Senior Legend

WISHING to leave behind us an accurate record of our achievements at Humboldt, we, the senior class, present this outline:

Sophomore Year—We remained a shy, quiet, backward group. With the help of Miss Marshall, our class adviser, we elected our officers: president, Robert Leger; vice president, Mary Jo Hennessy; secretary, Lois Johnson; treasurer, Phil Kirmser. Thus we started on the path to our vast scholastic and athletic achievements.

Junior Year—Under Miss Marshall’s continued guidance and with Russell Emeott, president; Russell Reetz, vice president; Lorraine Flavin, secretary, and Doris Dordell, treasurer, our junior year was a great success. It is customary for juniors to have charge of the Junior-Senior Prom. The class vote decided the event would be held at the St. Paul Athletic Club on May 29. Russell Emeott and his partner, Katherine Doyle, led the grand march. The ball was a huge success.

The carnival was also one of the big events of our junior year. In the contest for queen, Audra Loveland, Betty Jane Schletty, Gertrude Helms, and Helen Steenberg represented the junior class. Audra Loveland won the title. Robert Leger was runnerup for king. He too was of the junior class.

From the midst of our ranks Betty Jane Schletty was chosen for the leading role in the annual play, “Skidding.” The play terminated our junior year activities.

Senior Year—In our last year at high school we elected the following officers: Bob Leger, president; Milton Smith, vice president; Mary Hurley, secretary, and Audra Loveland, treasurer.

A meeting was held during which our class rings and pins were displayed. Another meeting was called when the apparel for the graduation exercises was discussed. Caps and gowns were vetoed, and pastel evening frocks for the girls, and white shoes, white trousers, dark coats for the boys were decided upon.

The basketball team, composed wholly of members from our class, succeeded in winning the city and regional championships.

In “Another Language,” the annual play, Betty Jane Schletty once more stole the leading lady’s role. Virginia Kilbourne, Russell Koutz, and Kent Phelps also had important parts.

And now we approach the grand finale of our high school careers—Commencement. Agnes St. George will give the valedictorian address and Marguerite Mears will present the salutatorian speech. This event, to our sorrow, will close a very happy and eventful three years in our lives at a school where harmony and good will reign.

SEPTEMBER
10—The first day of school presents a conglomeration of very ignorant students—oh, but wait until the teachers get started.
12—Very green sophs still gaze in awe at the impressive seniors wandering aimlessly about the halls.
14—At this stage teachers give students that "I-dare-you-to-change-your-program" look—Students: Beware.
17—Rejoicing about the school. Miss Hoffman back after long absence.
20—Mr. Powles gives his first chemistry test. He impresses seniors with his systematized knowledge of chemistry and boundless scientific observations.
25—Young philosopher of learning, in his eagerness to evacuate the building, vaults through glass door! No lacerations reported.
26—Had a peless pep assembly to pep up peless pupils and players.
28—Day of days! Johnny Bloyer throws a thrilling pass to clinch Harding football game by a score of 7 to 0.

OCTOBER
1—"We did it all for Bedelia." reverberates throughout assembly halls as bashful blushing boys confess their new love.
2—Mr. Wauchope justly reprimands us as a result of our strange behavior in the street car the other night. We are heartily ashamed of our actions.
4—May we suggest that Bob Leger and Marv Vernstrom go out for track because of their long distance running in the Humboldt-Central game.
10—Humboldt given Central game on protest which puts Indians at top of conference race.
15—Heated arguments with teachers ensue. Don't wonder—it's report card day!
17—Noisy senior meeting held to elect officers. Bob Leger comes out on top as usual.
18—Was there ever a day like this?
25—Great mourning about school as Humboldt concedes her victories as a result of an ineligibility.
31—Young-men-about-school meditate on invading the most private of parties in preference to scaring out sophs.

NOVEMBER
8—Trainers swamp Humboldt in last game of season—but there'll come a day—
13—What is black and white and red all over? Answer—Harold Flavin's report card.
14—Mirrors viewed with great alarm as a result of assembly today.
18—"What that Aprille With His Shoures Sohte" is getting to be quite common talk about school.
22—The record for this day is lost, you lucky people!
28—Dramatic club dance changes shy girls from wallflowers to belles.
29—Eat, eat, eat!
30—Eat, eat, eat some more!

