thanksgiving morning bright and early.

Samantha Carlson, Vanessa Melcher, Rebecca Fordyce, and Amanda Thao snap a Christmas picture on Santa's lap. "It was fun to be able to work with little kids on art projects," commented Melcher. The members gathered at St. Joseph's Church for Breakfast with Santa.

The students gather at the Marshmallow Stuffing Contest to see who can get the most in their mouth. "It was exciting to be in the cafeteria during all lunches during Homecoming Week!" expressed Katlin Nowicki. The lunch room was filled with noise throughout the week because of the contests NHS held.

Benjamin Vos, Jordan Boniface, Jenna Novotny, Grace Guttormson and Michael Howe get a picture of their experience outside of Chipotle Mexican Grill. "Rob's raps helped make the night a lot less cold," joked Vos. The group kept the jokes flowing throughout the night to help collecting food go faster.

The FFA Emblem consists of many objects that each represent something important. The eagle symbolizes the national scope of the FFA Program. The cross section of an ear of corn represents common agricultural interests across the United States. The owl represents wisdom and knowledge. The plow represents hard work and dedication. The rising sun symbolizes the promise of a new day in agriculture. And the words represent the importance of FFA in Agriculture Education.

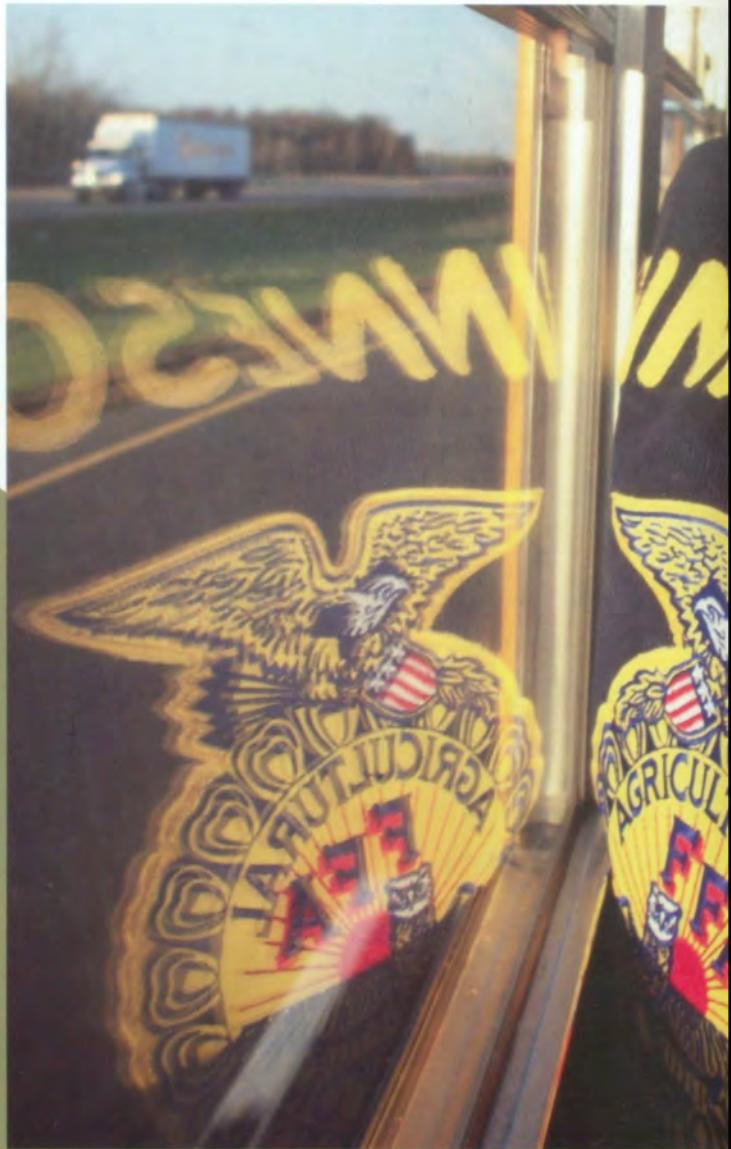

Junior Rosalyn Nelson, senior Kayla Erickson, and junior Alexandra Murdock assemble apple nametags at the Family Farm Fest. "We taught kids about different types of apples. It was fun to watch them learn," expressed Erickson and Murdock. The children tasted different apples and chose their favorites. It was a successful event.

A group of FFA members gather at the Regional Officer Conference in Morris. "We learned a lot about leadership," stated Bailey Schwartz. They also learned how to better their region.

Former graduates Ashley Nelson and Krysta Nelson take a break with seniors Nicolette Johnson and Kayla Erickson during the FFA National Convention. "We spent every day and night hanging out and working together. It made us incredibly close," revealed Johnson. They had a fun and successful week as the chapter's Food Science team. Johnson was judged first individual in the nation.

FFA members stand proudly as they display their awards at the State Convention. "All we do is dominate," exclaimed seniors Sarah Williamson and Erin Daninger. They competed against other students from all over the state.

Senior Hailey Tetrault and junior Alexandra Murdock strike a pose for a quick snapshot taken by their student teacher. "I stole our four-eyed student teacher's glasses and put them on," explained Tetrault. They were visiting the University of Minnesota.

Senior Alexander Ginis escorts a calf at the Equine Center during a visit at the University of Minnesota. "Field trips for the class are fun and educational," claimed Ginis. CIS Animal Science is a hands-on class and was one of his favorites.

Junior Ryan Rehbein serves cotton candy during lunch on Homecoming day. "It was fun to participate in the Homecoming festivities," voiced Rehbein. The student vendors faced long lines and excited customers.

Senior Janet Wiggins whips up a treat for a customer. "It was really exhausting because I had to work for twelve hours," concluded Wiggins. Their malts were a huge hit at the County Fair.

More Than Meets the Eye

FFA is a lively organization that is structured on three levels including national, state, and local. It was originally founded as the Future Farmers of America in 1928. However, sixty years later, it was renamed the National FFA Organization. The Forest Lake FFA Chapter was established in 1937.

FFA is about all about getting involved in the community. Members meet new people, gain social experiences, build resumes, learn how to be leaders, and how to work as a team.

Students participate in many activities and events each year. These include Adopt-A-Family, Open House, FFA Week, Chapter Camp, talent contests, wildlife management, the Veteran's Day Ceremony, plant sales, community landscaping, and county and state fair activities.

The Forest Lake FFA Chapter was fortunate enough this school year to travel to Indiana to participate in the largest annual FFA event. Their performance as a school was impressive and students brought home high-level awards. The chapter's parliamentary procedure team even earned a bronze medal in the national competition. Members of this team included Andrew Miron, Erin Daninger, Ryan Rehbein, Katelin Plautz, Bailey Schwartz, and Sarah Williamson.

FFA is more than just what meets the eye and has a place for anybody who wants to have a place in the community.

For the Record

With archives dating back 75 to 80 years, the Journalism class here at the high school developed and wrote articles and columns for the beloved student newspaper, The Forest Breeze.

Despite the reduction in class size, the staff remained inspired and developed unforgettable articles that were distributed in print throughout the student body. Laura Palke, formerly Laura LeVake, continued on with her fifth year of the production of The Forest Breeze and even tried something new this year by first publishing articles online on a student journalism web site for readers to enjoy. "We've had a really small staff the last few years but our staff has been great, they've learned a lot and I think they've had a valuable experience," claimed Palke.

Throughout the Journalism course, Palke's goal was, and remains to be, to introduce journalism and show the difference between five paragraph essays; while increasing the appreciation by students for the field of Journalism with the hopes of sparking an interest. Writing articles requires the writer to be short and concise yet still hold the interest of the reader. "Journalism has taught me to be more concise in my writing" replied sophomore Maxwell Nelson.

This year was the last year that the Journalism class was offered, but this doesn't mean it is the end for The Forest Breeze. Next year the media courses such as Media, Television and Film, Public Broadcasting and Journalism will be placed into 2 courses: Media Production and Advanced Media Production. With the hopes that The Forest Breeze staff will expand, students have continued to write articles that made a lasting impression no matter how many students took part in the Journalism course.

~Hannah Stout

Being part of a staff means you have to work together to accomplish tasks. "Our class size is smaller but it's more fun because there is more for everyone to do and be involved in", claimed junior editor Megan Daly.

Sophomore Maxwell Nelson listens intently to the new ideas being presented in class by teacher Laura Palke. "Mrs. Palke is laid back and enjoyable to work with when writing an article", expressed Nelson.

"The Journalism class really prepares you for work in the news industry and it definitely sparks an interest", shared sophomore Jennifer Nelson. After being a part of The Forest Breeze staff, Nelson has found her place in the Journalism world and plans to further her interest in this field of work.

Being part of The Forest Breeze helps students learn to branch out of their comfort zones and get to know their peers. "Interviewing is something I've gotten better at. Before I wasn't as comfortable talking to people I didn't know but now I'm comfortable approaching people about activities going on in our school," replied senior Nicole Hovatter.

Developing a "nose for news" is something that journalism students instill upon themselves while writing an article. "Journalism has taught me how to change my writing to be more informative," claimed sophomore Dorothea Olson.

This year, the Open Minds Club proved that a positive attitude can really go a long way. As a new activity this year, the idea for Open Minds Club was brought over to the high school from Century Junior High just across the street.

"We wanted to make a spot for old members transferring over to the high school so that they could re-join," replied co-coordinator Angela Nelson.

Being student led, Open Minds Club allowed students to take part in group discussions that focused on issues within the school such as racism and diversity and resolve them in a positive way. Members also worked on projects such as the Haiti fund raiser which raised nearly 1,300 dollars and created posters promoting the elimination of derogatory terms. "Creating posters helps make other students

The Open Minds Club knows how to have fun but they're serious when it comes to issues within the school. The people are great, open to new ideas, and understanding of differences. They really help you out, replied senior Angela Ross.

When the Open Minds Club meets, they spend their time discussing topics and deciding what the best possible way is to solve it. "We're trying to promote diversity and persuade people to open up their minds to new ideas and be respectful", explains junior Vanessa Agnes.

Embracing Diversity

aware of issues and their place in them," expressed sophomore Samuel Doten.

Their main foundation was, and is, to support others and be welcoming and understanding of others who are interested in joining. "It's a really welcoming and compassionate environment that we hope students will catch onto!" exclaimed junior Sarina Hannon.

Looking forward to next year, Open Minds Club hopes to expand their membership and become more active in the community. It is quite evident that this club has made a positive impact on the student body. Senior Tony Yang replied, "It makes me happy that I know I'm not the only one who wants to make a difference."

The Speech team gathers around a table to get ready by filling out critique sheets. "Speech has just been a wonderful learning experience," stated senior Bailey Parenteau. Everyone on the team has a lot of fun gathering together before giving their speeches.

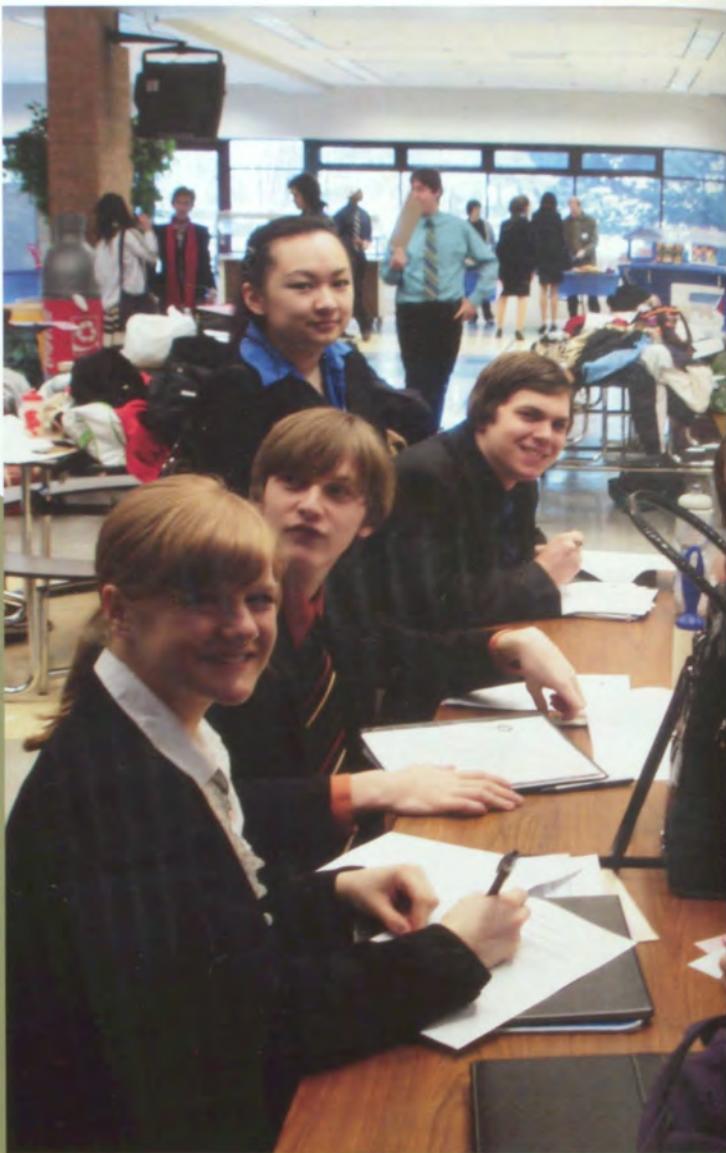

Members of the speech team stand and talk to the wall for some extra practice before tournaments and competitions. "We all concede to look like idiots while talking to the wall, but it's a part of team spirit," joked junior Sarina Hannon. This procedure prepares and calms the individuals as they get ready to speak.

Sophomore Hannah Theisen jokes around on the podium before a home tournament. "I really enjoy speech even though it can be challenging," Theisen stated. She has been very successful this year and hopes to continue to make progress.

Forest Lake

Senior Laurel Pelton accepts the first place honors final from former captain Kathryn Haglin at the Forest Lake tournament. "It was fun," shared Pelton. The former captains made the tournament a memorable event for the team.

Senior Gweir Glewwe stands at the podium laughing while having fun at practice. "Remember, kids, it's ALWAYS the judges' fault!" Glewwe joked. Even though a lot of work is put into their speeches the end has a favorable outcome.

"Speech combines the independence and internal motivation required for individual competition with a social and supportive team atmosphere. It is the training ground for our future politicians, comedians, actors, teachers, lawyers, and business leaders," senior captain Derek Waller stated. He spoke this season for the Drama and Duo categories.

Junior Kyle McCleary receives an award in the Finals at Forest Lake. "Being good at speaking is a great talent so it's fun to participate," McCleary stated. Awards make Speech all worth the work, especially if you place in a tournament.

Talking it Up

Although Speech is not a sport and may not be as physically active as one, one's mind is always juggling between hand gestures, vocal volume, articulation, movement, eye contact, and emotions. Students learn to communicate effectively in a competitive environment that stresses logic, quick thinking, a wide range of knowledge, persuasion, and ultimately public speaking.

This team was comprised of students who combined a command of the English language with a passion for public speaking. Senior captain Eve Yang stated, "The people you see at the tournament definitely have talent and dedication to perform a speech. It's one thing to write a paper, but it's another thing to perform something written, or read in front of an audience and be able to take critiques." Being a captain is a big role for Yang along with the other captains, Gweir Glewwe and Derek Waller.

They organize captain practices every week. Captains also attend a team meeting once a week and an individual practice with their coach for a half hour, two times a week. "Everyday you have to come prepared to spend the next thirty minutes working with your coach. While not all practices are intense, the coaches do push us to be the best," shared senior Gweir Glewwe.

Lettuce Perform

Unique is one term to describe this year's One Act. Performed in such a comical way, this year's production was clearly unforgettable.

The One Act is basically two plays in one. The first one is overdramatic, overexaggerated and sappy. Then there's the inner play where the actors are explaining what they are thinking at the time," explained junior Nicholas Jensen.

The main focus for this play was unity. The cast and crew really needed to work as one to bring the production together. "The small cast really helped us work together and made us cohesive," stated senior Laurel Pelton.

This year the One Act placed first at Sub-Sections and third at Sections. Jill Birk directed this year's production and brought a direction and influence the cast really took a liking to. "Birk Rocks! She always brings something new to the table each time we work with her and that's something I really admire about her!" expressed senior Stage Manager Bailey Parenteau.

Despite missing a trip to State, the cast thoroughly enjoyed this year's show. "The show was one of the highlights of my high school experience. I almost don't want to do another show, because I don't think it will live up to this one," revealed senior Chloe Miron. The theatre department will continue to perform One Acts, but nothing will be quite like this one.

~Anne Brown

When not performing, the cast and crew all have some down time. Most of the post-show activities involve cast parties. "It's nice to relax after a performance and party it up," remarked junior Ian Lexvold.

Seniors Laurel Pelton, Chloe Miron and Derek Waller all embrace in a touching moment during the play. As the cast in the play got close, so did the whole cast and crew. "We bonded a lot and became a tight-knit family," mentions senior Bailey Parenteau.

"My favorite part about the one act was the small cast. It really helped us focus on each of our parts and it gave us more one on one time with the director!" adds senior Derek Waller.

Sophmores Kyle Pagel, Eric Peirson, and instructor Lynda Rupp work together to install the battery and lights into the robot. "The competition is awesome", claimed Kyle Pagel. It took the whole six weeks to finish the machine.

The team splits up into three groups which include the marketing, programming, and the build team. "Robotics is challenging and fun. It really pushed the team to get the job done", expressed senior Heidi Witzel. She participated on the marketing team, looking for sponsors.

Senior Sharon Gonier, sophmores Emily Myers, Philip Shusta and freshmen Jason Shevik work together to program the robot to connect with the joysticks. "The best thing about robotics is working as a team", revealed Gonier. She joined to spend more time with her boyfriend.

Sophomore Emily Myers shows off the crate the team built to put the robot in. "It's fun to build things with my friends", voiced Myers. It took only one day to build the crate.

Down to the Wire

FIRST Robotics is an international organization with a regional and national competition held every spring. FIRST is actually an acronym for "For Inspiration and Recognition of Science and Technology".

The team consisted of 25 student members, two coaches, and three engineers who were their mentors. The team organized in the fall with several informational meetings and training sessions before their kick-off in early January. The group designs, builds, and markets a robot for a specific challenge.

Some students were involved in designing the robot, building it out of metal, and programming the computer. Other students did fundraising in the community, designed t-shirts, built storage bins, and planned marketing giveaways. The group looked forward to competition. It was held the first few days of April at the University of Minnesota.

This year, their robot was teamed with robots from two other schools. It participated in competitions such as kicking soccer balls into goals, traveling over foot-tall speed bumps, and climbing a seven-foot tower.

Having FIRST Robotics on their resume increases a student's chance at college acceptance and scholarship opportunities. Students involved in FIRST get a real-world opportunity to work at an engineering problem.

~Michelle Jensen

A photograph showing two students working on a robot component. One student is wearing a yellow shirt and the other is wearing a purple shirt. They are both focused on their work, likely assembling or repairing a part of the robot.

Sophomore Eric Peirson and senior Bryan Rudisill hook up the components of the robot to each other. This is a great opportunity for me because I love designing and building things. They were in the process of testing the robot.

Senior Derek Waller puts senior Laurel Pelton in an uncomfortable position during the show. "Because there were so few of us in the cast we ended up getting really close and feeding off each other", exclaimed Pelton.

Refuting Success

As the Debate team wrapped up their arguments and filed away their cases, they all reflected upon this year's accomplishments. "The team as a whole did really well this year! We had some people get really far at the big tournaments, which was really great!" exclaimed senior captain Laurel Pelton.

There were seven Public Forum teams, and only five Lincoln Douglas debaters during the year. This season was certainly focused on creating strong Public Forum teams and lasting debaters. "It went well this year considering we lost a lot of experience last year from the graduating seniors; this year was a good year for the developing debaters," explained team coach Robyn Madson. New team members stepped in and argued their way to the top and veterans used their leadership to carry their team to victory. "My expectations this year were that we would be a strong public forum presence and that we would improve our record at JV Novice State," said Madson.

It is evident that's exactly what the team did. Juniors Natalie Hoidal and Renee Hoppe in Public Forum, made it to the semi-finals at the JV Novice State tournament, along with other extraordinary wins. Overall the team worked well together to form a lasting united power. The hope of coach Robyn Madson is that "next year more people will come out for debate and that our returning debaters will continue their success."

~Anne Brown

The debate team shows their holiday spirit by dressing up at a Halloween tournament. "I was a mime, and people would say 'Don't talk!'" laughs senior Caitlin Bixby. The senior says that most people took her seriously at the tournament because everyone else was dressed up too!

