I chose to do the RED Talks on Education, which is finding inventive solutions to tackle the escalating teaching shortage problem to be presented at the State Capitol. I started by educating myself on this topic, I did research and found statistics that could help me. I thought of interviewing current teachers, Mrs. Charles, a current high school history teacher and Mrs. Merriman the current assistant principal at Powell County Middle School. I also used salary.com to find the salary in the state of Kentucky. Using the information I already knew and the newly obtained information, I then started creating my solutions. I created a couple inventive solutions and explained how it could help solve the escalating problem.