DECEMBER
4—Eddie Scholl walked to school today. What's the matter, Eddie, won't that Packard of yours plow through the snow?
7—Teachers set aside dignity and stern countenances to assume flirtatious roles in "A Husband for Sale."
8—Ditto.
10—Seniors, for the first time in their heretofore successful careers, realize their ignorance as they attempt to write the Senior university tests.
13—The girls find out the real reason for taking Economics when they see the "tall 'n' darl'n' Handsom" speaker.
14—The impossible has happened. Johnny Alpern sells two basketball tickets for 45c. Oh, this depression!

20—Firemen, in “The Still Alarm” keep the home fires burning. Puh-lease, Mr. Firemen, don’t let Bob and Kent go up in smoke.

21—Carolers march thru’ halls singing lovely Christmas song.

JANUARY
7—Loren Weaver, for the first time this semester, reports to first period class on time. What! A New Year’s resolution?
9—T. B. or not T. B.? Not Hamlet, but Mantoux tests tell this tale.
10—What will have a great effect or affect on our report cards? You’re right. M. R.’s.
28—An old standby has left school. Mr. Billing has been transferred to Washington.

FEBRUARY
4—Photographers wonder why lenses are cracked. You won’t wonder when you know that Al Peterson had his picture taken.
8—Has John Alpern got what it takes to be a teacher?
14—Little Marie shyly accepts a valentine from her big, dashing Romeo—Einar.
28—Seniors voting in English classes, select formals in place of caps and gowns.

MARCH
5—The unbelievable has happened as we took Central 21-18 for city championship.
11—Ray Price comes out on top in News sales. We attribute his success to his faithful feminine following.
16—Despite the fact that John Alpern flirted with the waitress, and Ted Goldberg couldn’t be found, Humboldt brought home the Regional Championship.
18—Victory dances are getting to be quite the fashion as we have our second one.

27—Some days are like this!

APRIL
4—Virginia refuses to kiss Kent in “Another Language” because Kent has the measles.
5—Kent still has the measles. (Is his face red!)
8—Mr. Powles offers to demonstrate powers of rouge, but Bill Degan refuses anything but Kissproof. (Can it be experience?)
11—After the golf dance, it was discovered that the stars’ drives crushed many a dainty foot.
23—Pupils stare pop-eyed at Mr. Powles’ Pontiac. (Teacher! Notice alliteration!)
29—Bells ring, students rush, camera clicks, wind blows, and pneumonia results as pictures are taken.

MAY
1—Dainty May tripped into town today hanging a May basket of white snowflakes on all doors.
10—Miss Lyle Olson and Miss Mary Vernstrom model latest styles from Paris at Festival tonight. (We assure you, they were chic.)
20—Jack Bercovitz asks many questions about John Alpern’s book report, “Silas Marner.” (What’s the matter, Jack, didn’t you read it either?)
24—Once again simple sophs bow to mighty seniors as they give up their seats for Senior Day Assembly.
29—Soft lights, sweet music, lovely dresses, and University Club combine to make another J. S. successful.

JUNE
6—A box of aspirin, a lot of studying and a lot of studying help make exam week successful.
11—After four years we finally attain what we have been working for—our diplomas.
14—We seniors sorrowfully depart from these halls of learning to be no longer students of Humboldt.

Will

We, the Senior Class of 1935 who know—or hope—we are about to leave this school of far reknown—and who also do not wish to be different from other classes, hereby establish our will.

First on our list we find good old Mr. Blankenbiller. To Blanky we leave a bunch of fresh, green "nuts." "Nuts," in case you don't know it, are his pupils. We also want to give him a comb and a set of brushes to make it easier to keep his unruly hair in place.

Next, in appreciation of his undying effort to propound to us the electron theory and various other extremely interesting chemical wonders, we give Mr. Powles a whole class of beautiful girls for next year.

Mr. Nash, scalped by our Indian pranks, gets a set of paints and brushes to permit him to make his own coiffure. We suggest red bangs, Mr. Nash. It would look just ducky. (We would have given him another toupee, but he obviously dislikes them because he never uses one.)

To Mr. Wauchop, our chief, we leave a special orchestra to take to the Commercial Club every Tuesday noon to play for luncheons.

Mr. Fuhrmann will get ten minutes at every assembly to talk at will—if the students don't stop him.

