Saint John's Catholic Prep

Who would have predicted, in the late 1700's, that an 8000 acre parcel of land known as Red Hill would later become the location of our school? Daniel Dulaney laid out the city called Fredericktowne and built the original home on this property, though the current mansion, known as Prospect Hall, was probably not completed until 1810. This white, three story structure was designed in a Greek Revival style and was widely known as the most important home in western Maryland. Located on the highest elevation in Frederick, this estate has hosted many important people, from George Washington and Harry Truman to John F. Kennedy. Immediately before the Battle of Gettysburg in 1863, the mansion was the site of General Meade's takeover of the Army of the Potomac from General Joseph Hooker. In 1958, the Archdiocese of Baltimore bought the estate and opened St. John's Literary Institution at Prospect Hall. In the early 1970's, the school became an independent Catholic school and in 2006, the school's name was changed to Saint John's Catholic Prep. So much has taken place on these grounds. This yearbook will document our part of the history of this beautiful place that we call our school!

Did you know...

Saint John's has a remarkably long and distinguished history of academic excellence?

May 1782 - John McElroy, founder of St. John's Literary Institution, was born in Euniskillen, Ireland. He immigrated to America at the age of twenty-one, settling first in Baltimore, Maryland, and then in Washington, D.C., where he entered the Jesuit Order at Georgetown.

Circa 1803 -1810- The large, elegant mansion later known as Prospect Hall and the future site of St. John's Literary Institution was constructed on Red Hill in Frederick, Maryland

1829 - Father McElroy founded Saint John's on 2nd Street in Frederick, Maryland. He also founded the first free school for black children in Washington D.C. and founded Boston College in 1865. The Charter of St. John's Literary Institution was obtained from Maryland State Legislature in 1829.

1915 - St. John's Literary Institution became coeducational, with the School Sisters of Notre Dame helping staff the parish school.

1958 - The Archdiocese of Baltimore bought Prospect Hall and St. John's Literary Institution moved grades 9 to 12 from the downtown Frederick location to the acquired building.

1972 - The School Sisters of Notre Dame were no longer able to staff the school, so a group of dedicated parents and parishioners pooled their energies and resources to keep the school open. Through their dedication, St. John's remained open as the first independent, Catholic School in Maryland.

1979 - Prospect Hall Mansion was placed on the National Register of Historic Places. A Sesquicentennial Celebration Ball was held for St. John's Literary Institution.

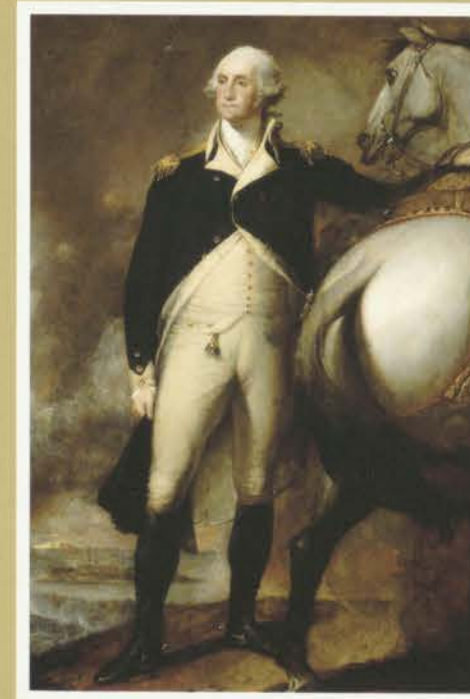

2006- St. John's Literary Institution at Prospect Hall was renamed Saint John's Catholic Prep in anticipation of relocating the school a few miles away to Buckeystown, Maryland.

2010- You are reading this yearbook and might be thinking these first couple pages are fairly boring! Believe it or not...someday, in years to come when you read this again, you will appreciate knowing the history of the school and the Prospect Hall Mansion!

Do you recognize this? It is one of the windows above the doors of the mansion. They are called an elliptical fanlights and are original to the building. They are very unusual because they are the Federal style of architecture and the mansion is built in the Greek Revival style. They were extremely expensive and only the very wealthy had them in their homes. They were a huge status symbol of the time!

George Washington and Blueskin

George Washington's wife Martha was a widow with children when he married her. Her daughter was married to Daniel Dulaney's son, the first owner of the estate. Washington visited the Dulaney family during the Revolutionary War and was given the horse named Blueskin that he rode during the war. Washington loved Blueskin so much that, when the war ended, he returned him so he could live out his days in the pasture where he had been born. It has long been told that Blueskin is buried in the front yard of the mansion! Legend has it that Blueskin's spirit wanders the grounds every year on George Washington's birthday!

The Story of Agnes

Agnes served at the Prospect Hall estate as a servant girl soon after the American Revolution. It was discovered that Christopher Dulaney, the son of the owner, Daniel Dulaney the younger, engaged in an affair with Agnes. Dulaney's parents were outraged, as it was extremely taboo for a man of privilege to associate with a lowly housemaid. Dulaney's mother was particularly angry and as a result, she sent Christopher to France. Meanwhile, Agnes pleaded her innocence, but to no avail. Mrs. Dulaney had Agnes buried alive in the wall that now separates the faculty room and the president's office. Ever since, the ghost of Agnes has been seen in Prospect Hall and numerous cases of unexplained activity have been reported.

