

Additional Services Provided

When you need help with non-acute emotional, mental or behavioral problems such as depression, anxiety, relationships or alcohol and drug problems...

A Work-LifeMattersSM consultant will help assess the situation and will provide telephone problem resolution consultations or may authorize up to three office visits with a counselor in your area. The consultant may also assist you in obtaining behavioral health treatment, if needed, through your health plan.

When you receive a disability benefit...

You are eligible for one telephone consultation to assist you with financial services while on disability. This consultation can include options for protecting your assets, and making the most of your disability payments.*

When your beneficiary receives a death benefit payment of $50,000 or more and wants to know what options are available to protect the asset...

Your beneficiary is eligible for one telephone financial consultation to review options for protection of this asset. This benefit falls under Guardian's Beneficiary Services, which also includes bereavement counseling.

When you require legal advice...

You are entitled to receive unlimited legal advice by telephone including, but not limited to, such topics as real estate, living wills, and estate and probate law. You are also eligible for a referral to a local attorney for a free 30-minute session, and additional services and consultations at a 25% discount.

* This service provided to employees with Guardian group disability.

 This service provided to beneficiaries of Guardian group life insurance policies.

Providing Assistance With What Matters Most

Work-LifeMattersSM is administered by Integrated Behavioral Health, an independent national employee assistance firm. To be eligible for the free visits with an EAP professional, an employee must be participating in one or more of Guardian's group coverages and must receive a referral and prior authorization from IBH.

Work-LifeMattersSM Program services are provided by Integrated Behavior Health, Inc., and its contractors. Guardian does not provide any part of Work-LifeMattersSM Program services. Guardian is not responsible or liable for care or advice given by any provider or resource under the program. This information is for illustrative purposes only. It is not a contract. Only the Administration Agreement can provide the actual terms, services, limitations and exclusions. Guardian and IBH reserve the right to discontinue the WorkLifeMattersSM Program at any time without notice.

Legal services will not be provided in connection with or preparation for any action against Guardian, IBH, or your employer.

Introducing Work-LifeMattersSM

What Is Work-LifeMattersSM?

Guardian recognizes that personal and family problems can impact your life both at home and at work. When you face these challenges in life, it's nice to know there's a place to turn. To assist you and your family in getting the help you need, Guardian has established the Work-LifeMattersSM Program. Work-LifeMattersSM is a confidential support service designed especially to help you with the issues that affect your life the most.

How Does It Work?

When you call the Work-LifeMattersSM toll free number, you will be connected to a counselor who will help you. In order to provide this support in a confidential setting, Guardian has teamed up with Integrated Behavioral Health (IBH), an independent national employee assistance firm. IBH is staffed by professional counselors who are experienced in aiding people with a wide range of issues.

How Do I Access These Services?

You can call toll-free during standard operating hours, or 24/7 in an emergency situation, and speak to a consultant. You can also log-on to www.ibhworklife.com to find basic information on a number of valuable services.