And demure, sweet Mr. Paul Jarvis is wholeheartedly given a brand new tie. This cravat is especially constructed for his use. It is already tied and slips on over his head, snapping into place. It can't be twisted around as the Jarvis ties usually try to do.

Dear Mr. Bond—"Chuck" to his dear pupils—is bequeathed a shiny, new knife with which he can keep all his students from working in his economics class. He really deserves more for his fine work in unfolding to us the laws of supply and demand, but we know he will be contented.

The spirit of quietness and obedience shown by all senior classes in following the wishes of the faculty regarding attire for commencement is given to the junior class. We hope they do as well as we did—no caps and gowns for us.

Miss Bigue gets the special cup for her fine work in keeping order in study hall—Oh! those piercing eyes.

Not wishing to slight anyone, we affectionately grant Miss Armstrong, our diminutive typist, a special carburetor for her new car. This gadget prevents the vehicle from being driven under forty miles an hour which we think will please this young lady.

And now due to lack of space, lack of funds, lack of material, and feeling queer after writing this testament we, who are about to leave, wish one and all a happy future.

In testimony hereof, we have sealed and signed this document on this day of May 20, 1935.

Signed:

Senior Class of 1935.

Witnesses:
Napoleon Bonaparte,
Mr. David P. Blankenbiller,
Notary, Paul Jarvis XX.

IT IS fifth period. A wailing clarinet reminds you that you must learn part of Milton's "Il Penseroso" for English sixth period, but a few grunting tubas, to say nothing of the trumpets, flutes, tympani, baritones, and trombones remind you that this is the band hour. No Milton while the "Band Plays On."

When you voice your grudge against the band remember that you were the one who didn't remember Milton, and that the band is laboring under a 3 year, 1 month, and 15 day handicap. The average band player, say, must spend at least one hour every day for three years to become proficient in his art. At least 30 band members have been playing for 6 months, a total of 182 hours. A person playing for three years has practiced a total of 1,095 hours. At this rate, each band member playing for six months labors under a handicap of 913 hours. Multiplying this by 30, you find that the total is 27,390 hours—3 years, 1 month, and 15 days.

Despite this handicap the band under direction of Mr. Fuhrmann has played in many parades and concerts. This year these sixty young musicians have played at all football games, many basketball games, and have given two concerts at a St. Paul theatre. They have also acquired a trophy for being the best marching and playing band in a city wide parade.

The orchestra, under the direction of Miss Burns, has distinguished itself. This group of musicians performed at the Annual Play. It also played at Hotel Lowry, and at assemblies. This orchestra labors under a bigger handicap than the band, in a way, because it must compete with the attraction of the band for possession of musically inclined students. It seems that these uniforms get the musicians.
THE STAR PERFORMERS

KENNETH NEWMORB
Football, '34.
Starting out as sophomore, Ken tried out for the football team in 1932 and 1933. In '34 with two years of experience as an added weapon, Kenneth earned his first football letter by changing from a guard position to center.

JEROME REMICK
Football, '34.
In 1933 Babe played tackle on the "B" squad that went through an undefeated season. Weighing almost 190 pounds and standing well over six feet at the start of the 1934 season, he earned his letter and proved that other essentials than height and weight are necessary to make a good player.

W. D. DEGAN
Track, '34, '35.
Always endeavoring to be of some asset to athletics at Humboldt, Bill proved his worth on the track team. He was willing, and where there's a will, there's a way.

FRED ENGFER
Basketball, '35.
Long arms and legs were Fred's assets in helping Humboldt win the championship. His sportsmanship always shown to advantage whether on the baseball diamond or on the basketball court.

HAROLD FLAVIN
Baseball, '32; Kittenball.
Big and powerful with a heart of gold was Harold. He saw service in kittenball, baseball and basketball. He also participated in inter-mural sports with astounding results.

JOHN KENT
Boxing, '32.
In his sophomore year, Johnny realized a dream. He won the school flyweight championship. But after that, band work restricted his athletic work.

PETE ISAAC
Football, '34, '35; Track, '33, 34, '35.
Pete is a huge, well-built athlete, always eager to improve. He was a great help to both the football and track teams for two and three years respectively. Replacing Pete will be a man-sized job.

DONALD KING
Football, '34; Tennis, '34, '35; Kittenball.
In his first two years Don failed to make the football team, but in his final year he not only made the team, but was an outstanding performer. He has made letters in tennis also and should go far in this line of athletics. He also cast his lot in kittenball.

