- Members weighed in on deciding our top priority for this year: Whether focusing on the Staff or Family/Parents:
 - Jeanene Morris (Beacon Mental Health) would like to leverage some of her organizations resources and focus the intervention to train/work with staff members.
 - Jessi Tyler (NKCSO SCRS) supported the idea of focusing more on the parents given that there is ongoing work focused on staff and that when students are in school they are receiving the needed support. She underlined the need to make sure that students are provided with the same support at home.
 - Lezlie Paden (NKCSO ELL Coordinator) also supported the idea of focusing on parents especially the refugee and emigrant families who need the help and the support to connect with community resources.
 - Shannon Tilsworth (NKCSO Health Services Ass. Dir.) suggested meeting parents where they are in the community partnering with faith-based organizations, food pantries and work together to support them.
 - Dr. Miller (Liberty Hospital) supported the focus on staff noting that we need to work with them and get them on the same page before we work with parents.