Senior captain Kristin Iverson lounges in her pajamas at practice while listening intently for information on the upcoming tournament. Debate isn't all work and no play, there are fun parts too! What's Iverson's favorite part about debate? "Definitely the overnights and the Debate parties because it's good team bonding time and the kids are hilarious!" jokes Iverson.

Senior captain Kristin Iverson lounges in her pajamas at practice while listening intently for information on the upcoming tournament. Debate isn't all work and no play, there are fun parts too! What's Iverson's favorite part about debate? "Definitely the overnights and the Debate parties because it's good team bonding time and the kids are hilarious!" jokes Iverson.

Senior captains Laurel Pelton and Nicholas Bergantine proudly show off their second place trophy in Public Forum at the Cooper Hawk tournament. Both of the seniors are going to miss the team immensely. "I'm going to miss incessantly arguing with Jon Brown," states Bergantine.

DECA's theme this year was "Live Your Legacy! These members are doing just that. They are competing in career opportunities. Vanessa Melcher states, "I really like the DECA olympics, it was funny to see everyone compete!"

Senior Katherine Kuhnert competed against other schools for DECA Olympics. One of her competitions was to explain and show her wacky talent in front of the audience. "My wacky talent is licking my elbow. It was really funny seeing the audience try to do it," commented Kuhnert.

Seniors Charles Smith and Gilbert Tamfu compete against other boys from different schools to see who the best Mr. DECA is. "I never want to dress up as a girl again! I definitely have more respect for them now," exclaimed Tamfu.

Senior Cole Aden competes in the DECA Olympics Mystery event. The purpose of the event was to see how much popcorn could you stick to the peanut butter. Aden states, "even though we didn't win, it was really fun competing!"

Senior Novice debater Amber Tolrud prepares for her next Lincoln Douglas round. "Reading to the wall is super beneficial to warm up your voice and review your case," claims Tolrud.

Live Learn Lead

This is an organization brought together by students studying marketing, management and entrepreneurship in business, finance, hospitality and marketing sales and service. It teaches students leadership, responsibility, and the standard requirements for business in our society today.

DECA's objective is to support the development of marketing and management skills in career areas. DECA helps students to develop skills and competence for marketing careers, to build self esteem, to experience leadership and to practice community service.

They had many activities and fund-raisers throughout the year. They had sold Cold Stone Creamery ice cream during lunches, Happenings Books, Suckers, Umbrellas, Beads and many more fund-raisers to make it a successful season.

Members spent countless hours before and after school to prepare themselves for competition. It gave students the experience needed to compete and challenge themselves against other students. The team had an outstanding season and qualified Cole Aden, Charlie Smith, Gilbert Tamfu, Lauren Brink, Vanessa Melcher, and Nicole Olsen for the State Career Development Conference.

Opening Our Eyes

Students Against Destructive Decisions, also known as SADD is more than just keeping kids away from drugs. It is a peer-to-peer youth education organization focused on substance and alcohol use and abuse. They worked together to create alternative methods for the student body to be engage in positive ways.

"It took a lot of hard work to be the role models of the school," stated junior Kyle Heiling. They informed the students about drunk driving by showing the Mock Car Crash. They had the Grim Reaper come into the classes to give us a sense of what it would be like to lose one of our fellow students, and they constantly hung posters around the school to inform students throughout the year about our world and city in need of help.

"We raised money for different events, like autism, breast cancer, and soldiers. We've also raised awareness for different events such as the Ranger Promise", stated sophomore Dorothea Olson. "It gives you a good feeling in your heart that you are helping someone in need."

SADD is a great program to get involved in or contribute to. It benefits students intellectually and socially. When junior April Robinson was asked why she joined SADD she stated, "There is no reason not to!"

-Kiersten Caine

The SADD motto was printed on this years t-shirts to remind students in the community what SADD is all about. The red ribbon stands for Mothers Against Drunk Drivers. This is our ranger promise to keep us safe.

A group of SADD team members show off the display case in the front of the school to show students what SADD is all about. "It's all about making our city a better and safer place to live in," explained senior Sarah Williamson. SADD meets every Wednesday during Advisory and every Tuesday to guide our school in a positive direction.

Senior President Laura Lundstrom, and senior Megan Klapperich are the leaders for the SADD group. "My favorite part about SADD is going over to the junior highs and helping the Special Education group", said Klapperich. Reaching out to others is a major part of being involved in this organization.

Senior Andrew Riley plays the tenor at one of the home meets. Riley started drumline last year and already has lots of funny memories. "One of my best memories is just Von in himself," laughed Riley.

SADD Advisor Judy Hill, junior Stefania Mackiewicz, senior Kayne Angell, and senior Mallory Baker warm up in the hot tub after leaping into the ice cold water during this year's Polar Plunge. "We jumped to raise money for SADD, it was really fun but really cold," exclaimed Mackiewicz.

The drumline, Frontline, takes a break from taking formal pictures to have a little fun during the day. This picture is a good example of how this team works. "We are like one big family. We spend so much time together", said senior Carlie Boudreau.

The Battery drumline takes their formal picture for yearbook. "I played the tenors this year, and last year, as my first year I played the bass", stated Andrew Riley. "Some of my favorite times from drumline is listening to Von, he is a memory in himself, laughed Riley Carlie Boudreau plays xylophone and the marimba. Boudreau has been on drumline for five years, and has loved every minute of it. Before the team goes out and competes, they have what they call a "pit hand shake". "This had been going on every since I started the team", said Boudreau.

The drumline kids help load up the trailer, heading off to a meet. All meets are on Saturdays and take most of the day. "We start loading up the buses around three and don't get back until midnight" says Boudreau.

Keeping the Beat

Drumline is made up of students from the high school, and the junior highs. You can start as soon as seventh grade or even new as a senior. It's a chance for all students to come together and compete on a team while doing something they enjoy.

As the season progressed, the students were not only a team, they had become family. Some of the students didn't start until their first years of high school. Other students had been involved in drumline since middle school. No matter what the case was, each of them worked hard together to help each other improve as the year went on.

Most of their competitions were held on Saturdays, but some of them were held on Sundays. It didn't matter when their meets were though, because the team practiced every week in preparation for the next time they would step out on the floor.

"It's such an adrenaline rush. The time flies by the minute you start to play. You just get into a totally different mind set, and it's such an amazing feeling," expressed senior Carlie Boudreau.

Drumline was a way for students to express themselves through the art of music. The students on the team also enjoyed watching the other schools' shows. Drumline's all about providing a fun musical environment to grow in. With many new friends made and lessons learned, the students really enjoyed drumline this year.

Helping Hands

Rotary Club is a volunteer organization that helps the community out in many ways. They have a tremendous amount of activities throughout the school year. "It's really fun to help people out," exclaimed Sarina Hannon.

First Row: H. Collins, S. Carlson, T. Firkus, R. Larson, J. Peterson, S. Hannon.

Second Row: A. Sipola, B. Finley, S. Buys, T. Kettler, J. Kunshier, N. Ferderer.

Third Row: Q. Carr, D. Hannon, B. Mondloch, B. Anderson, S. Wilke, A. Forsman, D. Firkus, J. Weigel.

The Rotary Club hosted a "Gettin' Cold" winter plunge on Forest Lake. Individuals and teams took a dip in the frigid water. Some dressed up to show their spirit.

Kelly Wing, Amy Mouacheupao, Francine Dean and Devon Vue promote various cultures of the world. Music was played throughout the lunches. "We tried to spread the Hmong culture", commented Mouacheupao.

Devon Vue and Luke Ulstead promote different cultures around the school. There were many activities students could do to get involved. "My favorite activity is the word match because you learn about other cultures", exclaimed Luke Ulstead.

The International Club gets together for a group picture during one of their after school meetings. These members try to promote other cultures throughout our school and community. Aubrey Thole stated, "We have a great group of people and I love trying new activities".

Members

S. Chea, F. Dean, E. Erickson, N. Hoidal, L. Hoppe, M. Jeon, R. Kohs, P. Moua, A. Mouacheupao, S. Myers, N. Rodriguez, A. Ross, A. Thole, L. Ulstad, D. Vue, K. Vue, M. Vue, E. Waldron, A. Witthuhn.

A Different Perspective

International Club is an organization dedicated to create a social awareness and understanding between American students and students who were foreign born and/or recent immigrants to the United States.

Members of this organization enjoy international cultural experiences as well as social, educational, and outdoor events while helping the community. These students welcome foreign exchange students with different activities throughout the year. The students educated themselves on different cultures of countries around the world. They respect one another regardless of where they came from or what they look like.

Life lessons have been learned along the way. The world is changing faster than we can imagine. IClub has helped out the people in need as well. They have planned events such as the Festival of Cultures, Hmong Culture, Invisible Children, World Language Week, Black History Month, Hispanic Heritage Month, and Befriending Foreign Exchange Students. These events have had a major impact on society.

International Club's mission is to promote various world cultures to Forest Lake High School and the community.

~Amanda Montague

Seniors Grace Guttormson and Katie Nenn take a break to look up to see all the hard work they just did for the Pep Fest. When asked what the best part about setting up the gym was, Guttormson said, "I like making it the way that I want it to look."

Every year all the kids get together in the summer to have a camp out to get to know each other. This summer it was held at William O'Brain State Park. "This is my first year on Student Council and we had a blast. I only wish that I had joined it earlier", stated junior Ariana Forsman.

Senior Tony Yang and junior Nicholas Jensen were the cooks for the camp out. They had to get creative for how many people wanted hotdogs. They enjoyed cooking for the weekend by the fire.

Let the Party Begin

From the start of the year the students that were in Student Council had a very busy schedule. Opening the school year with orientation, to Homecoming then Spirit Week, always comes faster than expected. The students worked very hard at each activity that they planned, so the rest of the student body could enjoy the activities. "One of the hardest things about Student Council was putting all the last minute stuff together," stated senior Katie Nenn.

This group of students was not the typical group someone would expect to be on the council. When asked what do most people not know about the students that were a part of this group, Erika Parchar exclaimed "We are NOT nerds and we have a lot of fun."

To get into Student Council you have to answer questions and write a paper to the advisors Mrs. Lee Anne Brockman, and Mr. David Livermore. "It is not that hard to get into, it's just that no one wants to be a nerd" laughed Neen. Towards the end of our school year, student council was in the charge of Winter Wonder Week, Hats On, Blood Drive, and the Match Makers. The student body really appreciated every thing that the student council had done for our school.

~Kiersten Caine

Waking up early for morning meetings is just one of the many things that students on the council get to be blessed with. Senior Derek Waller comes prepared though, with a cup of coffee to wake him up.

Junior Samatha Moe, junior Renee Hoppe, and sophomore Daniel Kesar take a little break from serving breakfast. They were raising money at Student Council breakfast at the Forest Lake Applebees.

There is a time for everything, a time to work, a time to play, a time to laugh, and as you see here, seniors Samantha Carlson, Erica Pracher, and juniors Samantha Moe, and Renee Hopp take time to get down to business. The students in the council work very hard at planning events. "My favorite part about being on Student Council is planning the dances," commented Moe.

Juniors Tyler Colling and Roni Gross take a break from preparing for the royalty ceremony. "A lot of work goes into all of our school events, but seeing everyone's faces light up when they walk in is most definitely worth it," commented Gross.

Juniors Taylor Kisow and Laura Taylor look at the calendar to plan for upcoming events, making dates to deadlines. There is so much more that goes into events than people know. Kisow said.

Presidents Sam Carlson and Erika Practar enjoy themselves at the Halloween dance. They lead the council in starting back up the tradition of having a dance at this time. As presidents, they lead the council by more than just words, they did it with actions.

Q. What is your funniest memory?
A. "When Mr. Zumwalde tripped over the podium!"
~Sophomore Alyssa Johnson

The brass winds add on the finishing touch to the overall appeal of the band. Sophomore Dennis Dean added, "band is such a fun class and if everyone did band it would be a great feeling of accomplishment!" Their ears were most important in knowing the sound while playing the trombone.

Trumpets contribute to the loudness of the band. Sophomore Cory Rossini noted, "Cole made my ears hurt". Harmonies echoed throughout the year in the band room.

A Perfect Harmony

Harmony hit a whole new note when the Concert Band performed. The band had five concerts this year and was successful at every one. With using warm ups to start the night off and ending with the audience wanting more, they had proved themselves to be great. They prepared well for each concert and it really showed. The hard work the students put into making each note sound the best along with the long hours of practice not only inside of school, but outside really paid off.

Mr. Zumwalde was the Concert Band conductor this year and did a fantastic job prepping his students for their performances. In the classroom alone they did many exercises and activities to get the rhythm just right and make sure they put forth their best effort. Some exercises they did were Bb and Ab scales. Also tuning was a must before daily songs in the classroom and concert performances.

Along with all the work, came the fun. There were no complaints on Mr. Zumwalde's way of teaching. The students raved about his work ethic and how he made sure the class had fun while working.

This class was a great opportunity for students to pursue their interest in music. It took a great amount of dedication and hard work for the Concert Band to do as well as they did.

~Tristen Uram

Mr. Barry Zumwalde starts his first year off teaching with great energy and enthusiasm. Zumwalde exclaimed, "They are a really fun group to work with! I look forward to working with them every day." He made the atmosphere in the classroom enjoyable and knew how to put on a performance.

Only one bass clarinet is used in the Concert Band. Sophomore Eric Peirson shared, "Band is fun because you can express yourself openly in your music!" His instrument gave off a tuba and saxophone-like sound instead of a clarinet.

In order to obtain a distinct harmony, dedication and hours of practice must be done with both group and solo work. Sophomore Kirsten Sewall announced, "Zumwalde is the coolest teacher I have ever had!" The Concert Band put forth many hours of work and made sure they were ready for every concert.

Tunes from woodwind instruments add to the overall ensemble. Sophomore Halie Ament exclaimed, "Class is just always fun because Mr. Zumwalde is a great teacher!" Without the wind instruments, the band would have been missing part of their distinct sound.

Tenor saxophones brought life to the the music and melody. Sophomore Aaron Egelkraut raved, "In band you can play cool songs while you are having fun." Concert Band not only allowed the students to further their music, but let them have fun while doing it.

Q. What is your favorite thing about Concert Band?

A. "Going to the University of Minnesota and playing with the different student conductors."

~Sophomore Jenna Fischer

Mr. David Livermore worked hard to make sure he gave each student the separate attention they needed to get their parts down. He also made sure the songs flowed well together with the correct melodies and well-tuned instruments. Each student worked hard to improve their skills as a musician every day and it all paid off when they made it to their concert.

"My favorite memories from string orchestra are the concerts and Mr. Livermore's stories," laughed junior Haley Westphal while she played with her classmates Seleah Eckdahl, Nicole Wyandt and Erica Palmer. Students improved on their playing skills and got better at reading music and counting each beat. It wasn't long before they were able to read and perform the more difficult pieces.

Students all choose their instruments for different reasons, whether it be because their parents wanted them to, they heard it was fun from friends or if it could help them in the future. When sophomore Kyle Tagg was asked why he chose the bass he said "Because I wanted to play the bass guitar so this helped".

Stringing Their Way to Success

The music program at Forest Lake High School became more and more popular over the years. With almost thirty students in the string orchestra class this year, all of them were looking to improve their instrumental skills.

About twenty of the students in the class were sophomores coming from their junior high music classes. The other students included both juniors and seniors who also wanted to stick to their music classes and improve on their instruments.

Due to some schedule changes last year, the class was only fifty minutes compared to the ninety that it used to be. The teacher and students still made the best of their time and worked hard through the entire class period.

Each day they worked harder towards learning new pieces and perfecting old ones for the concerts to come. It's important to be ready for the concerts and do your best, but it's also important to have fun and enjoy yourself.

Students joined music classes for many different reasons. Some joined because it looks good on resumes, others joined because their friends do, or it may have been because they purely enjoy playing music. No matter what the reason, most students can agree that music classes are a nice break from their usual desks and note taking. They are hands-on classes that exercise different parts of the brain, as well as a place to meet new friends and become more involved in school activities.

"I play the viola, and yes I will probably play the rest of my high school career because I like the sound of the viola and not many people play it," said Ashley Dempsey. With many different varieties of instruments there's something for practically anyone. Some enjoy the first instrument they pick up, others play a few before they find the one they want to stick with.

Music classes have been growing in popularity at our school. They are good hands-on classes that students enjoy taking. "It's nice to not be stuck sitting in a desk all day," expressed sophomore Brayanna Bergstrom.

~Cassandra Zemke

Curtis Reinertson, Brooke Johnson, Aaron Hensley, Haley Westphal and Collin Holm all tuned up and got ready to practice. According to junior Brooke Johnson, in the back row, "The most challenging parts of string orchestra are the solo practices as well as making sure the melodies and rhythm are right on with everyone else! The entire class worked hard together and individually to make sure they did the best they can. They practiced all together as a whole and then picked each separate piece apart to make sure they had them down."

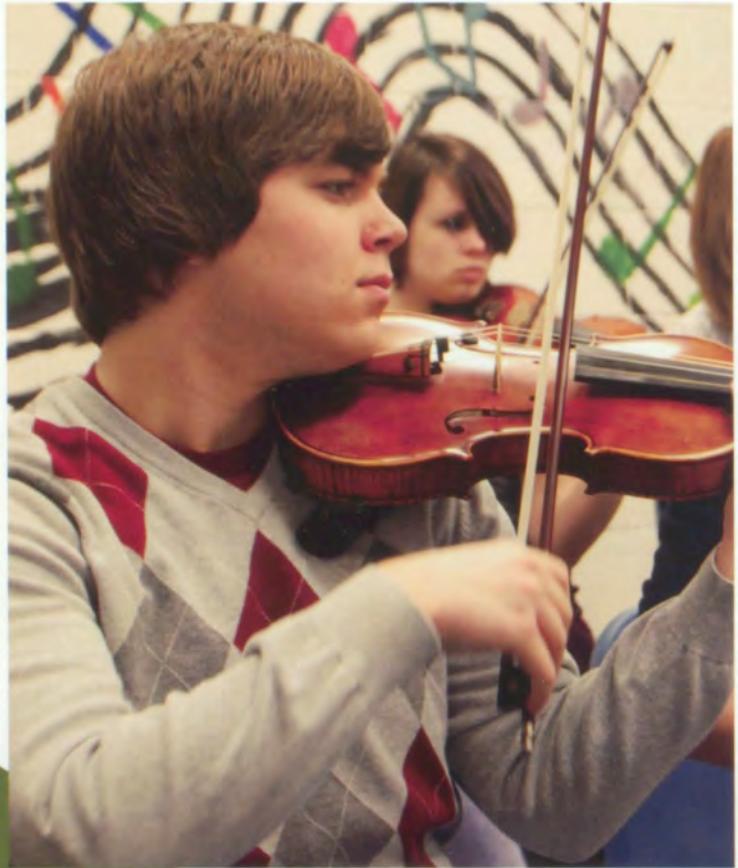

"I like anything by Mozart because I just like the tones of his pieces", explained sophomore Aaron Hensley. In string orchestra they played a variety of different pieces challenging each different instrument section.

Sophomores Madeline Hume and Gabrielle O'Gorman practiced their separate parts for the song to make sure they have it down right. Hume said "I've played since I was little, but my parents got me into it and so I kept playing through high school!"

Even though string orchestra is a challenging class, the students still have fun and enjoy themselves during practices as well as performances. "Yes I do plan on continuing playing after high school, not as a professional but instead for fun and maybe for some church events", expressed sophomore Rachel Bostrom, sitting with her classmates Micah McGuiness, Lauren Cooley and Benjamin Long.

Sinfonia Orchestra allows students to show off their talent on all sorts of string instruments such as the violin, viola, cello and the bass.

"Orchestra gives everyone a chance to be a leader. For an orchestra to be successful, everyone must always give 100%," claims senior Derek Waller.

Senior Constance Berger and sophomore Isaac Maier play their cellos in harmony while senior Justin Drewlo plays along with them on the bass. "It's enjoyable to realize how much we have grown as musicians and as an ensemble when we complete a piece," explains Berger.

Seniors Tony Yang and Ashleigh Matheson get in tune with one another as they play the music they share on a stand placed before them.

Many students enjoy being a part of Sinfonia Orchestra. "It's pretty sweet being in Sinfonia Orchestra for the first time. I love the music that we play! The robes that we have to wear for our concerts can be a pain," says sophomore Renee Shaw.

Seniors Jennifer Warwick and Mitchel Savage play their violins together as the song progresses. "It [Sinfonia Orchestra] opens up doors for so many experiences and possibilities," claims Savage.

Senior Eve Yang gracefully plays each song note by note on her viola. As a member of Sinfonia Orchestra, Yang chuckles, "We need more violas!"

Through the Strings of Music

Year after year, Sinfonia Orchestra developed a class full of talented students who played together as one, to show off their talents on their chosen instruments. After auditioning at the end of the previous school year, the accepted students kept working hard to improve their musical skills through the challenging pieces received in class. "It pushes the mind everyday," said senior Haley Mills.