DONALD BAILEY
Golf Manager, '34.
In 1934, Don managed the golf team that won its second straight championship, and running a championship team is indeed no easy job. He also tried out for swimming but couldn't quite make the grade.

Page Thirty
Humboldt Life

Hulbert Mears
Swimming, '34, '35.
A cool, steady man was Hulbert on the tank team. He was always ready for action and showed his ability by making letters in both his junior and senior years.

John Alpern
Football, '32, '33, '34; Basketball, '34, '35; Track, '34, '35; Kittenball.
When athletic ability conquers, Johnny will be the conqueror. He has been one of Humboldt's greatest halfbacks. Has proved his worth many times on the basketball court, was a one-man track team for two years and also excelled in kittenball.

Fred Coakley
Football, '34; Kittenball, '32.
Probably the hardest driving end for his weight that ever donned the Orange and Black uniform was Fred. He is an outstanding player, but above that he has a fighting heart and that's hard to beat. His kittenball ability is as good, if not greater, than his football prowess.

Marvin Vernstrom
Basketball, '32, '33, '34; Football, '34; Track, '33, '34, '35.
Marv was one of the best all around athletes ever turned out at Humboldt. He made good use of his natural ability and as a result made letters in three major sports. In basketball he earned three letters and during his senior year he captained the basketball team to its first championship in seventeen years. Marv also performed as a real star in track by placing in every meet he participated.

John Aussey
Basketball, '33, '34, '35.
John was the shortest player on the championship basketball team. Making up for his lack of size, John used his 155 pounds to a good advantage by showing tremendous drive. He also played a tough defensive game and proved himself one of the leading guards of the city. He tried out for the football team and also made a kittenball award.

John Ricketts
Football, '33; Manager of Football, '34.
Big and tough—that was the way John liked them. His ferocious tackles and steady blocking helped Humboldt finish the season with only two defeats. In '34, John was ineligible but showed his loyal school support by taking care of football equipment.

Quentin Thul
Football, '34.
Making use of natural football ability, Quent tried out for football in 1933 and 1934. Height and weight were not all he had, however, as he had the knack of diagnosing every play of the opposition.

Robert Leger
Football, '33, '34; Golf, '33, '34; Swimming, '33, '34.
Bob will go down in Humboldt history as one of the cleanest sports that ever donned a school outfit. His courageous spirit won him the captaincy of the football team in 1934, and he proved himself worthy of this honor. In golf, his low scores enabled Humboldt to win the championship two years in a row. In swimming, he proved his worth by earning two letters.

Sigmund Liebfeld
Basketball, '33, '35.
Although Siggie was seldom serious, he put away his happy-go-lucky spirit his last year at Humboldt, and tried out for the basketball team. By playing hard and showing real team spirit, he proved himself a valuable reserve on the championship team.

Ralph Mason
Track '35
Track was the only sport Ralph tried out for while at Humboldt. He entered it during his last year and made his letter by high jumping and pole vaulting.
Late in 1934 Chief Clair G. McMann led his warriors to the field of battle in aging uniforms. The Indians played great defensive games, but were undoubtedly weak on the offence. Early in 1935 Chief Clair G. McMann led his warriors to the field of battle in brilliant new uniforms. Probably the new suits, the new year, or their past records brought about the change, but whatever it was, fighting spirit grew.

Step by step the team fought their way, until the end of the regular season they were on top tied with Central. A playoff game which they won by a score of 21 to 18, only proved how much improved the Indians were. They flashed a new offense in the first regional game, and then settled down to defensive play to capture the second regional game as well as the regional title.

The fighting Indians went down to defeat in the State Tournament, but returned in the Consolation games to set or tie four State Tournament records. Each member of the squad from the starting regulars to the last alternate or reserve deserves credit and praise.

Humboldt boasted the greatest scoring front line in Vernstrom, Olson, and Engfer both in the city conference and the regional, as well as the greatest pair of defensive guards in the city and regional in Alpern and Aussey. Sig Liebfeld was full of pep and fight, and helped maintain the spirit of the team, as well as its defensive standings. Harold Donovsky was an alternate at both forward and guard. Ernie Langula did his best and that’s the most anyone can do.

