Jefferson High School announces 2022 inductees into Alumni Hall of Fame

Lafayette Jefferson High School is pleased to announce its 2022 inductees to the Alumni Hall of Fame. The honorees were inducted at a ceremony in the Rohrman Center for the Performing Arts on Friday, October 7.

The criteria used to select these candidates includes special achievements, honors, community service, responsibility, leadership, contributions to society, and national and/or world service.

Jefferson High School Principal Mark Preston spoke to the assembled students in attendance. “At one time our inductees were students at Jefferson High School, just like you,” he said. “I wonder if they had any clue that they would invited back one day to be honored as members of the Jefferson Hall of Fame? I wonder if any of you right now have dreams and goals that others think are out of reach or are simply unrealistic? The point is: If you work hard, believe in yourself, and never give up on the dream, you, too, could be back here one day, being recognized for the incredible accomplishments that you have achieved.”

Today, Tony Award winner Aaron Glick, Class of 2002; attorney and philanthropist Jeff Newell, Class of 1973; engineer and designer Ted Schilling, Class of 1979; and physician Dr. Morris Stampfer, Class of 1956, join the many honored alumni who have been inducted into the Hall of Fame. Each of these alumni has made substantial contributions in their respective fields, as well as living out lives of service. And each of these distinguished honorees credits getting their start to the experiences they had here at Jefferson High School.

We are pleased to congratulate this year’s honorees.