Sinfonia Orchestra met every day first hour during the school year. This class brought together seniors and juniors as well as sophomores to learn to play as one. Sinfonia Orchestra has never been about the individual, it's been about each student's individual talent and bringing it together to become a complete orchestral ensemble. "I think orchestra gave all of us a chance to express ourselves through the music in a way that was unique and special for everyone," replied senior Yana Lentz.

Sinfonia Orchestra wasn't just all about developing new musical skills, friendships were developed as well. "Being in orchestra is great. It's like a breath of fresh air during the day and everyone just gets along and has fun," exclaimed junior Lindsay Clark.

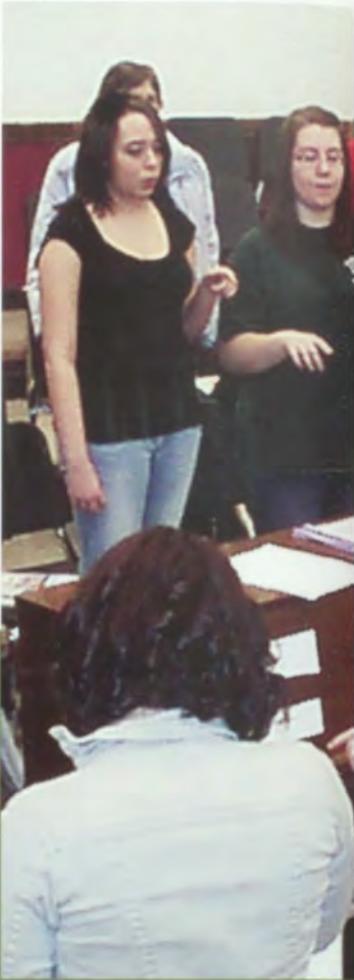

All in all, students have not only made friends but also pushed themselves to become better musicians and play more challenging music. "Playing in orchestra is great because each day brings something new, exciting or random; it keeps you on your toes," claimed junior Matt Palo. This class has been about the students and the music they perform. Senior Tony Yang stated, "In the end, it's you against the music."

~Hannah Stout

"I just love singing!" exclaims junior Christine Raatz. Here the class sang one of their new songs for their upcoming performance in March.

"I'm really looking forward to the Pops Concert in the spring. It should be a lot of fun and exciting to watch as well!" claims sophomore Morgan Sperry.

Singing Towards Perfection

The Forest Lake Treble Choir went through a big change this year. A new choir director came onto the scene, Travis Sletta. This brought a new attitude, new style of directing, and a new philosophy. "The songs are very different than what we have ever done before," stated senior Caryn Malmstedt.

Treble choir is made up of a large group of girls who were involved in performances throughout the year. Some performances included the Bethel Concert, concerts held at the school, and the Pops Concert which is held at the end of the year. The girls were divided up into various different voice groups. Some of the voice groups included first and second alto or first and second soprano.

One thing is for sure; all of the girls put in the time, dedication, and effort to be the best choir that they could be. They had to work together to become one and sing in unison.

"We are doing very well this year," said junior Christine Raatz proudly. In all of the performances they strived for perfection. It was evident that during every performance their hard work, effort, and dedication paid off. All of the girls will cherish the conversations had, songs sung, and jokes made. The memories they made will be held close to their hearts for a lifetime.

Seniors Caryn Malmstedt and Lauren Peterson sang the first song of the rehearsal, River in Judea. "The best part of Treble Choir is being with some of my really good friends," states Peterson.

"He tells us a lot of funny stories, and we all get really into it" chuckles sophomore Clarissa Larson. Clarissa studied her part of their first song of their rehearsal, River and Judea.

~Gabrielle Bunten

All of the girls spent hours rehearsing for their concerts. They are certainly in the right frame of mind for becoming the best and striving towards perfection. "We are doing very well this year, and we are sounding very good as well!" proclaims sophomore Morgan Sperry.

Treble choir often has class discussions, they talked about what song to sing first in the rehearsal. Sophomores; Jessica Rolbiecki, Desiree Ambourn, and Autumn Beireis join in the class discussion, but they added that they should stretch before they rehearse.

"My favorite part of treble choir are all the fun times that we have together, the laughs, jokes, and all of the songs. I will remember these girls for the rest of my life!" stated Cassandra Thobe. As a group, they all work very well together. They bond inside and outside of the classroom.

Treble choir focuses a lot on a through warm up before they reherser everyday. The girls love to warm up, because it wakes them up for the day as well. They have many different variations of warm ups including singing while giving each other massages, stretching, and going through scales.

The band has a big mixture of different instruments. They play all songs with various amounts enthusiasm. "I like playing the french horn because I get a lot of solos," laughed senior Grant Armstrong.

Even though junior Jake Shields has a broken wrist, that does not stop him from trying his hardest. "There is nothing more amazing than playing the instrument you love with all your closest friends," exclaimed Shields.

Joshua Bergan concentrates very hard on playing his trumpet during the hardest part of the song. "My favorite concert moment is when Jake Shields started rapping under his breath in the middle of a song," smiled Bergan. Bergan describes the band as "challenging and also laid back. If you mess up, it's oh, the band will back you up," says Bergan.

Junior John Ion plays his trombone with his stand buddy, sophomore Ryan Perreault. Ion says that his funniest moment in class is "when the teacher jokes around in class and makes playing more fun".

Junior Danielle DeVange, senior Kelsey Jaeb and senior Jessica Shipley all play their hardest in class. DeVange states that she has been playing the flute for six years. She also has been in different bands in her years and likes this one the best because it is way more challenging and complex.

Senior Andrew Kriz moves along the back of the room switching from instrument to instrument. He keeps the whole beat of the band. "This is my first year in this band but I love the new teacher, he is very much like Mr. Hanh, funny but knows when to get serious," expressed Kriz.

This is Mr. Barry Zumwalde's first year teaching at the high school. "I like that the students come first here," stated Zumwalde. "In symphonic winds we are more advanced than the other bands, so that means that we can work on harder songs."

Blowin' in the Wind

It takes a little more than just being able to read notes on a page to be part of the highest band in the high school. You are not born knowing how; there is a lot of hard work and discipline.

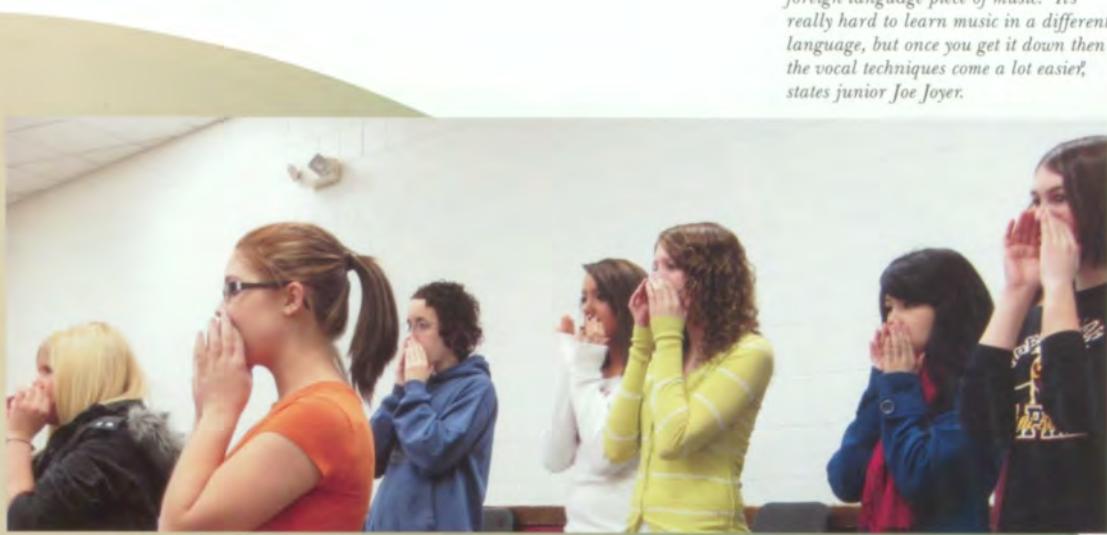

Only a few are selected after auditioning for your chair in symphonic winds. Throughout the year, the kids are working, playing, and accomplishing their goals. All this hard work goes into their concerts they have during the year. "We start off the year playing easier music like 'Witch In The Saint' and by the end of our season we play more advanced music such as 'Temper tent Seal,'" said senior Benjamin Folles.

Sixth grade is the first year that you have the chance of being in band. Most, if not all, of the students in Symphonic Winds have been in band since sixth grade. Even though it is the top band of the school they still make mistakes. "My funniest memory that has happened in a concert is when I dropped my trumpet in a very quite part of a song," laughed Connor Florand. "My funniest moment in class is when Florand does his horse call with his trumpet," said Cole Aden.

This is the first year that Zumwalde taught Symphonic Winds. "Band is a lot like a sport. We all have to work together and everyone has to pull their own weight as long as they are classmates. I also enjoy that it is mostly upper class and we can concentrate on a song for longer," stated Zumwalde.

~Kiersten Caine

Members of the choir listen to Mr. Sletta while he provides a translation for a foreign language piece of music. "It's really hard to learn music in a different language, but once you get it down then the vocal techniques come a lot easier," states junior Joe Joyer.

Sophomore Alexandra Mester and junior Betsey Vanelsberg concentrate on their music until their section enters in the song.

Junior Joshua Bergan, senior Gwir Glewe and senior Tyler Rothmeyer carry the bass section of the Chamber Singers. The Chamber Singers is open to non-choir members and has just been started this year by Travis Sletta. "The Chamber Singers were developed to offer highly advanced students the opportunity to perform literature specifically written for small vocal ensembles," adds Sletta.

A Change in Song

This year was a huge change for the music department. We said goodbye to esteemed teachers and welcomed new qualified conductor, Mr. Travis Sletta. As he joined the staff at the high school, he brought a whole new teaching style with him.

With his new warm-ups and techniques, it was difficult at times for students to adapt. Unlike students, Sletta is finding it easy to adapt to Forest Lake. "It's very similar to the other places I've worked before." You can also be sure that he has grown a liking to the school as well, "I really enjoy the people I work with, colleagues and students."

Throughout this year, students have found Concert

Choir to be more challenging. "This year has been more difficult because it's a lot of change and adapting to new teaching styles," stated senior Lindsey Sieber.

In using his unique teaching style, Sletta pushes his students to strive to work to their fullest potential. Through his work at the high school, Sletta intends to "continue to build on our long history and set a path for future growth." Through hard work, conviction and vocal ability the students in the Concert Choir have made it a year to remember. Overall, this has been a huge shift for choir students, but a great experience nonetheless.

~Anne Brown

Basses junior Damon Medek, junior Nick Jensen and senior Bryan Rudisill all "find their buttons" in order to elongate and relax their jaws. "It makes the tone brighter!" Jensen informs.

The Concert Choir sings with intonation, poise and rhythm at one of their first concerts of the year. At this event, the choir performed music that they sang at the Suburban East Conference Music Festival. "It was a great experience working with other musicians", remarks senior Tyler Rothmeyer.

Mr. Sletta focuses on the soprano section, reminding them all to use proper resonance in their voice.

Junior Samantha Vang and sophomore Hannah Theisen help lead the alto section with their strong voices. "This year has been a great experience. I feel like my vocal skills have been improved", explains Theisen.

A group of Jazz Band musicians join together to build a harmonious melody. "The alto saxophones are obviously the best in Jazz Band," revealed junior Jacob Albee. In reality though, all instruments are equally important.

Junior Karrine Manning, proudly improvises her performance on the piano. "I like playing piano in Jazz Band because it allows you to improvise more. You don't have to stick with what is exactly written," Manning expressed. The piano is used to capture rhythm, along with the bass guitar and drums.

Senior Benjamin Vos and junior Benjamin Lunn work as a team. "The drums, bass guitar, and piano are what helps keep the groove," Vos claimed. Without these instruments, it'd be difficult to keep the rhythm.

Senior Ben Buse, senior Taylor Greniger, and junior Corey Kibbel focus on perfecting the melody with their trombones. "The teacher, Barry Zumwalde, is pretty cool!" added Buse. The trombone is considered to be one of the most widely used instruments.

Juniors Benjamin Lunn and Karrine Manning take part in adding to the rhythm of the song. When asked the reason he chose to play the drums, Lunn responded, "My eighth grade teacher suggested it! He really didn't want to play a wind instrument."

Junior Douglas Ison intently practices playing his trumpet. "Artists paint a picture on a canvas. But musicians paint a picture on silence," voiced Ison. It's common for the famously loud instrument, the trumpet, to perform a large number of solos and melodic lines.

Senior Benjamin Vos strums his Fender jazz bass guitar. "The class is really fun. Even though we have to wake up early for it," admitted Vos. The class had been practicing for their upcoming concert.

Playin' it by Ear

Jazz Band is an ensemble of twenty-four young and talented Forest Lake musicians. The band is based on the Big Band Instrumentation which occurred in the 1940's. Big Band Jazz was said to have been recorded as early as the 1920's.

It explores all kinds of different styles of music including swing, rock, Latin, funk, dance, and blues. The great mixture of instruments played in Jazz Band are the alto saxophone, tenor saxophone, baritone saxophone, trumpet, trombone, bass guitar, piano, drum set, and vibraphone. Each one of these instruments play a very important role in the band.

The dedicated and strongly committed musicians manage to wake up bright and early for practice which is three times a week for fifty minutes before school even starts. Yearly auditions are held in the fall. The Jazz Band puts in hours of hardworking practices and has several opportunities to show off their talent at several different performing events throughout the year.

Jazz Band is different from the other music related classes offered in this school. This class is much smaller and students have the perfect opportunity to let their imaginations take the lead by allowing and encouraging students to improvise and work on individual musicianship. Jazz Band teaches a whole new side of music in an extremely fun and exciting way.

Making a Difference

Special Olympics is an organization dedicated to talented individuals to become physically active and to show off their athletic ability. This organization opened one another's hearts by laying their moves out when they competed. Through training, and competition, it improved the lives of everyone involved. It allowed them to realize their potential skills and developed new techniques to become a better teammate. It also allowed them to achieve self-confidence and social skills throughout the season.

This past fall had been a joy for the athletes. Preparing for the spring with many bowling activities, the athletes enjoyed competing with each other during their bowling days. "It's so much fun when you bowl with your friends," exclaimed Mathew Hemery. During the fall, they practiced their skills and durability for the spring track and field competitions. The track and field competitions gave the participants an ecstatic feeling.

During both seasons, many athletes earned medals and awards. These awards shined in each one's lives. The spirit and sportsmanship brings the team success. All the self-confidence, friendships and skills taught helped guide each individual into the future.

The bowling team gathers together for a group picture for their eventful night. Many happy faces are brought together. Overall, compassion made them a winning team.

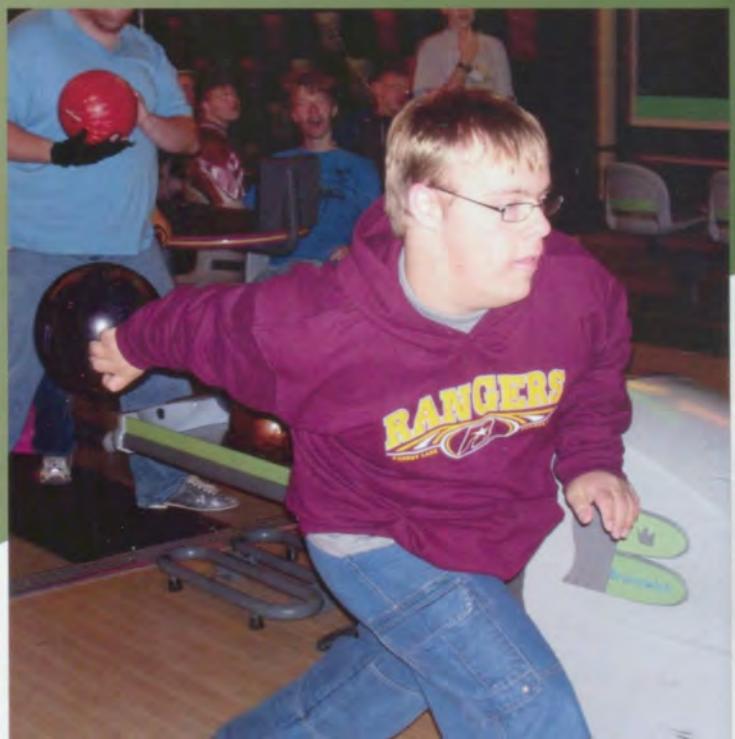

Micheal Horn and Mathew Hemery give each other a pat on the back for being a great friend and teammate. Spring time is a great way for them to get physically fit. Friendships are made throughout the season.

Garrett Bielefeld's turn is up to compete against his teammates. He used his skills the best he could to try to get a strike. Bielefeld added, "I like to compete and it's really fun being there with my friends."

Seniors Connor Callahan, Amelia Maroschek and Cassandra Olson gather recycling from each class room at the end of the day. The bins get very full in some classrooms. Each bottle is a step to save the environment.

Seniors Kimberly Davis and Elizabeth Reed stay after school to pick up recycling. They make their trips enjoyable. "We're saving the polar bears a bottle at a time", added Davis and Reed.

Advisor Bruce Leventhal goes through the posters to see what ones will go up in the school hallways. The posters are meant to get others involved in helping the environment.

Amelia Maroschek goes around to each class to pick up recycling. Her task is to separate the bottles and caps from each bin. Maroschek states, "be sure to have your bottles empty when you put them in the recycle bin."

Samuel Kohs shows his stunts off on the track. He used all his strength to accomplish his goal. "Being with my friends is the best part", comments Kohs.

Keeping it Clean

The Environmental club nurtures caring leadership, critical thinking, and draws people together to protect our environment. This club gave students education about the environment and ways on how they can make the world a better place. Club members and teachers had many opportunities for students to recycle and other techniques to save the environment.

The club tried their best to help the way we live. They have many activities throughout the school year to keep our district and surroundings a cleaner place. One activity they had been doing for many years was picking up recycling in each classroom every Wednesday. They also have meetings every Wednesday after school to come up with a better way to help the environment and ways that will benefit our school. The club hangs signs to try to persuade others to keep our district more clean.

The Environmental Club is just a portion of what all students and teachers can do to help the environment. It's the importance of reality in everyday of our lives.

The yearbook staff gathers for a class picture. Senior Amanda Montague remarks, "Picking out the layouts is one of the most difficult things in Yearbook." For many students the class project is a cherished keepsake used to take us back to a special time in our lives.

Seniors Cassie Zemke, Sarah Radden, and Gabrielle Buntin work on their sports pages. Zemke comments, "My favorite part is working with Kjersten Caine and the other girls." The students worked on all different types of spreads throughout the year.

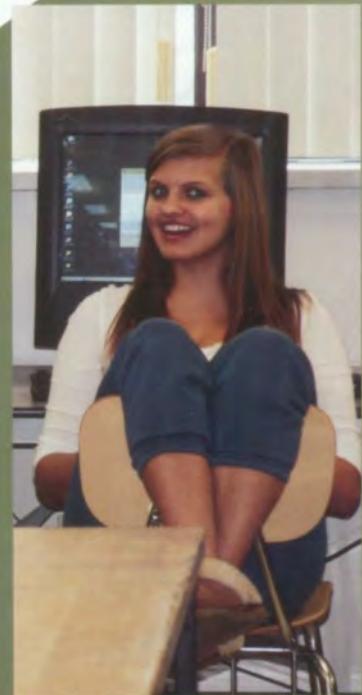

Seniors Amanda Montague, Jamie Thorson, and Kelsey Lochen debate over a yearbook theme layout. Lochen expresses, "I think it's neat that we get to help in the design and creation of such an important book." Class began with days full of brainstorming ideas for the overall theme of the book.

Seniors Mercedes Monroe and Michelle Jensen look over themed ideas for their pages. Jensen shares, "I liked working on the division pages the most. These pages are the pages that separate each section such as the people and activity sections."

Yearbook can be fun but at the same time it takes a lot of effort. Senior Lexi Alm explains, "I love being a part of Yearbook because you get to meet and interview a lot of different people." The class tried to include a picture of everyone at least twice.

Seniors Lonna Anderson and Alex Chilson interview a student. Anderson reveals, "The hardest part about this class is having deadlines to make and not being able to work easily having so many friends around." The class is required to meet four important deadlines throughout the year.

Making it Happen

Senior Alyssa Wojcik listens to the teacher present cropping techniques. Wojcik asserts, "My favorite part about Yearbook is that we've all truly become a team." Students needed to work together on many pages and participate in class discussions.

