

2007 Hall of Fame Inductee

Wiley Price

Class of 1975

Wiley Price is an award winning photojournalist who is renowned for capturing everyday life in memorable images.

A 1975 graduate of University City High School, Price has worked for more than 25 years as a photographer. He is currently on staff at the St. Louis American, but has also worked for a number of other prestigious newspapers and magazines such as the New York Times, Washington Post, Associated Press, Chicago Tribune, Suburban Journals of St. Louis, Heart and Soul, Emerge, Ebony and the St. Louis Jewish Light.

Wiley
Price

Class of 1975

His photographs have resulted in awards from the Missouri Press Association, Illinois Press Association, National Newspaper Publishers Association, Greater St. Louis Association of Black Journalists and the Suburban Newspapers of America. He has been recognized by such civic organizations as Missouri's Martin Luther King Jr. State Celebration Commission, the United Way of Greater St. Louis and the Annie Malone Children and Family Service Center. He was also the photographer for the book, Lift Every Voice and Sing, that chronicles the lives of 100 twentieth-century African Americans.

In 2005, he participated in the Returning Artists Series "Year of the Photographer" at University City High School. The event allowed him to share his experiences and skills with students at the school.