Behind the team was the loyal support of the student body, alumni and faculty which was appreciated by the team and its great coach, C. G. McMann.
On The Trail

UNEXPECTEDLY being called on to interview the prominent students attending Humboldt, and being naturally bashful, I was perturbed as how to go about it. Summoning up all of my dynamic powers, I at last thought of an easy way out. I would read over the senior statistic papers and in that way get all of the dope on some of the seniors.

Beginning alphabetically I see first that Johnny Alpern intends to remain single—well, he can take bumps in football but not in marriage. Cecelia Babcock must take her American History seriously for she fainted one night while studying it. Dick Beedle claims that he loves two-legged chickens. Well, according to my knowledge I know two kinds of two-legged chickens and I'm wondering which one he means. Betty Bowell is going to work until the right guy comes along, while Doris Brown, the pert little senior, wishes that she had a nose like Cal Sutherland's—(what's the matter with her eyesight—or in her mirror broken?). Thumbing the pages leisurely, I come upon Rosemary Bumgardner and horror of horrors! She wants to be a "bad woman"—hmm! This younger generation!

Here is a rather unusual paper—unusual because there was a paragraph extra describing the looks and features of the author. It gave me the impression that Joan Crawford looks like Edna May Oliver. As you probably know, the author was none other than Geraldine Chadbourne. Of course she's not conceited—she must be even better than she thinks she is.

Another love wrecked idiot is Fred Coakley. His secret passion is mistle toe. Evelyn Cornice writes she likes "Cooney" Islands. Of course, you really can't expect her to spell perfectly as she's only a senior. Vic Dunn, the crooning troubador, says he likes cauliflower. Well, I can't blame him, seeing his ears are that way.

Reaching Mary Hurley's paper I became tremendously surprised at her secret passion. She had written "baby pigs." So that's why she's hanging around Ted Goldberg. Well, there's one boy that doesn't like singing English teachers and that's Don King. I wonder who he means. Could it be Miss Graves—but, no, she doesn't exactly sing—yet, I wonder.

Marv Vernstrom, that stalwart basketball player, has a hobby of knitting. Jerry Remick has Lyle Olson right down to a "T"—calling him the weirdest looking creature on two feet—and what feet: eh. Ole?

Here is Rebecca Schein. hm, nice girl, too, me thinks. She thought it funny when Miss How told her she needed more credits than she had to graduate!

Oh! what do I see here? Joe, the janitor, has at least one secret admirer in Humboldt. Betty Jane Schletty has just confessed that between Pop Eye and him, her future husband will be chosen. Pauline Schreckenberg claims that she will never forget a certain windy day when she was going out to the cottage. The wind was blowing mighty hard—too hard.

Hmm. Louie Payin evidently is not very literary—picking "Ballyhoo" as his favorite book. Well, well, well. I have in my hand a paper that does not contain Bob Leger's name any place on it. The only reason I can imagine is that it's Bob's own paper. Eugene Maloney has a secret passion for looking in mirrors while Bernard Manthei considers Mr. Ramstad's getting hit on the "beezzer" by a three-foot atlas, funny.

Song

Today the wind swept up the street
And made my heart to skip a beat
With joy and gladness of the spring
And all the happiness 'twould bring.

It mussed my hair, it made me laugh,
It offered me a cup to quaff:
I drink to life, I drink to love,
I drink to earth, and heaven above.

And all the gladness that it brought
Was just the gladness that I sought
In giving joy. It gave new birth
To some of the happiness on this earth.

Florence Krottoschinsky.

Would Humboldt have been the same to all of us seniors if Russel Reetz didn’t knock something down behind the stage curtain at every play?

Or if Sigmund Liebfeld couldn’t be found roaming the halls during any class in the day?

Would it have seemed natural if petite Miss Bigue was not thrown for a loss every time she tried to smash through the mob in front of her room between classes?

How would school have been if Don King would not be in one of Mr. Powle’s classes. “haunting” him?

Or if our great Harvey Koehler did not have a book like “Antony Adverse” under his arm?

Could we have enjoyed ourselves quite so much if Loren Weaver didn’t have Geraldine Keck by the arm any time they were together?

Think hard; see if you can remember any time Bob Leger, our athletic hero, was seen talking to a girl and wasn’t blushing.