Seniors Anne Brown, Hannah Stout, and Jenna Novotny work on the Ads for Grads section. Novotny shares, "My job is to help with various pages and tell people which printer is the color printer." Novotny held the position of editor, advising and correcting many pages.

Which class can you be creative, work with the combined skills of writing, photography, and design, while at the same time document a unique and memorable year of high school? Well, the answer to that question is Yearbook!

The Yearbook students worked diligently throughout the year on various pages placing together bits and pieces of our daily lives. This class, which this year happens to be all senior girls, worked to document each and every little thing about unforgettable experiences we had throughout the year.

These students wander the halls learning about different people and events by interviewing and taking pictures. They then head back to class where they arrange their findings strategically on a creative, themed layout. It may go unnoticed by most, but the yearbook staff spent a hefty amount of time planning the yearbook from cover to cover. Senior Kiersten Caine explained, "Even though it can be time consuming, yearbook is rewarding because our work ends up published for the entire school to see."

Yearbook gives students a chance to meet new people, prepare for future jobs, and take part in the making of a special keepsake that will be cherished for years to come. This special group is responsible for making it happen; opening the doors of our past to revisit where we've been.

What You've Played

Who have you played?
Did you win? Lose? Tie?
Was it close?
But most importantly was it fun?

We have a strong tradition of gearin' up and playin' hard. As we journey down our path of success, we compete with other Minnesota high schools to make it to the top. Whether it's individual or being part of a team, having the passion and commitment of a sport you enjoy is key. It doesn't matter if you win or lose it's about working hard, trying your best, and having fun while doing it.

Senior Betsy Kelly hits the ball up the fairway, winning the State Tournament. "Winning the State Tournament in '09 was my biggest goal since I was in 7th grade. Finally winning last year was one of the best moments of my life and I hope I can do it again to top off my Senior year!"

The girls worked extremely hard and are up for anything. Sophomore Shannon Nelson shared, "You got to risk it to get the biscuit". There was a great turn out for the long race at Little Falls.

Sophomore Spencer Cowing defeats his Woodbury opponent and heads the ball away from the goal. "I worked hard to defend our goal," Cowing stated. This prevented the ball from getting to the other team.

Junior Jake Bucholz bounces the ball off his knee to get control over it and make a play for his team. "I try to make every play worth it," Bucholz commented.

Senior Soua Xiong puts all his strength into making a pass up to his forwards. "The game is the best time to take out all your energy," Xiong stated. The pass was a success for the Rangers.

Senior Trevor Brunberg uses his great defensive skills to clear the ball out before it reaches the net. "I never let up a goal," Brunberg remarked. Defense is greatly needed not only in soccer but other sports as well!

Junior Jake Bucholz gets control over the ball and runs down the field as far as possible. Later that night the lights turned on and that's when they showed much of their talent. "I like when we play under the lights, it's more exciting," Bucholz claimed.

Kicked and Gone By

Slowly building up the program, the boys are becoming more aggressive as each game goes by. From the hard working two-a-days starting at just the end of summer, then to the daily practices taking place everyday after school, and finally to game time, where they leave it all on the field.

Junior Jake Bucholz, scoring the winning goal with only six seconds left in overtime, led the boys to another victory against Hibbing. But with six seconds left, this isn't just a great accomplishment, but a huge highlight and memorable moment for the team.

Finishing the year off strong is a good way to end the season. Even though the Rangers lost their first Section game, they put everything they had into it, just like the previous ones. "We were all disappointed that we lost even though we knew the season was about to end. We stepped up our game and kept it close except they took more advantage of their scoring opportunities," Senior Tyler Shogren stated.

Next year will be a challenge as they know, but for the boys, they are willing and prepared to take whatever comes at them. "I want to have a winning season next year," stated Junior Mitch Tessier. They know what they need to do to have an even more successful year than the past.

~Jamie Thorson

Junior Kyle Olson runs down the sideline kicking the ball into the box. From the box, they then try to score. "I usually pass the ball up to Tim hoping he'll score," Olson stated.

Senior Tyler Shogren takes a free kick into the opponents' box. "Penetrating when possible keeps the whole team pumped throughout the game," Shogren stated. This is a key to any sport.

Senior Tony Sarff steals the ball from a North Branch player and boots it up to Senior Tim Allen. "My intensity wins the ball everytime," Sarff remarked.

Tying against North Branch is not the kind of game the boys planned to play that day. "Even though I scored, I was kind of upset we didn't win playing against some of my friends from North Branch," Senior Tim Allen explained.

Senior Christian Gaffy makes a save before the ball even reaches the goal and boots it back up field to his forwards. "Forwards sell tickets, defense win championships," Gaffy joked.

Seniors Tyler Shogren and Christian Gaffy celebrate after Sophomore Collin McGrath scores a goal for the team. "It was a good goal, I just wish the game didn't end in a tie," McGrath stated.

Trying to stay standing and get the ball, Senior Julian Bissantz, a foreign exchange student this year, concentrates as the ball comes to him. "In Germany, I have practice two days a week and here, it's everyday after school. I still like it though," Bissantz remarked.

Senior Captain Whitney Fenne punts the ball down the field after making an astonishing save, keeping the other team from scoring. "We came a long way. We became one team instead of individuals. It was a memorable senior year. I love my girls," stated Fenne. Fenne kept the net as safe as she could so goals would not be let-in.

Junior Captain Sarah Ulrich takes a corner kick for the team. Ulrich shot the ball hoping to get a goal off it. "This year was a lot of fun. We enjoyed our new group of fans this season," added Ulrich.

Junior Captain Sam Anderson shows her aggression by sticking with the ball and not letting her opponent take control. "This was not our best game but we worked hard until the end," noted Anderson.

Junior Danni Firkus focuses on booting the ball down the field. Her key goal is to prevent the ball from getting anywhere near the goal. "This year has been one of the best years I've played. We've come a long way for being such a young team," Firkus mentioned.

Senior Chandis Bruner, challenges the opposite team on getting control of the ball. Bruner controlled the ball to get around her opponent. "Play like a Rockstar," exclaimed Bruner.

Junior Madison Kissner hops to the ball, determined to get possession of it. Getting the ball was all Kissner wanted to do. "Even though it didn't show on the score board, we are still winners," Kissner remarked.

Chisago Lakes 3-2 East Ridge 0-3 White Bear Lake 1-8 Roseville 1-0 Mounds View 1-3 Cretin-Derham Hall 1-6 Woodbury 0-5 Anoka 1-5

Sophomore Brittany Hestekin, boots the ball towards the net to try and get a point put on the scoreboard. Hestekin enjoyed the season very much this year. "Spaghetti dinners were memorable and got the team to become closer than ever before," Hestekin quoted.

Sophomore Nicole Parsons, takes on her opponent to win possession of the ball. As Parsons got control she brought it down the field into the offensive zone. "Going to Bunker Beach and meeting George will be my favorite memories of the season," Parson added.

Sophomore Jessica Rivard takes control over the ball and brings it out of the defensive zone. Rivard prevented the team from scoring. Rivard noted that "No matter the game we kept our heads up. This was the best season I've played from my previous years."

Playing With Heart

The team came into the 2009 season as a whole new and improved team. The combination of veteran experience and rookie talent showed how much the team came together and proved themselves worthy of the respect they deserve. Hard work from two-a-days definitely paid off in the girls' favor. Not only did girls work hard, but they gained friendships. They became more of a team than they ever had been.

Through the season the girls suffered losses but they came out with some wins as well. By working themselves to the finish, they ended up with their first back to back wins, which also included a tie.

In the last five years, the team had not achieved this impressive of a record. Even with the tough teams in the section, the girls held them to keep the scores closer together than losing by a large margin. "This season was all about getting our respect that we deserve, to erase the past, and just dominate the competition whether we win or lose. We don't always have the luck, but we've got skill and that slowly started to progress from the beginning to the end of the season," expressed senior Chandis Bruner.

Unfortunately the girls finished the season with a devastating loss in their first Section game. Fighting until the last minute of the game the girls lost to Anoka 5-1 with sophomore, Kendra Eggstein scoring the only goal. The girls are looking forward to a good season next year.

~Kelsey Lochen

Junior Rebecca Anderson chases after the ball before her opponent can reach it. "Go big, or go home," Anderson commented on the team's motto for the season. Anderson pointed out that if you're not playing with all your might, then there is no reason to stay in the game.

Senior Whitney Fenne reaches for the ball. Whitney made a save that many goalies have a hard time doing. "If you're nothing, play through everything. Blood, sweat and tears," Whitney expressed.

Senior Aaron MacNamara came out for the first time this season. He said, "I like to run and I thought it would be fun." MacNamara blew everyone's expectations out of the water by being one of the top varsity runners.

Senior Mitchell Wohlk races competitively at the Elk River meet. "We practice hard, we set the pace, let's get some and win this race," quoted Wohlk. His favorite part of the season was having entertained everyone at meets and practices.

Sophomores Nathan Merrier and Alexander Kelley ponder the race ahead. Both have enjoyed running Cross Country this season.

Shivering at the start, the varsity boys prepare themselves for a physically challenging race. Along with being physically tough, this race was mentally tough; as the boys were freezing. They had to tell themselves to keep going. They all finished and many were just seconds away for their personal best of the season.

Senior Josh Nielsen keeps a steady pace throughout the brutal race. He keeps his head held high when persevering through the race.

It's More Than Short Shorts

Short shorts, long runs and lots of water, describes the Boys Cross Country Team. The boys practiced hard all summer in great anticipation of the season. They had a great reputation and did not want to ruin that. So they did what it took to make themselves better during the long, hot, grueling summer practices.

The boys had a rough start to their season, with so many varsity runners being sick or injured. The Conference Meet was their first meet with their full varsity line. This gave some of the junior varsity boys a chance to step up, fill in and take on the roll of being a varsity runner.

When asked what is your favorite part of being on the Cross Country Team the boys would all say the same thing "hanging out and goofing around with all of the guys". This seems to be a common phenomenon within the team. The conversations and jokes during the long runs to the bus rides of laughs and the guys just having a good time.

Taking the Section 7AA Champion title for the third consecutive year, the boys were looking forward to attending the State Meet again. After some last minute changes the morning of the State Meet, the boys were off to a rough start, but that did not stop them. Although it did not turn out as good as they had hoped, the team raced hard at State.

His senior season was not looking too good. Captain Justin Weigel had to get his appendix taken out. Even though it was a rough start he finished strong. As a leader on the team he never gave up. When asked how it feels to be a Captain Justin said "It is really cool. The guys look up to me and come to me with questions".

Senior Captain Micheal Howe had a great year. Racing at the top of his team he was stoked to be a team leader. "I love hanging out with the guys", stated Howe.

"It is an honor to be a leader on such a great team" exclaimed Senior Captain Steven Coozennoy. Always cheering on the boys to make them go harder is what Coozennoy always enjoyed doing.

Senior Justin Weigel and junior Ben Long run a tough race at Sections, pushing each other through out. The boys fought a tough fight and the team ended up taking the Section champion title for the third year in a row.

Junior Ben Long, sophomore Joe Jackson and Senior Michael Howe run a strong middle of the race at Elk River. "Someone may beat me, but they are going to have to bleed to do it", beamed Jackson. His favorite part of being on the team was hanging out with all the boys.

Senior Matt Maki and Ben Long run with smiles on as they keep a strong pace. The courses are not always fun and you may want to die but Maki said "It's okay because Mountain Dew will cure cancer". The boys had a good end to the race.

One of Senior Captains, Amber Anderson's, favorite quotes is "Running is the greatest metaphor for life, because you get out of it what you put into it." She had a great season finishing the year out strong.

As much as Junior Captain, Elizabeth Peterson, is a leader off the course, she is a great leader on the course finishing the races the top of our team. When asked for a quote Peterson belted "Idk dude how about to run is to live, or CC is bomb Diggity! I love this family!"

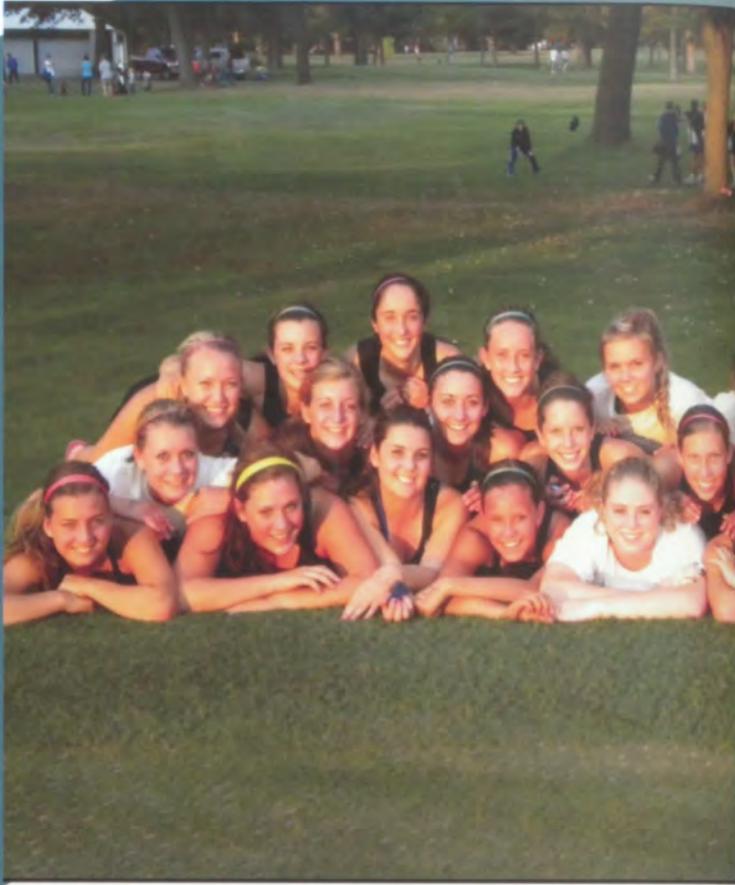

Senior Captain Sarah Radden enjoys being a leader on this team and encouraging the girls in meets and practices every day. "The girls are the reason I run. We are more than a team, we are a family."

"Passing people and keeping my eyes on the prize AKA 18:30 (lettering time)" stated junior, Madeline Swenson, when asked what her favorite part of racing was. She had a great first season and is looking forward to next year.

"The fierce three-some" as Coach Kaluza calls them, as they continually pass girls throughout the races. As sophomores; Holly Winberg, Andrea Mogren and Shannon Nelson run varsity.

If one asks a cross country runner what is the most nerve racking part of the meet they would answer the start. Junior Julia Hipp, and seniors Amber Anderson and April Enrooth lean in for the start. There is a time to joke around and a time to be serious. When it came to Conference, the girls knew it was a time to be serious. Senior Jessica Riard, junior Jen Scott, freshmen Dana Mogren and senior Taylor Winkle run with their heads high. Many girls finished with their personal bests of the season at the Stacy Meet.

The girls share their love in a laying down pyramid at Little Falls. It is one of the girls favorite courses to run. Whether it is the long bus ride up, the conversations had, the stop at the gas station, or the pizza on the way home, the girls love it all.

It's All Because of the Race

You run three miles all at once? This is just one of the many interesting questions cross country runners get asked. When the girls get asked these questions they just laugh it off like it is not a big deal.

The girls worked tremendously hard over the summer. From waking up early to go to morning practices, to late night runs by themselves; the girls put in the extra hours to make this season one to remember. Because of all the hard work they put in, they had a great season. Taking sixth in Conference had them a little down but they came back to finish sixth at sections.

To start out this season, the girls traveled to Madison, Wisconsin. "Because of the personalities of our team this is one of the most fun meets we have ever been at!" exclaimed senior Amber Anderson. The pre-season meet consisted of 14 teams, boy and girls, and it had something no other meets had... a D.J.! The D.J. played music for the teams before, during and after all of the races. After the last race was done there was a huge dance party in the middle of the field.

Having a dent in the team with the loss of a graduate and a great runner last year, sophomore Holly Winberg more than took her place. Running along side our top runner Winberg made great leaps and bounces this year. A saying that keeps her going on the course is "Runners are wild. Joggers are runners who have been domesticated."

Most would not consider running as enjoyable, but not the Cross Country girls. They love to run and enjoy the team. "It is a lot of hard work, it is not always fun, but because of the girls, and in the end, finishing the race, makes it all worth it!" stated sophomore Holly Winberg.

~Sarah Radden

The excitement danced on their faces as the girls were about to start the race. Those faces soon turned straight as they ran the 2.5 mile race at Little Falls. They finished in solid fifth place.

Many have heard the saying "friends are our chosen family". This is very true with these Cross Country girls. In a group huddle no one could feel more loved.

Leaps and bounds will get you places. As junior Julia Hipp demonstrates sprinting her last 200 meters of her race. A fun saying of Hipp's was "Socks are a luxury" Hipp always had strong finishes to her races.

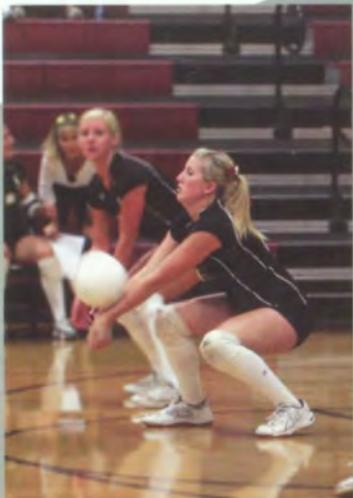

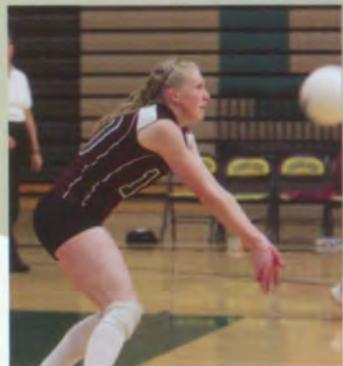

Sliding, Senior Grace Guttormson digs a screaming hit. "Hit it up", she shrugged. Guttormson made an impact on the team with her calm composure and positive attitude.

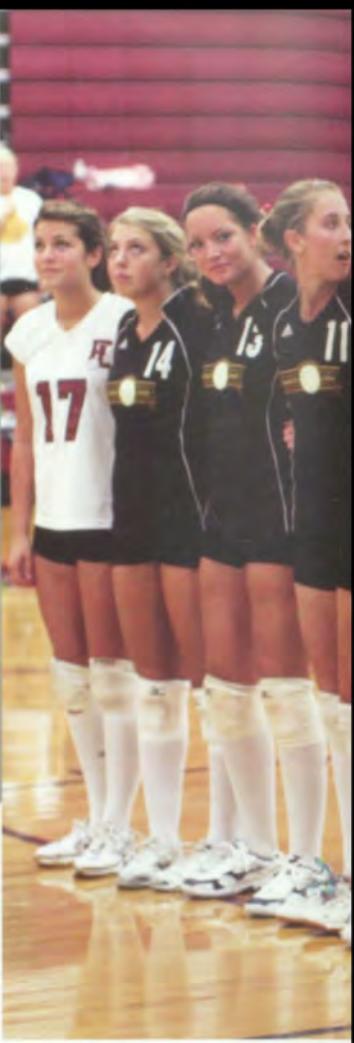

Senior Taylor Brett hangs in the air before crushing a kill. "Dubs", she hollered before running for a water and wash break. Brett impressed many with her powerful hits and flippant rolling digs.

Senior Erin Daninger passes a free ball precisely to the target. "I like good passes, then I don't have to run", Junior setter Mikki Mojeski joked. Daninger was a great leader on the team and stepped up wherever needed.

Senior KC Pringle perfects a pass off a tough serve. When asked about the season Pringle said "I discovered my tigger voice". She was a memorable character and was a cheery, loud voice on the team.

The Varsity team gets focused during the Anthem. Senior Lynette Benson commented, "The team was really good and supportive throughout the season." Much time was spent bonding during the pre-game announcements.

Tips a tight set past the blocker senior Cassy Tessier tallies another point for the team. "MINE, ah why'd you make me say that", she mumbled. Tessier was a quiet player, but filled an important role as middle hitter.

It Was a Hit

It was a hit. Not only was the volleyball season a hit, but the team had many, along with towering blocks, miraculous digs, and tough serves. These skills combined have contributed in the exceptional record of 21 - 8.

