Building our Family One Branch at a Time!

As winter arrives and the weather turns cold, many of us start to turn in to our family and home for this season. As we do this, let's be sure to reflect on the community we've BUILT together here at Carpenter: our children attend a school with teachers who care and work hard every day with our students, we have an administration who works to enrich their lives, and parents who do all they can to make the time at Carpenter better for all.

Let's remember that the cornerstone of this community we live in is family. We build this school on relationships, family and care for each other. In that spirit, we humbly present to you an opportunity to build each other up.

In the next week there will be a tree placed in the lobby and will be there through December 15th. Visit our Family Tree and choose an envelope. Each envelope will contain a way you can help a fellow family breathe a little easier and celebrate the season this year. All donations are anonymous. No matter what this season means for your family, let's come together to make sure all our families have a peaceful, heartfelt season.

News You Can Use!

Carnival NEEDS a Committee

Over and over again, when we talk to our students, the number one event they remember from their time at Carpenter is CARNIVAL!!!!

Food! Fun! Games!

There is so much to love about our final event of the year. OUR CARNIVAL WILL NOT HAPPEN THIS YEAR WITHOUT YOU!!!

Although our PTO has the ability to help with the planning, we do NOT have a Carnival Chair this year to organize and put together our carnival.

We must start planning now and we NEED a committee to begin! If you are willing to help on our carnival committee, please email Kym Randall at carpenterptopres1@gmail.com, or talk to any PTO board member.

News from the Music Room November and December

We've made great progress this term in the Music room. Our theme for November was being thankful. Students talked about what it means to be thankful and how they can show their thankfulness at school and at home. Students illustrated examples from one of our videos and wrote sentences to match. You can see some of the examples in the special area hallway outside the multi purpose room. We learned a number of songs about being thankful and a few turkey songs, mostly about them running away. A link you might like is:

Our December theme will be having fun with music and movement. Young students have been listening to instrumental music during our "listening game" then moving along with the melody. We are adding scarves and ribbon sticks to add fluidity to the movements. Older students will be listening as well, but we've added a combination of classical songs and modern/popular songs collected by our fifth grade students. Mirrored movements in time to the music and interpretive movement will be our goal.

Every student from Young 5s through 5th grade has worked with rhythmic patterns in 4/4 time. Older students will be building their own rhythmic patterns and eventually add words and melodies to write their own songs. I hope to have a Google classroom for 5th graders up in January to assist.

Two classes went on a UMS field trip to hear traditional music and dance from India. The visiting group was called Ragmala. We were chosen to have two representatives from UMS prepare the students in a pre and post show workshop where they learned movements and gestures used in traditional dance along with the background pictures based on the game "Chutes and Ladders". We were also able to reduce the cost of the ticket and have our bus covered by a grant from the U of M Credit Union and UMS. We thank them for helping provide this opportunity for our students. The students were amazing as usual and mostly stayed attentive to this new and intricate music. Students wrote letters and illustrated chalk pictures that were then sent to UMS and the performers as thanks for the opportunity. There is also a display in our hallway.

Second grade students will be traveling to Eastern Michigan's Pease auditorium on Friday, December 8th to see both the orchestra and school of dance perform Coppelia by Delibes, in a Youth Concert. Concert dress is appreciated. No heels or flip-flops please. We've watched snippets of the ballet and are learning the condensed story. This is a great trip and it's free! Thank you PTO for paying for the bus.

Second graders are being introduced to using xylophones. We are learning the correct handgrip (like a bicycle handlebar, no thumbsies or pointer fingers extended), where to hit the bars (in the middle), high and low notes, and three kinds of strikes, together, alternating and crossing over. While mostly playing in the pentatonic scale, we hope to eventually accompany some of our simple so-mi songs by the end of the year. Thank you PTO for providing our classroom with a mini-grant for two xylophones. We received a third xylophone from a Donor's Choose grant in October.

I have a request for another xylophone in Donor's Choose. So far two people have submitted donations. I'd love to add another working xylophone to the collection. I am working on repairing and finding parts for the remaining, older instruments. Here is a link for more information on my project:

UMS is holding a teacher workshop at Carpenter on collage and pop up books on December 5th and 7th led by Kennedy Center Teaching Artist and founder of Creative Curiosity Inc. Kim McCormack. A number of our teachers will be attending along with many from across southeastern Michigan. We were pleased to learn that Kim will be visiting Mrs. Brower's first grade class in the music room and working with them on Wednesday afternoon prior to one of her demonstrations.

Third graders are beginning to play the Doumbek drums and simple patterns. You may remember we received three different grants last year for a total of 27 drums. Half arrived the day after our concert. We will be better prepared and ready for this year's concert.

Fourth grade students continue to learn how to play recorders. They've made amazing progress in both reading the notes and playing them in rhythm. We are now playing B- A-G-high C and high D. Recorders go home on Mondays and return on Thursdays. I am introducing Google classroom on Monday to the fourth graders and hope that will help them continue to practice with a little more direction. I am also sending home practice sheets to monitor and record minutes spent playing recorder or reading notes. Once completed, sheets can be returned for a trip to my Treasure Box.

Young 5s, kindergarteners and first graders, I will be scheduling "Informances" for your child's class in January, February and March. They will be held in the music room during your child's regularly scheduled music class. I hope to share with you the things students do to "learn about and enjoy" music.

Second, third and fourth graders will have day assemblies later in the year.

Fourth graders will also have a night concert. Fifth grade students will have an instrumental concert in the spring.

Donations: Cold and flu season is here. We have hand sanitizer but could really use a few boxes of Kleenex.

See my website for more information about the music room:

Hour of Code

During the weeks of November 27-December 8, classes will participate in Hour of Code. Carpenter students will learn the basics of computer programming, using kid-friendly "Blockly" programming language, which allows them to drag and drop the appropriate commands to create a program. Students from over 180 countries will take part in this event. Please note Kindergarten students will complete the Hour of Code event during their PLTW time.

The Penguin Patch is Coming!!!!

It's time for one of my favorite Carpenter traditions -- the Penguin Patch!!

On December 14th and 15th, all students will have the opportunity to visit Carpenter's holiday shop to purchase gifts for their loved ones. With the help of our parent volunteers, students will select gifts, budget, check out, and wrap presents.

This event is not possible without your help!! Please volunteer for a 2-hour time block to assist our students. I promise that the joy on their faces will make every minute worthwhile!
