We Survived Middle School!

Middle School Matters

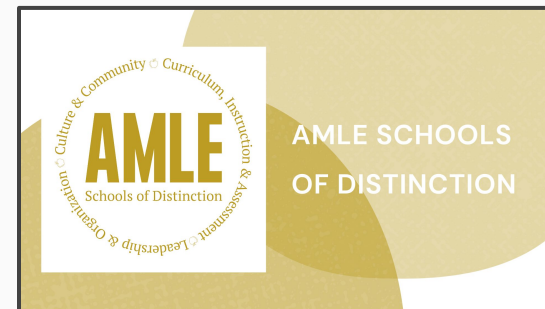

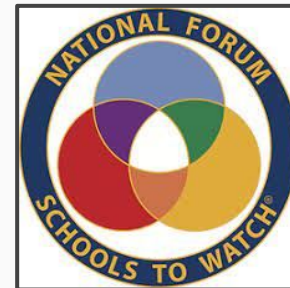

"The self concept our students create about themselves in middle school has a lasting impact on their educational trajectory..."

The importance of appropriate education for young adolescents based on their unique needs is well documented

New York State Essential Elements

These Essential Elements, mandated by the New York State Department of Education in CR100.4, provide us with the charge to deliver research-based, proven programs for our early adolescents that address both academics and personal development.

Middle School Philosophy

Our philosophy and mission reflect the intellectual and developmental needs and characteristics of young adolescents.

The Educational Program

Our educational program is comprehensive, challenging, purposeful, integrated, relevant, and standards-based.

Organizational Structure

Our organizational structure supports both academic excellence and personal development.