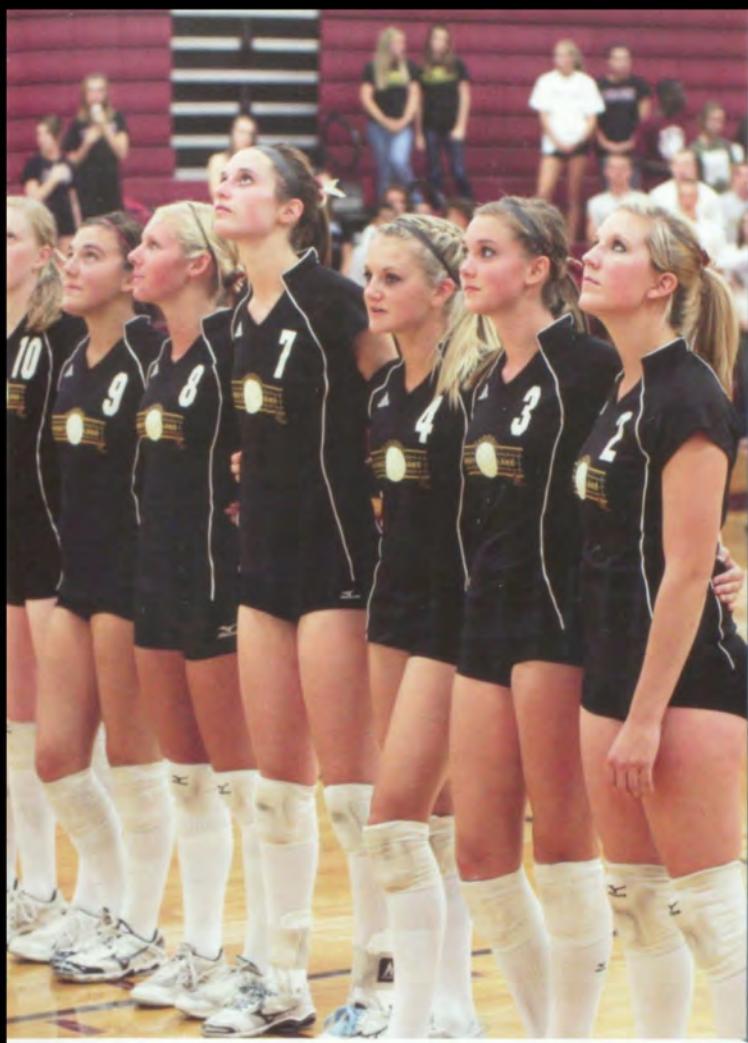

The senior filled team worked hard in the off-season and came prepared with experience, determination, team chemistry, and hard work in their quest for a winning season. "Time to shine in '09!" Senior Erin Daninger proclaimed, and that's what they did. After a shaky showing in the Shakopee tournament, the girls realized they had to step it up and take action.

They then played to their potential, in an unforgettable battle against the talented Stillwater, but came up short, finishing second in the Conference. This defeat didn't stop them from achieving success. They bounced back that same weekend, winning the Duluth East Tournament, beating out some key Section opponents.

Rising to the challenge and walking the walk, the volleyball girls really turned it around in an effort to make this season count. With new energy and confidence the girls started out Section play with a bang. They beat out their first two contenders without much of a battle. With revenge on the mind they entered the Section final game against Andover with high hopes. Their skilled opponents ended with a win on the scoreboard, but the girls had nothing to hang their heads about. This season taught many lessons about energy, heart, and determination and combined with their record it was a hit.

Senior Captain Lexi Alm flies at a ball and smashes it for a kill. "Hammer time!" she cheered. Alm had many powerful hits this year and even collected an impressive record of 1000+ kills over her career.

Senior Captain Tristen Uram gets up and tips a ball for a point. "WE ARE" she exclaimed as a team chant. Tristen was a great asset to the team at the net, but really shined in the back row making many outstanding digs.

Senior Ally Unger makes a great dig. "Witnessed the Whitman," she stated after a match against Shakopee. Unger moved from outside to libero and did a great job robbing opponents of kills.

Seniors Lynette Benson and Betsy Kelly display their verticals in a sealed block. "I'm gonna block you," Kelly taunted. Though she was one of the shortest on the team, Kelly played big as setter. Benson, a blocking machine, has shown her skill at the net, shutting down many opponents.

Fans huddle together strategizing cheers during a Ranger time-out. "I like how they personalize the cheers to each player," Junior Angie Klebe noted. The fans had many entertaining and witty chants from "Thunder," to "She's got a hammer," to "Fe Fi Fo Fum," and never stopped rooting on the girls.

Never letting his opponents interfere with him, senior Captain Zachary Riedeman makes phenomenal passes throughout the season. Riedeman makes a shout out "I love my tubbies, without them I am nothing, but baby is my favorite."

Senior Captain Cody Edelen expresses his moves all season by making his blocks and tackles. "Low man wins," Edelen noted. He used his strength to achieve his goals.

Senior Captain Logan Romines uses his force against his opponents. "It starts with us and ends with us," Romines explained. He had a successful season blocking and tackling.

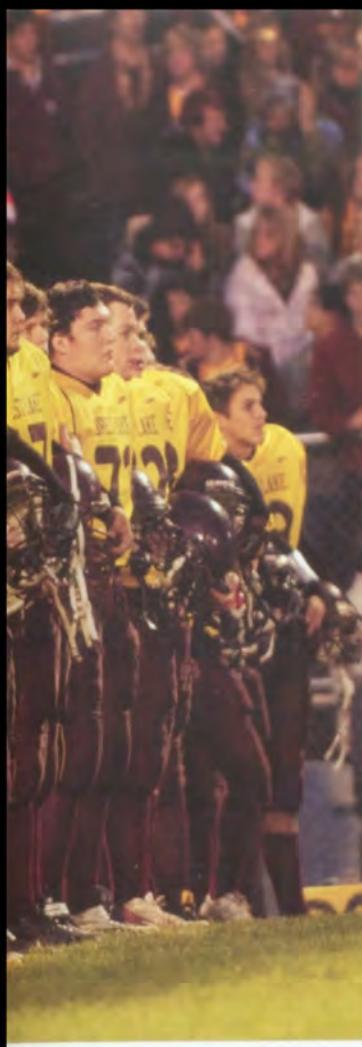

Stillwater's offensive line was pretty tough but not tough enough for junior Hayden Lane who stops the middle trap with help from the defensive line. "We played with our hearts and hit real hard throughout the game," Lane pointed out.

Senior Ryan Suess takes down the Roseville quarterback. "I like myself a little contact," Suess remarked. He worked hard to tackle well all season.

With just seconds left in the first quarter, senior running back Kevin Nelson dives over the end zone tying the game against Hastings. "I'm pretty fly for a white guy," Nelson exclaimed. He made a significant amount of runs and touchdowns all season.

Starting each game off to the National Anthem mentally prepares the Rangers for their game. The time allowed them to think about what they're going to accomplish. "My nerves start to ease and my hands begin to shake, that's when I realize there is nothing else better than being there with my team," claimed senior Jerry Wathen.

Clearing a Path to Victory

The team used all their strength to achieve the goals they had for the season. Two-a-day practices, pre-game meals, Saturday film reviews, offense and defense parties brought the team together to trust each other. "The defense parties are great, we get together and review films but the best part is we get to eat! It also makes us more knowledgeable on how we need to beat our opponents," commented senior Douglas Sewell.

They were looking forward to a successful season by putting their heart into it. The season started off with a loss against Cretin Derham Hall but then, a week later, they dominated against Roseville. With the team in a slump they had three hard losses against Stillwater, Woodbury, and White Bear.

Before conference games started, senior Nick Dochniak stated, "We have a very athletic team and we are expected to be one of the top teams in conference but we need to put everything together in the games. Also, we need to start making our tackles and sticking out our blocks in order to keep up and have a winning season." The team knew they would need to give it all their best and pull it together if they want to end the season successfully.

Junior Brandon Carlson pulls down an interception against Roseville. "It made me feel good when I made the interception," Carlson exclaimed. Motivation was held throughout the rest of the game.

The Rangers lined up for the swinging gate against Cretin Derham Hall. "Run a three and we'll make a two," senior Kyle Anderson stated. They pulled it together and made the extra points.

Senior Pat Mohar goes through the speed zone and makes the tackle before the 20 yard line. "Without the outstanding special teams, this tackle could not be accomplished" Mohar stated. Our special teams were strong all season.

With concentration and teamwork, the Rangers had an outstanding Homecoming performance against the Raiders. They put all their endurance in the evening game. By everyone working hard, the teams performance was kept up and they ended conference the way they had hoped to.

The team fell a little short of a high section seed, but still managed to fall in the middle of their section. Hard hits, strong tackles, and solid passes paved the way for a successful year.

Senior running back Nick Dochniak takes the sweep for a 39 yard touchdown. Dochniak used his talent to find an opening. "I saw the hole, made a good cut and ran my hardest to the end zone," explained Dochniak.

Junior Jamila Cheikh worked hard at doubles this year. Cheikh wins the set with a deadly backhand against Coon Rapids. When asked what one quote would sum up the season, Cheikh chuckled, "Tobs."

Junior Blair Patchin has a strong return in her victory over Stillwater. She was locked in at the number two position playing doubles. "It was a fun year...Mr. Jingles are you serious?", joked Patchin.

Eighth grader Taylor Shortley also known as "T-Short and Franch", was a great addition to the Varsity lineup this season. Shortley played in the number four singles position. "I enjoyed playing on Varsity and getting to know all the girls," remarked Shortley.

Freshman Jade Haseltine hits the ball back to her opponent on her forehand side. "Work hard, have faith, and anything is possible," exclaimed Haseltine.

Seniors Tisa Phinney, Brianna Odegaard, Samantha Holien, and Charise Kendrick lead the team to a great season. "We had a fun and memorable season," expressed the girls.

Hitting the Courts

The girls pulled out their rackets as soon as school was out, with practices every Wednesday. As summer went on, the girls continued to improve with tournaments on Mondays and Tuesdays. As August approached Captain's practice began three days a week.

One of the most intense matches of the season was against Hastings. The girls knew it was going to be a tough match, but didn't know how hard they'd have to work to come out with a win. After the Rangers swept the doubles, with one single match remaining the score was tied 3-3. Charise Kendrick won her match at first singles, which was the completion of the match, and allowed the Rangers a 4-3 victory.

During the final Section tournament the team won a crucial match against Andover to lock in their second place finish against a team whom they had lost to earlier in the year. One point that was earned at the Section tournament came from the first doubles team, Brianna Odegaard and Blair Patchin. These two started out front running. Head coach Greg Patchin jokingly told them, "You have them by the neck, now you need to step on them, and crush them!"

All players showed great improvement throughout the season. Through hard work and perseverance the girls tennis team finished third in Conference and second in Sections.

~Lonna Anderson

Junior Audrey Hanmer had an amazing season playing singles at the number two position. Hanmer had a record of 17 wins throughout conference play. She also helped the team take home the second place title at Sections. "So this one time I went fishing...Ally", stated Hanmer.

Senior Captain Brianna Odegaard had not only an amazing season but also a memorable one. Odegaard had a season total of 26-3, and took the school record from her brother, Luke Odegaard, for a total of 101 wins throughout her Varsity career.

Senior Captain Charise Kendrick played at the number one singles and doubles position this year. "The girls made this season amazing and I'll never forget them, and there is a party in my tummy...so yummy, so yummy," Kendrick chuckled.

Senior Samantha Holien was a strong force at the number two doubles position. She had 18 wins this season. "This season has been fun and we've been working hard for state," commented Holien.

Senior Brianna Odaagard fires a return back at her opponent during the match against Park. "I love to get silly with my girls, set fo with her turtle neck, and set wuh...there's a party in my tummy," chuckled Odaagard.

Sophomore Jackie Unger hits a nice backhand during the match against Woodbury. Unger won 12 matches this season and played at the number three position for doubles with partner senior Tisa Phinney. "The bus ride home from Mounds View was the best memory with my girls", stated Unger.

Senior Tisa Phinney had a tremendous season as she played in the number three position for doubles. With hard work and dedication during the off season, Phinney was able to bring 17 wins to the table this season. "The only thing you and Taylor Swift have in common is that you're both rich", stated Phinney.

"The funniest moment of our season has been reading magazines on the bus rides together" said senior Captain Erin Liljedahl and sophomore Charity Riesgraf. Riesgraf swam the Backstroke leg in the 200 Individual Medley.

"I love to swim fly because I aspire to swim fly as well as Micheal Phelps" quoted sophomore Morgan Sperry. Shown in the picture to the right she swam fly to "be like Mike".

"My favorite part of the season is definitely bus rides; the conversations that go on in the bus and the inside jokes that happen, that no one else would ever understand them" giggled senior Nicole Haglund. Haglund counted for the 500 yard freestyle for senior Gabrielle Bunten.

"Push yourself and don't worry about the person next to you" quoted Senior Kiersten Caine. Above she is awaiting the start of her 100 freestyle on the starting block.

"If you're a swimmer you know that feeling, when you step onto the block and your heart begins to beat. The noise begins to blend into the background, and your heart pumps into your ears as soon as you hear the beep you take a deep breath and jump. "Since I don't have any hand eye coordination, swimming is a great sport for me. That is why I love it" said senior Katie Royce. Here Royce swims the 100 free, cutting time every time she dives into the water.

"We are one big crazy family, there is no other way to explain it. I love all of the memories, inside jokes, and all of the support on the team!" exclaimed sophomore Anna Brennhofer about her favorite part of the team. She made many strong strides in the 100 breastroke this year.

Swimming is an addiction, not just a hobby. It is more than just a sport to me, it's a way of life" said junior Charity Riesgraf. As a team they live, sleep, and breathe swimming for four months. Through the ups and downs of the season, the girls have each others backs, no matter what.

This year has shown a lot of commitment and dedication from the girls. "Commitment is not shaving your legs for four months" said senior Captain Brianna Luhman. From the three hour practices to the late night bus rides, coming home from away meets, the girls put in the time and effort for a great season.

This year wasn't as advantageous as the girls had hoped. But they will hold all of the good times they had close to their hearts.

The Section meet produced many "best" times, top eight finishes and touch outs. Sophomores Anna Brennhofer and Brooke Ewert broke out of the pack in the 100 breastroke and both finished in the top sixteen, Brenhoffer finishing in ninth and Ewert finishing seventh. Senior Kate Royce and Nicole Haglund finished with personal best times. Fellow senior Also Senior Gabrielle Bunten had two first place finishes at Sections advancing her to the State meet.

"It could have gone better, but I made it to State" said Gabrielle Bunten. While at State she finished at the top half of her competitors. Also three divers; Jessica Ramberg, Allie Bey, and Olivia Oliask made it to the State meet, all of them finished in the top half as well.

This was only junior Dylan Gillespie's second year on the swim team and he swam phenomenally. He broke the 50 free record and went on to swim the 50 and 100 free in State, as well as the 200 free relay. "I am a triathlete in the summer, so I wanted to swim in the winter to help train," exclaimed Gillespie. After 2 years he has become a huge asset to the team.

This was junior Jake Mehsikomer's second year on the diving team. His friends made him join and he's happy they did. "My favorite dives are the suicide dive and the two and a half. The best part about diving is jumping high and doing all the flips," claimed Mehsikomer. He had a strong year and plans to continue next year.

"The best parts of the season include the rides home on the buses, and hanging out with Dylan and Chad at the end of each meet," chuckled junior Charlie Royce. Royce had a great season advancing to State with his 200 free relay team.

The team as a whole did awesome at this year's True Team Meet. There were many new personal bests and improvements. The team took second overall at the meet and the 400 relay broke a record. Nine of the boys advanced onto State. Two competed individually and one relay team made it as well. It was a good year with a strong ending.

The boys swim and dive team welcomed many new young athletes this year. Some had swum before and others would be introduced to this sport for the first time. No matter what the case, each of them improved as the year progressed. The boys came together and won second place at the Red White and Blue Invite.

Speeding in Speedos

Place your feet, take your mark, hupp! This is how the boys started off every race on the swimming team this year. With each new race and dive came a chance to improve themselves and their personal best times and placements. Each of the swimmers set high goals for themselves and worked hard all through the season hoping to meet them

Junior Dylan Gillespie broke the 50 free record with a time of 22.49 and made it to State in the 50 and 100 free. He also made it to State in the 200 free relay with senior Eric Moris, and juniors Charlie Royce and Chad Kent. Senior Connor Florand took second in diving Sections and finished with the 4th place title at state. Most of the athletes achieved personal bests on their events. Dropping time in the pool was a difficult task, but the boys pushed themselves every day in practice, so that in meets they could really show off their 'A-game.'

Even though the team only had three home meets this year, they received a lot of support from many fans that included both family and friends. "I really enjoy the away meets because we had so much fun on the bus, and it was also a place for the boys to prepare, and get pumped up for the meet," said senior manager Sarah Williamson.

It was a good year for beating records, reaching goals, and making many new friends. The boys swim and dive team may not have been the biggest team, but they were definitely one of the closest teams.

~Cassandra Zemke

"Connor Florand's house is definitely the best for the spaghetti dinners," laughed freshman Joseph Goossens. He's been swimming since 7th grade and has continued to grow and improve as an athlete over the years. As a freshman, Goossens plans to keep swimming throughout his high school years.

Junior captain Chad Kent was asked about the weirdest part about wearing speedos, Kent jokingly responded, "Nothing, I like them." Kent and the other boys persevered to be sure their captains tasks were taken care of so the season ran smoothly.

"I like the 50 free and 100 free because they are short and sweet just like Timmy Brennhofer," joked senior captain Eric Moris. Moris was one of two swimming captains. He worked with the other boys to help build a team so they could have a successful and enjoyable year.

Senior captain Connor Florand was the only diving captain. He strived to help the young new comers as well as the older divers. He was a huge asset to the team, placing in meets and breaking records. "Jump high, spin fast," advised Florand.

Over the course of the season, the boys on the team became very close. Each of them worked together to build the team into something great. They excelled individually and as a whole.

Senior Connor Florand had a strong showing at the True Team Meet this year. He broke the record and took first at the meet. Florand then took second in Sections, moving him onto State. There, he had a strong finish, taking away the 4th place title. It was a great senior year for him. He pushed himself to do his best and plans to go on to dive in college.

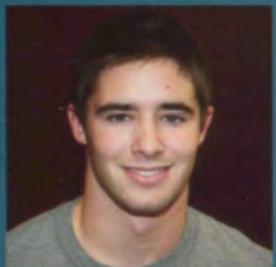

"My favorite thing about diving season this year was all our conversations around the hot water bucket," chuckled senior Benjamin Voss. Between dives they filled a bucket with hot water for the divers to put their Shames in so they could stay warm. Voss had a strong showing this year, achieving his new personal best at the last home meet of the season.

When addressed about the rewards of being a captain, sophomore Bernard Morgan praised, "It's fun because you get to be a leader and help the other wrestlers."

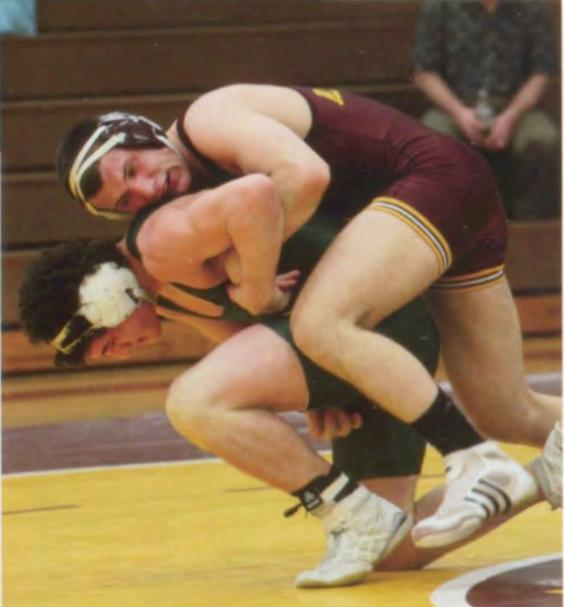

When summoned about the challenges of being a captain, senior Charles Janssen responded, "It's pretty hard because we have to do a lot of off season stuff and make sure the team's in line."

When questioned about the biggest burden of being a captain, senior Kevin Nelson replied, "You have to show up to practices earlier than everyone else."

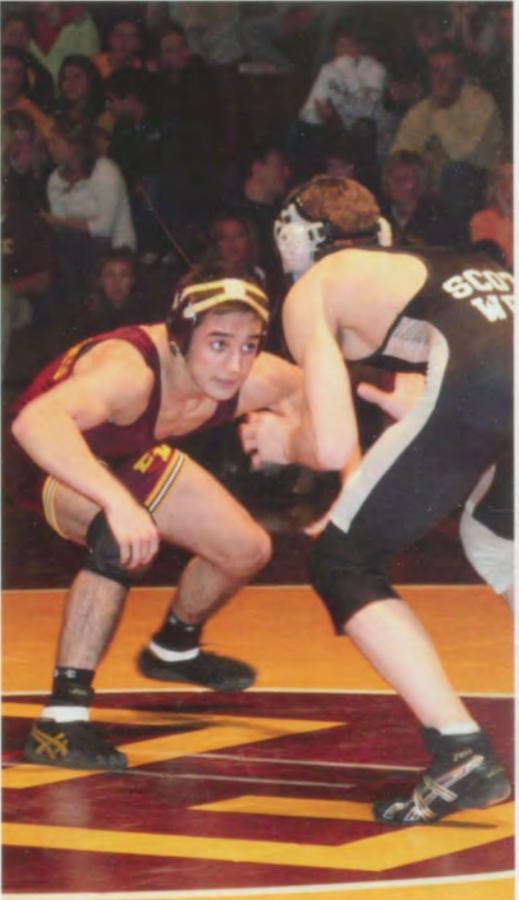

Senior Joshua Werner pursues his goal of breaking down his opponent. "I just tried to finish the match strong and do what I had to for the team," noted Werner. Despite the outcome of the match, the boys celebrated with their famous wrestling parties.