Would we have felt satisfied if Agnes St. George and Marguerite Mears were not valedictorian and salutatorian? Only four hundredths of a point separated these two inseparables on the honor roll.

We certainly have uncovered some wonderful lecturers during our course of learning. Who will doubt the ability of Russell Koutz when it comes to flinging six-cylinder words at an audience?

Or what person would try to intimidate Antony Michalski when he was feeling resentful?

Not one of us, I am sure, could feel we deserved to graduate had we not memorized half of our American History under the instruction of Miss Fanning or recite from memory most of Miss Graves’ and Milton’s “Paradise Lost?”

Do you think we could have remained three years in this school if someone like Sam Gerlick or Jack Bercovitz had not plagued every class they were in by their pet jokes and wise cracks?

Their Favorites

IT IS always interesting to know what fellow classmates read. Believe it or not, a person’s character can be told by his reading material.

First on the list is Willard Christianson, who enjoys such simple writings as Einstein’s “Theory on Relativity.”

But coming back to the more common and simpler stories we find that Zane Grey’s thrillers head the list again. This famous author is appreciated by Cecelia Babcock, Laura Mae Chamberlin, Victor Dunn, Hildegard Ehrenberg, Frank Farley, Harold Foreman, Viola Frazier, Harry Frederick, Thomas Grosscup, Stanley Gryc, Gertrude Hozza, Gerald Kamp, Vern Kittleson, William Owen, Joe Pertzik, Bob Peterson, Regis Price, Viola Remick, Marion Snyder, Walter Spangenberg, Mercedes Stevens, Rita Ulwelling and Loren Weaver.

Those students who appreciate the modest efforts of Shakespeare are Jack Bercovit, Robert Diedrich, Elmer Engfer, Sarah Katzovitz, Eugene Maloney and Martin Schadegg. Followers of the thrilling Sabatini works are Marion Zelzer, Max Statland, Fred Coakley, Russell Chaput, Phil Kirmser, Robert Leger, Anthony Michalski, Kenneth Newcomb, Albert Peterson and Ed. Scidl.

The ever popular Milton has in his power Albert Ellis and William Degan, while John Alpern, Dick Beedle, Marvin Vernstrom, James Jobe and Lawrence Guldberg pursue dangerous adventures in the Jack London novels. Many girls enjoy reading the stories by Kathleen Norris. Among these are Kathleen McCoy, Helen Schneider, Gertrude Rubenstein, Evelyn Leizerowitz, Marion Kellgren, Katherine Effress and Corrine Berger.

Students favoring Barrie are Geraldine Chadbourne, Marian Fyhrie, Marie Haas, Frances Helget, Gertrude Mattren, La Verne Stenson and Shirley Stiff. Gene Stratton Porter always has a large group of admiring readers. This year they are Marjorie Stroud, Rosemary Bumgardner, Lois Clark, Hortense Hafiz, Eve Lynn Weinerman, Henrietta Walsch, Maxine Tetsche, Pauline Schreckenberg, Eileen Meyer and Lillian Mollenkamp.

“I Could Be Smart”

Indolent students, both girls and boys,
Who wallow in ignorance and its joys
Are apt to remark in moments of stress
When others praise someone’s cleverness,
“I could be smart, too, if I studied!”

Adults, too, who have no ambition
Because they must work for success’ retribution.
When friends will point at a man on the pinnacle,
Will straighten their shoulders and look very cynical
As they reply with words that really mean,
“I could be smart, too, if I studied!”

Those who wasted their lives in the shade,
When on their deathbeds are regretfully laid,
Will their empty lives in thoughts review
And waste their last breath to say to you
“Oh, I could have been smart, too, if I had studied!”

Trolla Polfuss.

Soliloquy

The day we came to Humboldt High,
We were so scared we thought we’d cry—
Heckled by seniors and jeered at by all,
Not many “sophs” could be seen in the hall:
Those cold water fountains on which we were placed
Never again quite suited our taste.
But it didn’t take long ’till we found we were wrong
In judging those Indians a bold, wicked throng.
For soon we were Juniors and had enough nerve
From the laws of King Ollie and Blanky to swerve.
We even had grit and the courage to state
That we had no excuse when to school we’d come late.
And now we are seniors and though quite supreme
Must envy the rest who are young and quite green.
For it’s they who will laugh, will have pow-wows galore,
While we leave the tribe and cruel war-paths explore.
