

Meet Tamara McNeil, a seasoned first-year school counselor who is more than just an educational expert—she's a dynamic force with a decade of experience under her belt. Currently pursuing an Ed.S. in Professional Counseling at the University of West Georgia, Tamara holds a license as a professional counselor in the vibrant state of Georgia. Her extensive certifications include clinical mental health counseling, training in kinship and adoption competency, and drug and alcohol counseling. Tamara is not your typical 6th-grade school counselor; she brings a diverse background to the table. With roles as a student engagement specialist and Spanish teacher, she's not only well-versed in counseling but also boasts a rich tapestry of experiences.

In addition to her professional achievements, Tamara is a mom of four, happily married, and possesses an insatiable love for travel and live music. Proudly embracing her Sagittarius nature, she embodies an adventurous spirit that fuels her commitment to fostering emotional intelligence, resilience, and academic success in her students. Tamara's impact extends beyond the classroom. She is one of three sponsors to the GEMS mentoring group and serves as the director of TAM Girls at EWMA, showcasing her dedication to empowering and mentoring young minds. Tamara McNeil isn't just an advocate for her students' educational journey; she's weaving a rich narrative of lasting impact on their well-being and success. Get ready for an extraordinary counseling experience with Mrs. McNeil—your go-to guide in navigating both academia and the social and emotional challenges of 6th grade.