Senior captain Charles Janssen dominates his opponent from Mounds View. When asked about his strategy, Janssen stated, "Go six minutes hard." This is because a match lasts for six minutes.

Sophomore Bernard Morgan maps out his plan to defeat his Scott West opponent. "I've been around wrestling all my life," revealed Morgan. This was his reason for starting up and may be an explanation for his success.

Sophomore Tyler Isaacson's hard work is clearly paying off as he holds his opponent in an arm bar. "Everytime you step into the practice room improve by at least 1%", suggested Isaacson. Practices included live situation wrestling and conditioning.

The boys gather to take a few pointers from their head coach Billy Pierce. "It has been a pleasure to watch our wrestlers develop, not only as wrestlers, but more importantly, as fine young men!" commented Pierce. This was his third season coaching the team.

Sophomore Michael Pleski strives to achieve victory as he uses his strength to break down his opponent. "Wrestling makes you physically and mentally strong", expressed Pleski. This was a common claim among the boys on the team.

The wrestling team completed another successful season this year. "It was the best season many of us have been a part of", claimed senior Patrick Mohar. The team was composed of about forty boys with only fourteen of them participating on Varsity. The boys ranged in age from seventh grade to twelfth grade.

Practices were grueling, fast paced, and intense. They lasted at least three hours a day. And since a usual day consisted of two practices, that three hours quickly jumped to at least four.

Cutting weight was draining for most. To meet their goals, they had to be determined. The boys spent time outside of practice to achieve their weight goals. They did this by exercising and watching what they ate.

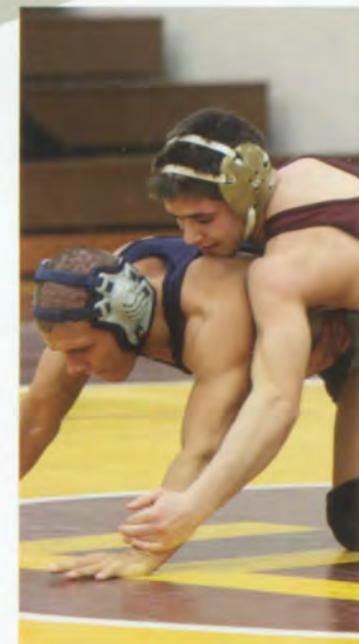

The competition was more than stressful. To get prepared, the boys would get warmed up and get focused. The team did plenty of mental preparation and drilling. This usually included music to get pumped.

The boys did really well in their competitions this season.

Junior Joseph Joyer is beaming with joy as the referee declares his efforts a success. "I just teched my Mounds View kid", reflected Joyer. This means that he beat his opponent by fifteen points.

Senior Jake Urbanski holds his opponent in a cradle firmly as he takes control of the match. "I did work. I went in aggressive and came out on top", explained Urbanski. Thanks to his determination and that of others, the team went home with a win against Champlin Park.

Senior Kevin Nelson demonstrates a chop as he attempts to break his opponent down. "I was trying to ride him out", remarked Nelson. His efforts eventually paid off as he finished the season as one of the most accomplished wrestlers.

Ready to Rumble

They took second at the Saint Francis Invitational, tenth at the Christmas Tourney, seventh at Rumble on the Red, and second at the SEC Tournament. Their overall record was 18-7.

The wrestlers who qualified to participate in the state tournament this season were seniors Charles Janssen and Kevin Nelson, and sophomores Tyler Isaacson, Bernard Morgan, and Michael Pleski. All five boys placed in the top four spots in their respective divisions.

Wrestling is an extremely challenging sport as it requires a limitless amount of self-discipline. But regardless of the few drawbacks there may be, participating in wrestling is a positive experience. It teaches you how to make goals and achieve them, and keeps you in shape.

Being a member of this team almost guarantees that at any point in time you will be ready to rumble. And when you arrive at practice or a meet, remember to "bring your battle ax."

Skating on Fire & Ice

After spending the entire summer in and out of ice arenas, the Girls Hockey Team came together for a tough and dedicated tryout.

The team consisted of thirty-two girls, which was the largest it had been in many years.

They started off the season with a game against Proctor, which ended in a loss. Regardless of the outcome, the team put up a good fight. Their luck was about to turn around.

Within the blink of an eye, the girls had a three game winning streak. They stayed strong when playing against the toughest teams in the state and pulled through with some wins against Hastings and Park Cottage Grove. The second game against Hastings had a different outcome than the first. The team finally pulled through with a win. "Next time the Raiders will remember why the Rangers bring body bags to each game," joked the teammates.

Going into sections, the team had a record of 10-14-1 which was an equivalent to the next team they would be playing. This team was Grand Rapids, and that is where their season ended, sooner than expected. The game was well battled, but the girls fell short. This loss wasn't completely negative though, as it was one of the most memorable nights for the seven seniors on the team.

Despite the many ups and downs the team faced, the team always came together as a family. The friendships and memories they shared will be things they won't soon forget. The girls will always remember skating with fire in their hearts and ice in their veins in 2010!

Sophomore Katie Boleen was always the one that came out of the corner with the puck. She used her lightning speed to her advantage this year. "I'm so fast you might not be able to see me shake up and down the rink", laughed Boleen.

Senior Lonna Anderson was someone the team could always count on to stop the first shot. She had an overall 89 save percentage this year. "All I can say is that I make the opponent work for everything, and that I tend to provide the entertainment in and outside the locker room", jokes Anderson.

Senior Kelsey Lochen breaks up the ice for a breakaway against Park Cottage Grove. She always knew when and where to be on the ice. "Staying positive is what kept me through the season", stated Lochen.

Junior captain Audrey Hanmer uses her strength and speed to out handle the opponent. "Don't fuss, don't fight, don't argue... just do it", giggled Hanmer.

Senior Sarah Solheid uses the defender as a screen and shoots the puck past the goalie for one of the many goals she racked up this season. "I will miss playing with all the seniors next year", shared Solheid.

"We have spaghetti dinners before most of our games," commented sophomore Matthew Schmidt. That was just one of the ways they got together as a team to get ready for games and have bonding time.

"The funniest thing that has happened all season is when the guys joked that me and Mertes won State in figure skating," chuckled junior Nicholas Nally. He got a chance to play with varsity against East Ridge, which added to their victories.

Senior Captains Trevor Waldoch, Daniel Fick, and Ryan Suess played leadership roles throughout the season. They were a major reason for the team's success this year. They will be missed next year and they will miss the team as well. "I will miss D-corps and Tay Swift," replied Fick sadly.

Most hockey players do something to pump themselves up before a game. Sophomore Clinton Franklin played very well this year for his first year of varsity. "Before every game I listen to the same music. It's mainly rap music to get pumped up," said Franklin.

Sophomore Thomas Tyson made a great impression for his first year of varsity. He was a major asset to the team when it came to scoring goals. "The best part of the team is that we all get along very well and we can all joke around," commented Thomas. He had a lot of fun this season and loved playing with all of the guys.

For most hockey boys, hockey is not just a sport it's a way of life. "Love the Game. It is my life!" revealed senior Christian Gaffy. He saved ninety three percent of the goals shot at him this year.

"We all get along really well, that is the best part of our team. We are serious when we need to be but we have fun in whatever we do," claimed sophomores Thomas Tyson and Clinton Franklin. They huddled together after they made a goal against St. Francis, because of the great team work they won the game that night.

Skating Towards Victory

With only five returning seniors, the boys hockey team had to work hard this season. They started out with almost a brand new foundation. It was definitely a challenge being forced to mesh the new team together. Luckily, they overcame the odds and exceeded the expectations. For the first time ever in Forest Lake Hockey history, the Rangers won the Suburban East Conference title.

It wasn't easy to win the Conference title. In order to win the title, it required a lot of hard work, determination, and a thirst for victory. The team could not have done it without their senior captains; Daniel Fick, Trevor Waldoch, and Ryan Suess. "It was a lot of fun being a captain this year, we all played well as a team and all of the captains got along too" commented Waldoch. Each stepped up and played a major role in the team's success.

"I come back every year for the guys and I just love hockey," exclaimed sophomore Lucas Kohls. His passion for the game has made him a big part of the team. He scored a total of thirteen points this year.

"My favorite team to play every year is Cretin-Derham Hall," stated senior captain Daniel Fick. He made this year his best yet, scoring a total of twenty eight points over the course of the season.

Ryan Suess attempts to score against East Ridge. "My favorite game by far that I have ever played in was against Andover last year!" said Suess. He was a forward player this year.

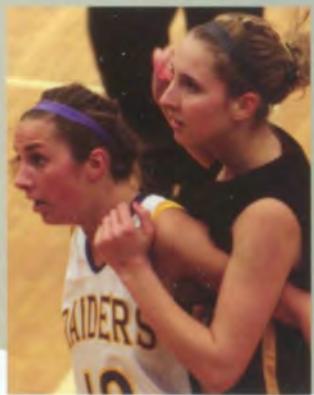

Senior captain Trevor Waldoch was a major part of the hockey team's success this year. He passed the puck to fellow senior captain Daniel Fick in the game against East Ridge. "Before each game I usually eat peanut M&M's and tape my stick," commented Waldoch.

Senior Tisa Phinney successfully fakes out her opponent to drive to the rim and make a basket. "If you are going to take it to the bank, then you better cash it in. CA-CHING!" exclaimed Phinney. It was a fun year for her as she started for four games.

Senior Lexi Alm keeps a close eye on her opponent. "I love when our whole team shoots lights out", expressed Alm. She made a total of twelve points at the winning game against East Ridge.

Senior Megan Hayman assertively makes a scoring shot. "Coming together is a beginning. Keeping together is a progress. Working together is success", stated Hayman. This year she established herself as a new threat to the post position.

Starting the game against Cretin-Derham Hall, eighth grader Bailey Norby reaches for the ball. "Off to a good start and a victory in the end", expressed Norby. She won tip and they went on to win.

Senior captain Taylor Winkel looks on passing the ball to a scoring teammate, calling a set play. Winkel admitted her favorite quote was "Basketball is a game that gives you every chance to be great, and puts every pressure on you to prove that you haven't got what it takes. It never takes away the chance, and it never eases up on the pressure", by Coach Bob Sundvold. Bob Sundvold was the Assistant Basketball Coach at the University of Toledo in Ohio.

At the Drop of a Ball

Women's basketball first began in 1892 at Smith College in Northampton, Massachusetts. Today, it is one of the most popular and widely viewed sports in the world. Basketball is not just about shooting, passing, and dribbling. It's also about teamwork.

There were nineteen girls on the Junior Varsity and Varsity team. Each player contributed their own skills and expertise to the team. All of the players were extremely hardworking and determined.

The dedicated athletes practiced every Monday, Wednesday, Thursday, and occasionally on Saturdays. Games were typically held on Tuesdays and Fridays. The girls sometimes celebrated a win by dining at Applebee's.

The team produced a very creative game program featuring all of the girls. They looked forward to nights like Senior Night, and PINK Night, which was dedicated to Breast Cancer Awareness. The team especially looked forward to their annual overnight trip to Duluth.

It was only Jennifer Wagner's fifth year coaching at Forest Lake High School, but her tenth year coaching overall. When asked about the benefits of basketball, Coach Wagner explained, "Taking pride in your school, community, teammates and self are all beneficial". All of that working hard and playing hard truly did pay off.

"My responsibility as a captain is to get all of my players playing for the name on the front of their jerseys, not on the back of their jerseys," voiced senior captain Michele Slattery.

"Being voted one of the three basketball captains was an honor, but all nine seniors together did a great job of leading this team," revealed senior captain Taylor Winkel.

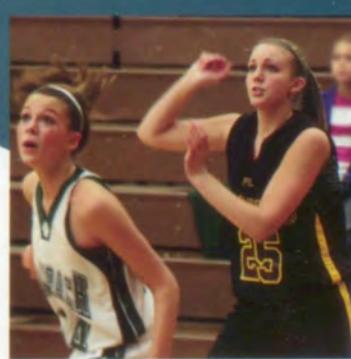

"It's a big honor to be a captain on such an outstanding team. I love the girls and this team is my family," expressed senior captain Sarah Radden.

During the game, the team takes a quick time out to discuss their plays. "Regardless of our W/L, this year's team is better than any other year because our team gets along so well. We're like a huge family of 19 amazing girls!" admitted junior Holly Nyquist. Communication is key to achieving rewarding teamwork.

Seniors Michele Slattery and Megan Hayman concentrate on blocking their opponents. "It doesn't matter who scores the points, it's about who can get the ball to the score!" expressed Slattery. She added eleven points to the winning score as they went on to beat East Ridge.

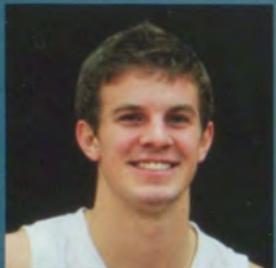

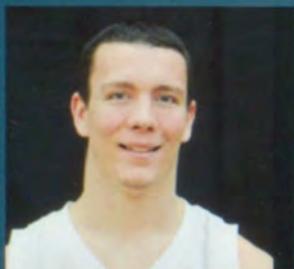

Junior Laura Frericks follows through with a shot. "My favorite thing about playing basketball is spending time with my team. We got to know each other really well," revealed Frericks. The team had a lot of fun together on and off the court.

Captain Samuel Miller brought energy to the team. "Teams don't go physically flat, but go mentally stale," stated Miller. His favorite part of the season was beating Cretin-Derham Hall and Stillwater in the same week.

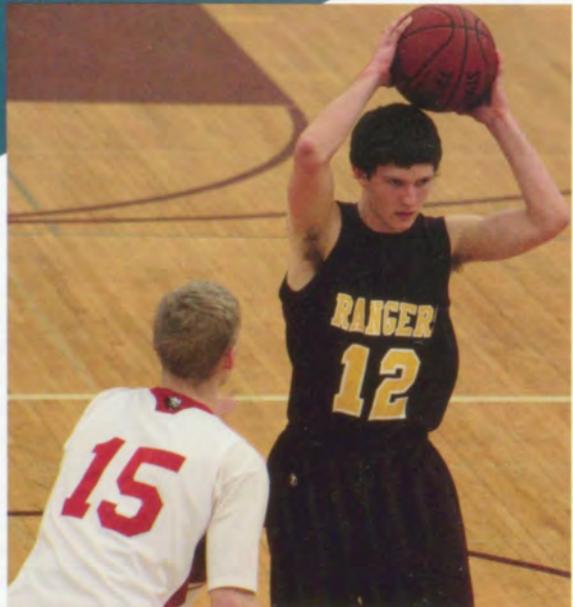

Captain Zachary Riedeman brought leadership to the team. "Hoop Dreams," quoted Riedeman. Just for fun he would say this before he shot during practice.

Captain Douglas Szwall brought comedy to the team. "Say uhh Sam, you will never be as great as me!" joked Szwall. When practices became too serious the team benefitted from his jokes.

Senior Samuel Miller works to get free of his opponent. "And I, when it happens it is like a miracle," added Miller. The term And I is when the ball goes in the hoop when fouled against.

"Junior Philip Hegseth looks for an open teammate. "Say uhh...15 you need to lift some weights!" joked Hegseth. The jokes helped lighten the mood all season.

Senior Tyler Bey blocks his opponent. "We had a really good season," said Bey. It was important throughout the season to block as many shots as possible.

Senior Zachary Riedeman dunks the basketball. "I fly like an eagle," claimed Riedeman. He scored his 1000th point of his career early in the season during their first game against Cretin-Derham Hall.

The team huddles to hear the game plan. "Little by little great gains are made," quoted Senior Benjamin Bogenrief. Coach Dan Cremisino told the team what needed to be switched up in order to get a win under their belts.

Senior Parker Winning looks to pass the ball. "Probably giving it to 'Z-Man' for the And I," commented Winning. Stillwater was one of the key games played this year and a big win to put the team on the map.

The goals the team decided would give them the best chance at a winning season were play hard, play smart, play together and have fun. Forest Lake has always had a competitive program and the reason for this is because they have made a program that stands the test of time.

The team finished their regular season by winning the Suburban East Conference with a record of 16-2. With this they were ranked sixth in the state. They had a lot of experience on their team including seven seniors. The team lost some tough conference games, but then recovered by beating two highly ranked teams to help move their own rank towards the top in the state and a chance to play in the state tournament.

junior Zachary Vidlund gets ready to make a shot. "Rule Number 1: How NOT to shoot a free throw," laughed Vidlund. Free throws were very valuable to the team.

Junior Evan Johnson tries to get the ball from the opponent. "My favorite part is playing defense, because I like to get low," commented Johnson. The defense against Coon Rapids was played well.

Senior Dustin Werner waits to see what will happen next. "I was watching to see if the opposing player was going to make his free throw," described Werner. He was ready to play at any moment during the season.

captains Samuel Miller, Douglas Sewall and Zachary Riedeman. The three combined their qualities to help direct the team. "The best part of being on this team is the overall camaraderie. Everybody gets along with everybody and we crack jokes about each other all day long," explained Riedeman. The team chemistry is what made the team so successful.

Other reasons for the team's success was junior Evan Johnson's defensive skills followed by Sewall's rebounds helped get the ball back into the Ranger's hands. Once in our hands, the team could count on Philip Hegseth for three point shots, Miller's dunks and Riedeman's shots. All of the chemistry and skills combined is what made this team have an outstanding season.

"It was a very fun year! I'm definitely going to miss the team. I will never ever forget this season, it was a season to remember," stated senior captain Mitchell Wohlk.

Sophomore Cassandra Thobe races past the competition at the State tournament placing 48th. "State was super duper invigorating and nerve-racking!" commented Thobe.

Senior Captain Michael Howe added a humorous motto to live by for the Nordic team: "Racing is like wrestling with a gorilla, you don't stop when you're tired, you stop when the gorilla is tired."

Captains senior Mitchel Wohlk, junior Elizabeth Peterson, and senior Steven Coozennoy take a break from races to have fun sledding. "Our team has a good balance between working hard and having fun," said Peterson

Gliding to Victory

Only memories now take the place of a successful season for the Nordic Ski team. Like every year, the Nordic team proved to be successful for both the boys and the girls.

"It takes dedication, hard work and perseverance to be in such a demanding sport. Every second is crucial," explained junior Jennifer Scott. Taking that energy and working to a common goal is exactly what the Nordic team had done. "We had a really good season! We had five girls All Conference and 1 or 2 girls receive an Honorable Mention, which was great!" added senior Captain Amber Anderson. As for the boys, they won their seventh straight section title by placing fifth in the top seven.

Placing fifth and sixth place at State were senior Captain Steven Coozennoy and sophomore Joseph Jackson. Also wowing Forest Lake was junior captain Elizabeth Peterson who took eighth in what was her fourth consecutive trip to State.

Throughout the year, it was not just the self-determination but energy that kept the team going. Pumping up the team was really the fuel in which they ran on. "Pumping the girls up before the races was always fun!" stated junior Julia Hipp. All that was needed for the boys to be ready was inspiring words from senior captain Steven Coozennoy. "The best part of racing was when Coozennoy would yell 'Nants ingonyama' from the Lion King before every race!" joked senior Matthew Maki.

Looking back on the season, it was evident that the Forest Lake Nordic Ski team made it another year to remember.

Throughout the years of skiing on a team, the bond of the athletes becomes a strong one. "I'm going to miss Nordic, we were basically a huge family that joked together," reminisced senior Matthew Maki.

Being on the Nordic team isn't always serious. Some of the girls here display some wacky faces and poses after a race. "Even though it's a lot of hard work, we still manage to have a lot of fun," stated sophomore Holly Winberg.

The seniors of the Nordic team are viewed as leaders in the younger team members' eyes and will surely be missed. "We're a close team, and it will not be the same family when all the guys graduate," remarked sophomore Joseph Jackson.

"Skiing has been a lot of fun! The team is family. I'm going to miss everything," stated senior captain Amber Anderson on her long run with the sport.

"Joining the Nordic team was one of the best decisions I've made being here. It was good spending time with the team," exclaimed senior exchange student Tomas Macecek on his experience with the Nordic Sophomore Miranda Baker quickly makes her way to the finish line. "It was a really fun year!" exclaimed Baker. Being a sophomore this year, Baker still has a chance to compete with the Alpine Ski team for two more years.

"Skiers are the craziest people you know. Who else would stay outside for hours in below zero temperatures in spandex?" joked sophomore Krista Kirchner.

Sophomore David Herman spends some down time with Coach Kyle Oberg. "The intensity of skiing is fun, but it's good to have some down time," commented Herman. Being able to relax in between races is greatly appreciated by the team after skiing.

"Senior captain Benjamin Folles glides down the hill during the Wild Mountain Invite. "You definitely have to learn to take a blow," laughed Folles."

"Junior Tyler Raarup makes his way down through the course at the Wild Mountain Invite. "You have to let your mind think about the course and what's coming up next," claimed Raarup."

Junior Cody Eggers makes his way through the course with ease during the Wild Mountain Invite ski meet. "I had a good season conference wise," stated Eggers.

Alpine skiing is a very competitive sport that requires determination and dedication. "Going into a race thinking that you will do good keeps you thinking positively," advised sophomore Miranda Baker.

Staying the Course

As the season came to a close, it was evident that the Boys and Girls Ranger Alpine Ski team worked hard and raced well throughout the entire season. "We had a good year! We took third at our conference. Juniors Shane Sampair and Tyler Brunjes individually made it to State and we took fourth at Sections," explained junior Cody Eggers.

As in previous years, the Alpine Ski team was as close as a family. From spending time together at practice to riding on the bus together to meets, it was inevitable that the team was fueled by a tight bond. "We are all really close, like a family," claimed sophomore Krista Kirchner.

Just like any family, the Alpine team welcomed new members to their team ranging from seventh grade all the way up to twelfth grade as well as members from other countries.

This year the team was fortunate enough to have three visiting members: seniors Claudia Steckenstein and Julia Wolfart visiting from Germany and Iben Stubbe visiting from Denmark "I just started skiing here and it was pretty exciting. The team really helped me out a lot!" replied Wolfart.

After a long season of dedication and hard work, the Boys and Girls Alpine Ski team approached every race they had with the mindset of never giving up.

"I'm going to miss watching everyone progress throughout the years," said senior captain Ben Folles. Although some of the team will be graduated, the team is still looking ahead to new memories and races to come.

~Hannah Stout

"Speed suits made skiing a spectator sport," joked junior Shane Sampair. Sampair was one of the two skiers from the Alpine team to make it to State this season. Sampair placed 40th out of 88.

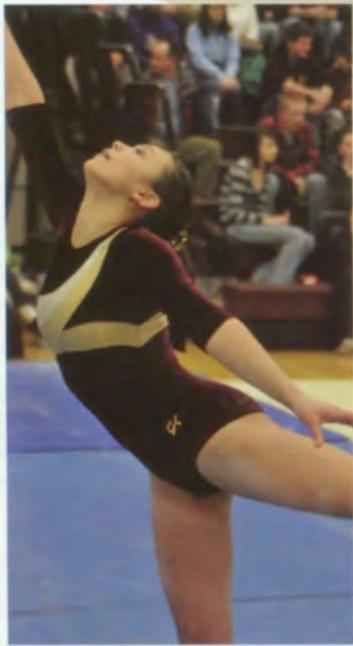

"You need to be fast on your feet," suggested junior Tyler Raarup. Being fast on his feet is something Raarup knows a lot about as it got him far this season. "Sections was great!" exclaimed Raarup.

Freshman Kellie Welch zips down the hill while keeping good posture and completing the course. Although Welch is a younger competitor, she proves that age isn't a key factor while skiing on the team.

Staying tight and holding a grip, freshman Jessica Dhaene makes sure there are no petty deductions to her bar routine. "Bars is a difficult event that takes a lot of concentration," shared Dhaene. She was a young, but strong competitor this season.

Keeping her poise, sophomore Jessica Ramberg completes a flawless floor routine. Ramberg laughed, "When you have a wedgie just smile and act normal!" She was a huge contributor to the team's wins this season.

The girls support their team by watching one of the girl's beam routine. Freshman Amanda Williamson raved, "Cheering for the girls is really fun and really boosts team morale!" Team support was the key component in the girls success this year.

Mentally preparing herself for the next part of her routine sophomore Jessica Ramberg shows complete concentration. "We can do it all on four inches," bragged Ramberg. Being only a sophomore Ramberg shined immensely throughout the season.

Executing the tumbling pass with a flawless front one and a half, senior captain Taylor Brett accomplishes what is needed for a great floor routine. "It is always fun to show off your floor routine. It really gets everyone watching," commented Brett. Her overall dedication and high scores are what has made Brett a State competitor for the past three years.

Perfect Ten

How unique it is. "Gymnastics is a sport that uses not only every single muscle in your body, but every part of your mind as well," informed senior Alexandra Bergan. Double backs on floor, tucks on vault, and back tucks on beam are all not typical skills sports would consist of.

Gymnastics is a sport for people who like to challenge themselves and do things nobody would ever want to try. The gymnasts were willing to fail to reach success. They knew that falls were a must and that trying new tricks would only further their competition level and score. A perfect ten was almost impossible to get, but it was the score each athlete thrived for. Strength, balance and agility were all key components of being a gymnast.

This year the girls continued to increase their strength by working out in the weight room and doing a lot of conditioning. They knew they should keep the legacy of state contestants going and were ready to do what needed to be done to make that happen. For the past three years, Forest Lake has been a contestant at the State Meet, whether it be individual or team competition.

The season started off as expected, with the team doing extremely well in their conference meets. Their hard work and dedication continued to pay off with a 7-3 overall record which does not include Invitations or Quad meets. Conference meets were a breeze but when it came to Sections the team fell just 1.7 points short from coming out on top and sending the Rangers to the State Meet as a team for the second consecutive year.

However, individuals senior Taylor Brett, sophomore Jessica Ramberg, and freshman Jessica Dhaene all qualified for state, both individually and all around. Brett finished 14th in the all around competition. In individuals Ramberg finished 19th on floor and Dhaene 14th on bars. The team made sure the legacy was kept and finished their season strong.

~Tristen Uram

Releasing with tightness senior Julia Hurtley casts off the bar to finish off a strong routine. "Gymnastics is a sport where you only get one shot to get it right," reminded Hurtley. Her reoccurring accuracy helped keep her scores high during competition.

Showing complete control and balance, senior captain Esther Jandrich completes her routine. "It has been a great season and would not have been the same without the girls we had this year", shared Jandrich. She expressed her love for the sport throughout the season and did a phenomenal job as captain.

The girls originally started out the dance balancing one another's backs to portray the image of a ship. They unfortunately had to take this out due to the dangerous move clause. "Dance takes a lot more endurance and strength than many people think. It's a pirates life for me!" exclaimed junior Taylor Kiesow.

The girls pose for a picture on their last invitational of the year. This put a lot of pressure on the girls but they came out with top scores, doing their best in jazz all year.

The dance team was awarded the privilege of dancing at the Target Center for the Universal Dance Association Competition. The girls earned second place in both Kick and in Jazz. Dancing on such a big stage is one of the girls favorite parts about this competition.

It's a Pirates Life

At the end of the summer when most students are preparing themselves to get back to school, the dance team is preparing for 6 months of practices and competitions.

New to this year, the team began am practices for the winter season. These practices made it possible for new assistant coach, Katie Balfanz, to help out. "The 5:30 am practices were tough, but having a Universal Dance Association instructor as a coach this year helped us gain better technique and to be more confident," stated senior Kelsey Jaeb. With all the new additions to the season, came great rewards.

The dancers received their first award for Jazz, taking second place at Rochester. As they continued their success throughout the season, the girls proceeded to raise their scores at every competition earning their highest scores in both Kick and Jazz. The teams are given scores out of 10 in categories such as placement, accuracy, and new to this year, kick height. In the past the girls would be happy to receive 8's here and there, and were lucky if they happened to receive a 9.

This year the girls didn't just hope, they made it a priority to receive 8's at every competition. They raised their average kick scores significantly. Unfortunately the girls were disqualified at their first competition, hurting their standings in the conference.

The girls pulled through the season ending with 6th in Kick and 8th in Jazz at Sections. Only the top 3 teams go to state, the girls were disappointed but remembered that the section had just gained some new teams that were also very good. They knew they had worked as hard as they could and that's all they could do.

~Alex Chilson

Ashley Entwistle has been battling with cancer for about a year. Although Kick demanded too much endurance that her lungs could not handle, she was able to perform Jazz. "This is the first year in my 14 years of dancing I didn't get to dance until tonight. It felt amazing to have everyone there and holding up signs, chanting my name!" exclaimed Entwistle.

Who You've Met

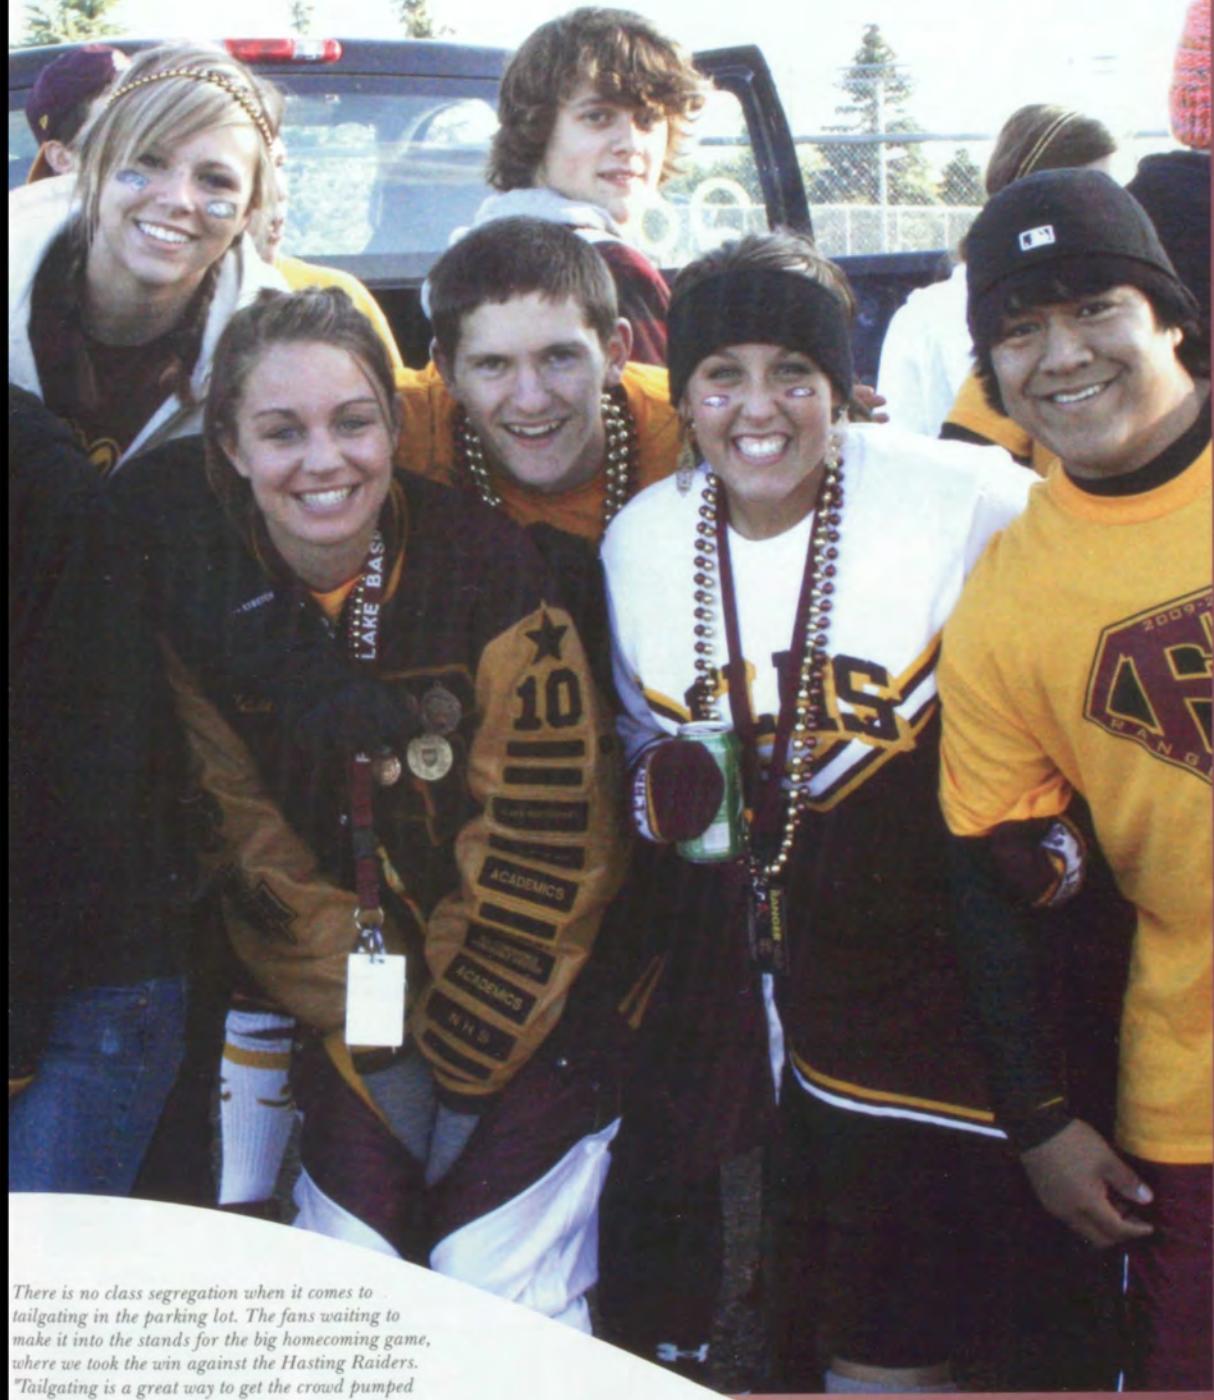

Who have you met?
Who are you? Who are we?
Who will you become?

High school is more than just the classes you take or the subject material you learn. It's about the friends you've met in your classes, and what you've accomplished together as a team. High school is about getting over the small drama in your lives and following your path into the future. It's about moving forward, taking the substantial steps in achieving your goals, and becoming the person you want to be in the future. It's about meeting new people, creating new experiences and making life long friends.

There is no class segregation when it comes to tailgating in the parking lot. The fans waiting to make it into the stands for the big homecoming game, where we took the win against the Hasting Raiders. "Tailgating is a great way to get the crowd pumped for the game. Everyone's crazy energy while tailgating just makes for a louder crazier crowd at the game", commented seniors Brogan Stegner and Adri Acosta.

English teacher Laura Livermore gets ready for the "door" contest. This was the first year that advisories decorated their classroom door to show school spirit during Homecoming Week. Mrs Bullocks Advisory took first place.

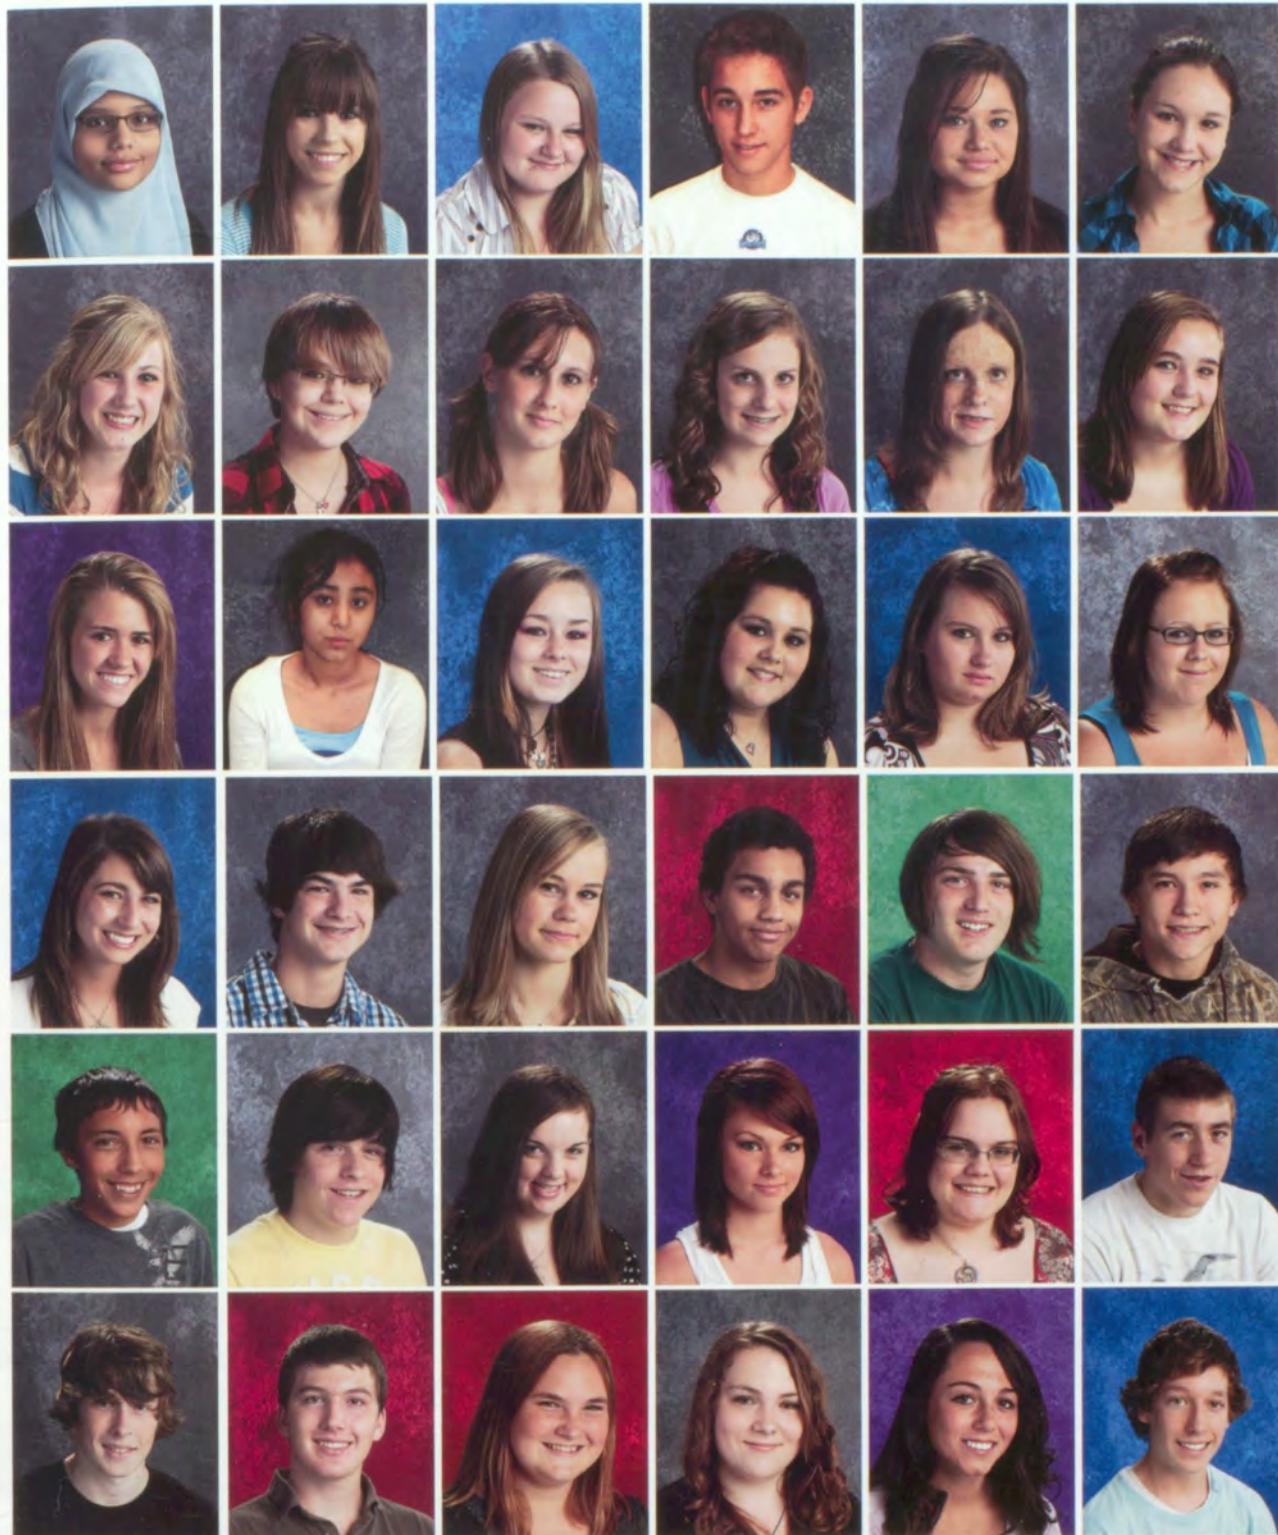

Weight lifting is just one of the classes offered through the Phy-Ed Department. Under the watchful supervision of instructors like Jeff Wilson, students learn about staying physically fit and leading healthy lifestyles.

Sophomores

Sophomores Gabrielle O'Gorman, Lisa Olson, Kelli Sova and Krista Kirchner express their Ranger Pride during lunches on Maroon and Gold Day. Kirchner exclaimed, "Homecoming was crazy!" The sophomores did a great job of adding their spirit to the school.

Juniors, Mariah Nienow and Brittany Harrington prepare Eggplant Parmesan in Intro to Culinary Arts class. "The food we cook in class tastes great and it's easy to make," commented Nienow. It's a class that offers everyday life skills in a new and exciting way.

Ceramics is a fitting class for anybody with an open mind. It allows students to explore their creativity with a variety of different projects. Junior, Travis Kroska, while shaping clay, explains, "It's definitely a fun class and I would recommend it to other students."

Juniors, Sarah Wilke, Erica Jasmer, Meghan O'Kelly and Shelia Onasch plan out fun and educational activities for the preschoolers' first day. The FACS department offers part time preschool for children ages three to five years old. Combining a variety of shapes, numbers and colors, they are sure to cover all the necessary skills a preschool teacher would. Wilke admitted, "It's a fun class, but very challenging at times. We can't wait to start working with the children."

"Friendship isn't being inseperable. it's being seperated and knowing nothing will ever change. To years of friendship that will last a lifetime."

"Just another day after school."

"I think we're in yearbook right now! 'Beeee-Jeweled! And that's the definition of friendship . . .'"

"You'll always be my best friend, you know too much!"

"A best friend understands your past, knows your present and believes in your future."

"We all met in Laura's class and strengthened our relationship through book making. Truly great friends are hard to find, difficult to leave, and impossible to forget."

"There are some people in life that make you laugh a little louder, smile a little brighter, and just live a little better."

"Leadership is getting someone to do what they don't want to do. Achieve what they want to achieve. Thanks so much for everything that you have done for me and our team. I would not be the person I am today without my bestest buddies."

"How'd ya get to be so sweet, how'd ya get to be so sweet? I ask ya very nicely, won't you tell me very kindly? How'd ya get to be so sweet?"

Love ya Kristin!

"Sarah Diane Rudden: This is the definition of a best friend. She has been there for me countless number of times, since we were two years old. If it wasn't for this beautiful young lady, I wouldn't be who I am today. 'It is by chance we met . . . By choice we became friends.' Tiarah forever
I love you girl!"
-Your best friend

"Tia Lee Phinney: You are the best friend anyone could ever ask for. You have been there for me through the highs and lows of my life! We have so many memories I wouldn't trade them for the world! I love you so much, I will always be here for you! Tiarah for always!"

"Yesterday brought the beginning, tomorrow brings the end, and somewhere in the middle we became the best of friends."

"I spent the best times of my life with you girls from St. Croix to Ossiwinnamakee and everywhere inbetween. We've stuck by one another throughout it all, never letting each other down and that will never change. One rule in life is that friends will come and go. But like our parents, we're lucky enough to prove that every rule has its exceptions. I love you girls and always will" -Cassie

"Years from now we won't remember all those crazy nights or all those times that made us laugh until our stomachs hurt, but we'll always remember that we were the ones we shared those moments with."

"We're forever friends.
Bonded by a love that time nor distance can take away. In the forever
friends kind of way.
Heart to heart, hand in hand we'll stand together till the end. "
-Sandi Patti"

"You will always be my girls.
Forever & Always."

Love Mallory

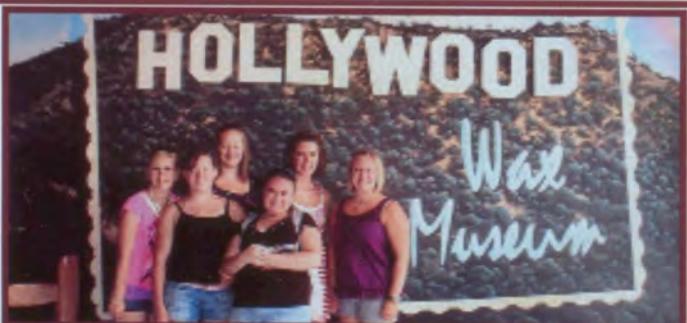

"It's been an awesome three years as friends Angie! I will always be there for you!" - Eric

"It's been awesome Eric" - Angie

"A best friend is like a sister you can't get rid of."

"Erika, Sam, Heather, Katie and Colleen it was so fun being in Girl Scouts together. Remember all the fun in LA this summer and all the events before. You are the best friends a person could have. Hope our friendship continues. Troop 1973!" - Megan

"We have all been here for each other this long and hopefully we have many more years to come. We're all just a phone call away with anything and it will stay that way to the very end."

"Senior year was definitely one of the best years. We're not going on the river anymore and if we do "scooter" can definitely not come. This is just the beginning of everything and Josh and Mike would say 'now it's on!'"

"We will never forget senior year especially tailgating during football games."

"What a great vacation. It was a lot of fun. Great friends and good memories. Hope we can go again next year."

"Memories shared between us, especially senior year will never be forgotten. Going to homeroom every wed., going to the gym, all our blonde moments at the lunch table... la la laaaaaaa and just spending time together! We're friends till the end! Je t'aime!"

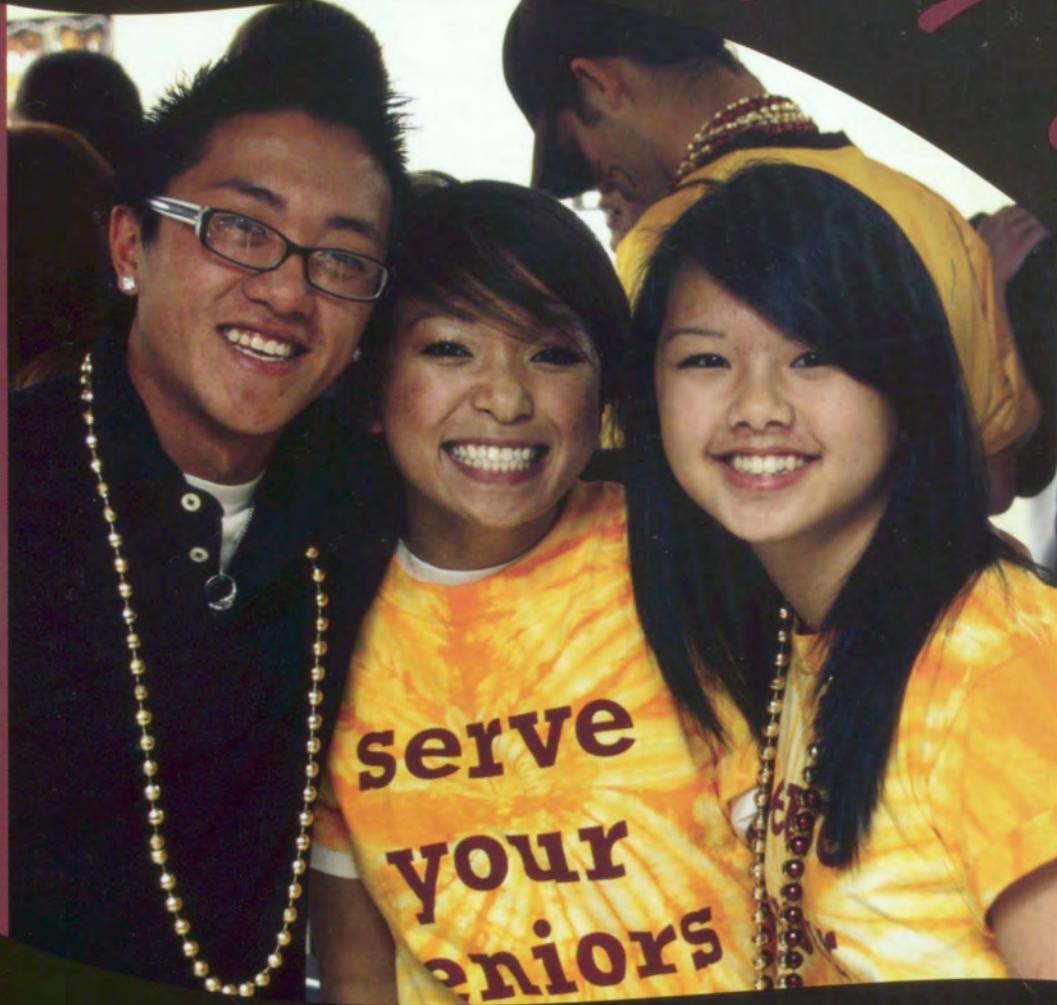

"Miranda Anne and Danielle Nicole- Just take a moment to think of all the memories we've shared together. All the road trips, the crazy middle-of-the-night ideas, talking for hours about "life or death" things, reading in the sun, fighting about the dumbest things, and so many things I shouldn't mention. You girls have been there for me through it all and it's greatly appreciated. We are more like sisters than anything the way we bicker, but I love you still, always and forever. Over the years you have shaped me into the person I am and have played a very significant role in my life. I could not have survived high school without you. Thank you, for all the memories, for the laughs, for the tears and just for being you. Even though we are going our separate ways next year, you will always have a place in my heart. I love you girls more than anything. Love always, Jen"

"I don't remember how we happened to meet each other. I don't remember who got along with whom first. All I can remember is all of us together... ALWAYS! Forever and Always the Linwood Girls Class of 2010 Stephanie Wheeler, Katie Royce, Heather Jacobson, Samantha Carlson, Erika Prachar, and Julia Hurtley"

"Angela, you came into my life as the miracle God granted to me. From the moment I saw you I knew God had something very special for me, and for you! I am so thankful and very proud of the woman you have become. As a little girl you were witty, smart, delightful and funny and overall very beautiful inside and out. As you grow up, you have been all that but in a greater way. You have always had this force about you that I have always admired. Thank you Angela for giving me so much to be proud of. Now you are going into college and will be what you want to be. You have put so much effort into your studies and it's so admirable. I can't tell you how much I love you and how much you have given me by being the beautiful person you are! There is no doubt in my mind you will have a wonderful life just because it is you! You excell Braval!
Thanks Angelal"

Sophomore Noel Mains hangs out in the school parking lot before Homecoming. "It was a lot of fun and I had a blast," exclaimed Mains. Tailgating was a great way to get pumped up and ready for the game.

Junior Matthew Goosens and seniors Taylor Hayes, Steven Coonzenoy, and Alexander Gimis participate in the milk chugging contest during Winter Wonder Week. "It was a challenge because the hole was way too small," giggled Hayes. Goosens beat Hayes and the other boys by almost half a bottle.

Sophomore Ryan Lacy yo-yo's in the high school's first annual talent show. "I can't believe I have a fan group on Facebook," commented Lacy. After the talent show, he gained many fans around the school..

Band teacher Barry Zumwalde, English teacher Laura Livermore, and former teacher Jane Bernauer get cold for a cause at Forest Lake's first annual Polar Plunge. "It was cold but it was worth it because it was for a good cause," explained Zumwalde. Local businesses raised over $17,000 to help out local charities.

Drumline members look determined as they perform at the pep fest. "Drumline was a great experience overall," claimed senior Andrew Riley. Winter Wonder Week was a chaotic week for them.

The Chinese exchange students stop to pose with their NHS friends. "My exchange student spoke very little English, but it was cool once we broke the language barrier," revealed senior Benjamin Vos. The students accompanied NIHS members to get a taste of American schooling.

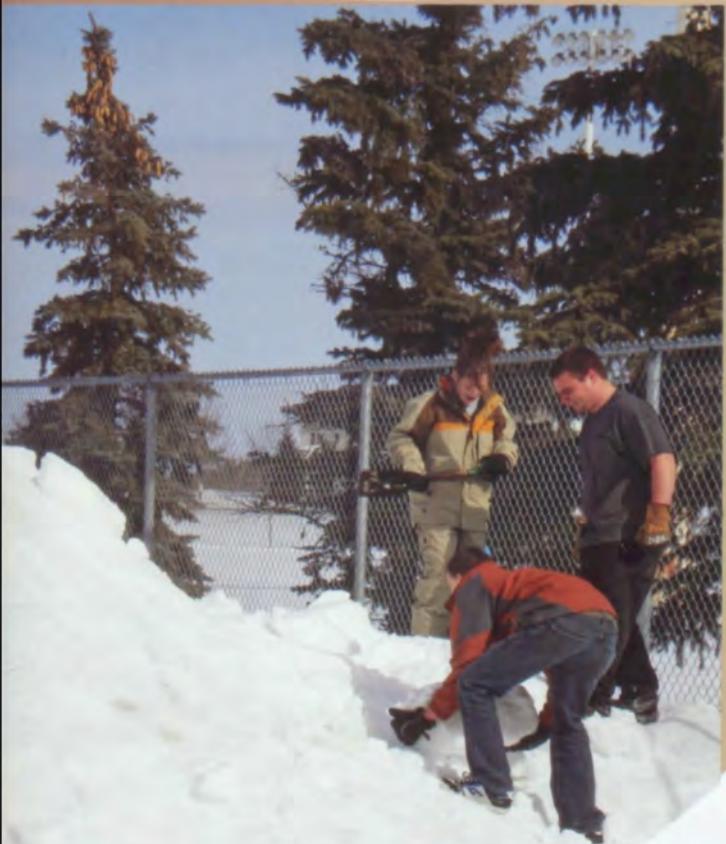

Senior football players practice lining up against some heavy machinery. "Nothing gets in the way of the O-line," stated Kyle Anderson. They were busy taking pictures for the team poster that day.

Where You've Been

We all took different paths, but in the end it was all for the same reason: to reach our destination. Sometimes there were obstacles that may have slowed us down, but we found a way to overcome them and continue our journey. We may have laughed, cried, or gotten discouraged along the way, but we remembered that although not everyone may have taken the same path as us, we were all striving for the same thing—success.

Sophomores started their journey, and are a step closer to completing it. Juniors are halfway through, but are still figuring out which path to take. Seniors completed one journey, and are now striking out on a new road. So when each of us starts our new beginning in the years to come, take a look back to see where you've been.

Seniors Vincent Becker, Michael Burger, and Samantha Lamwers work hard to build their snow caves in Outdoor Ed II. "Even though it's cold out, it's still fun to get outside instead of being in the gym", Burger exclaimed. The students practiced their survival skills in the cave.

Vanessa Melcher takes time away from browsing through pictures to smile for the camera. "Homecoming is the most memorable week of high school for me", Melcher stated. The week was a good way for the students to show off their school spirit and have a good time.

Juniors Teresa Brockman and Kelsie Close collect money during lunches for Pennies for Patients. "Pennies for Patients is an extremely accredited organization that is working to find a cure for blood cancers", informed Close. The Student Council raised a lot of money for those in need.

By virtue of the fact that the yearbook is a student conceived, planned and produced publication, as well as a product of an academic program, there are certain legal and ethical guidelines which Forest Lake yearbook staff members practice. The 2009 Forester and its staff are protected by, and bound to, the principles of the First Amendment and other protections and limitations as afforded by the Constitution and the various court decisions implementing those principles. By not interfering with publication content, school officials are therefore not liable for or responsible for content. • Journalistic in nature, the yearbook informs and entertains its audience in a broad, fair and accurate manner on all subject that affect readers in the areas of academics, community, groups, sports and student life. The entire student body of 1700+ prospective readers constitutes the book's target audience. Secondary audiences include school personnel, community members and scholastic journalism groups. • Coverage • Content focuses on coverage which will meet the wants and needs of the majority of these students, so long as those wants and needs are not contradictory to the principles of scholastic journalism. • The staff encourages constructive criticism of any part of the book, both before and after publication. However, final authority for the content of the yearbook rests solely in the hands of the yearbook students under the guidance of their advisors. • No material which is libelous, irresponsible and/or an advocate of illegal activity will be published. No material which the advisors deem in poor taste will be printed. • The content coverage period lasts from the summer before school starts to

March, when the yearbook is completed. Events occurring past this date are impossible to include in the yearbook, and are subsequently covered in the spring supplement. • The subjects for class features are selected by the staff in trying to represent a diverse group of students who have made significant contributions through academics or organizations. • While the yearbook staff strives to include all official school sports and organizations as equitably as possible, the ultimate decision for page allocation is decided by the advisors. • Group photographs for clubs and organizations are taken by official school photographers. All faculty and staff are notified at least two weeks prior to this date. Any groups not photographed at this time are not the responsibility of the yearbook staff. • Portrait Photography • All underclass students and school personnel must have their portraits taken by official school photographers to be included in the yearbook. All underclass students and school personnel will be afforded at least two opportunities to have their portraits taken or retaken, if the need presents itself. Seniors must submit (or have one submitted) an appropriate traditional photograph from Picture Place to the yearbook staff no later than the stipulated deadline. Seniors are given the opportunity to have a photograph taken by Picture Place a number of times both at the studio and at the school. Life Touch pictures are used for IDs only. Any student who does not have a photograph taken by the stipulated deadline, may not have a chronological, or other portrait included in the yearbook. It is not the responsibility of the yearbook staff to ensure that seniors get a photograph taken. • Each student's official grade classification on the first day of the school year, or the first day the student enrolls at Forest Lake, will be used to determine portrait placement by grade level. A grade level change after the start of school cannot be reflected in the yearbook portrait pages. • Sensitive Issues • Should a student or school personnel pass away anytime during the current coverage period, the yearbook staff will not allow for special coverage. Family and friends are welcome to purchase an advertisement to honor and remember the life of the person lost, and the advertisement will be included in the designated section of the yearbook as the production schedule allows. • Advertising • All advertising accepted by the staff must meet the same guidelines as editorial content. Acceptance of advertising does not constitute an endorsement by the Forester staff, Forest Lake High School's administration, faculty, staff, or students, or the Forest Lake Area School District. • Senior advertisements, ranging in price from $25 for a twelfth of a page to $50 for a quarter of a page, are sold from August to December. The Forester staff discourages advertisements which include boyfriends/girlfriends because advertisements cannot be removed or changed after submission. The yearbook staff does not guarantee the safe return of any photos submitted for advertisements. • Client Satisfaction • Because the yearbook is a student production, complete satisfaction is not guaranteed to the purchaser. Refunds will not be given for minor errors such as poor portrait quality, misspelled names, etc. Books returned for refund must be free of damage or writing. Once returned, the book becomes the property of the Forester staff and can be resold at the current sales price.

BOOKS

THE ASK AND THE ANSWER

IT NEVER HURTS TO ASK

The follow-up to the literary Sci-fi thriller THE KNIFE OF NEVER LETTING GO, THE ASK AND THE ANSWER continues the saga of Todd and Viola, who are caught in a warring town where thoughts can be heard and secrets are never safe.

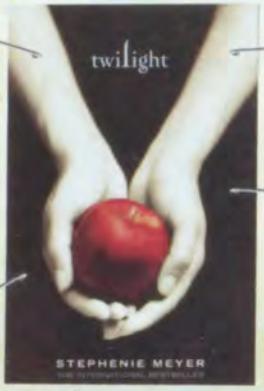

THE BOOKS ARE ALWAYS BETTER THAN THE MOVIES

Fueled by the movie adaptations, the books of the Twilight series maintain their popularity and commercial success amongst teens and adults alike. It seems everyone has a weakness for vampire romance.

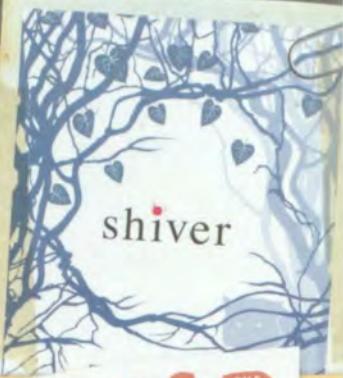

ENDER'S GAME MEETS LORD OF THE FLIES

Isolated from society and forced to live in a complicated labyrinth, life on the Glade is never easy - boys live, eat, and sleep all to solve the mystery of the gigantic maze around them. JAMES DASHNER'S THE MAZE RUNNER IS A SCI-FI FANTASY THAT WILL ADAPT EASILY TO THE BIG SCREEN. Hint, hint, Hollywood.

WOLF IS THE NEW VAMPIRE

The popularity of Shiver indicates that vampires are on their way out and werewolves are the hip, new supernatural love interest. In the novel by Maggie Stiefvater Grace and her yellow-eyed boy Sam risk everything to remain together.