President Principal*

As we sit to write this letter we cannot help but first recognize the graduating Class of 2010. It is especially special for Mr. Cosentino because like you, he began his time here at Saint John's four years ago. As principal, it truly has been an honor to watch the senior class grow and mature into fine young men and women. Dr. Campbell has had the privilege to have this year with the seniors and the opportunity to witness all their wonderful attributes. We are so blessed to have such an incredible student body, faculty and staff that make our school community so great!

Reflecting on this past year, it seems so appropriate to focus on the history of Prospect Hall. This building has so many rich stories and many of them have been experiences that students and teachers have made while being here. We hope as you look through this yearbook, you will be reminded of fond memories and look forward to adding to the history of our school.

In closing we would like to thank Mrs. Corr and the entire yearbook staff for all of their hard work and dedication that they have put in to this endeavor. Seniors, please know that we will miss you and that we look forward to your visits back to us as Saint John's alumnus!

As the editors of the 2009-2010 Saint John's Catholic Prep yearbook, we are proud to present our part of history. The Publication's Class has worked tirelessly creating this special memoir of our year. From past to present, the pictures in this yearbook represents the progression of our school year. It is our hope that you enjoy looking at each page and appreciate all of the hard work that has gone into creating this yearbook. This is a book to be valued now and for years come!

Teacher of the Year
Melissa Minsker*

The truth is, I get to spend my days doing something that I love. It's certainly been a surprise to me. I never planned to become a teacher, but it turns out that talking about literature, and writing, and helping students discover new books is exactly what I always wanted to do. It's really a privilege to get to teach here at Saint John's, because it means I have the opportunity to work with students who are engaged. Who wouldn't want to read great books, chat with friends, and consider the complications and possibilities of life? It's been an amazing realization for me, and I hope that each day I get at least one chance to share some of that joy with my students. Sometimes, what we have planned for ourselves, and what life has planned for us, don't match up. That doesn't mean, though, that we won't find our way.

Did you know...

information on weather goes back a long time in the Mid-Atlantic region, thanks to early record keeping by weather observers such as Benjamin Franklin, George Washington and Thomas Jefferson?! From January 27-28, 1772, a storm named the "Washington and Jefferson Snow Storm," since both of their diaries recorded it, left 30 to 36 inches of snow in Baltimore and Washington. Official weather records in this area did not begin until after the Civil War in 1883-1884. Therefore, the 1772 storm is not listed in the record books, but it did produce the greatest snow this region had seen since the early settlements. People were unable to travel anywhere for two weeks due to the deep snow-pack left by the storm. It took 5 weeks for postal service to resume because the horses couldn't get around!

This season, the snow destroyed the previous records and dumped 72.3 inches in Baltimore and 54.9 inches in Washington, D.C.!

Mother Nature deposited even more snow on the Frederick area. Our campus was buried! With the first snowfall coming before Christmas, followed by back-to-back blizzards in February, school was closed for weeks!

We all enjoyed lots of shoveling and time-off and returned to "making up for lost time" in the classrooms!

Spring of 2010 looks to be the most anticipated season ever!

The campus of Saint John's Catholic Prep was buried under nearly 4 feet of snow with drifts that climbed much higher! Mr. Catalani and the facilities staff worked for days to get the school ready for students to return! Finding a place for all of the snow was no easy task, so, 10 foot piles were scattered around! This was definitely a major event and another chapter in the history of the school and the Prospect Hall property.

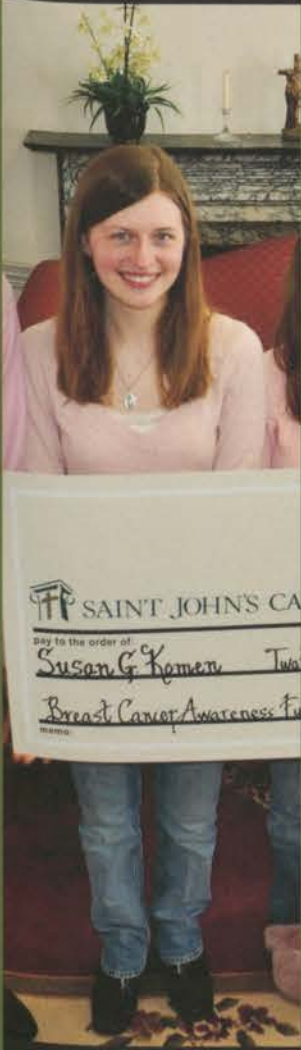

Frederick was virtually a ghost town for days after the storms. There was so much snow and no easy solution for its removal! It was eventually trucked out of the city and placed in huge piles at Harry Grove Stadium!

East 2nd Street in downtown Frederick was barely passible a week after the second February blizzard!

The Mock Trial team participates in the annual Maryland Mock Trial Competition, which has been in existence for 25 years. Competing against other high schools from Frederick County, the team competes in six local matches, as both prosecution/plaintiff and defense. This competition is held in the courtroom at the Frederick County Courthouse with a participating attorney serving as a judge. This year, for the first time in the history of the Saint John's Mock Trial team, our students obtained the title of "County Champions" after defeating Urbana by one point. Participation in a drumline creates a sense of camaraderie and promotes team building and leadership skills. In comparison to a rock band, you have the snare as the lyrics, the bass drum as the underlying bass beat, also known as the bass guitarist, and the tenors as the lead guitarists, with the cymbals as embellishments. The drumline will perform at the basketball games and the pep rallies.

On a Saturday in October, forty students, parents, alumni and friends gathered to clean up the garden area in front of the mansion. We were all shocked by the discovery of a huge brick cross buried by years of dirt and covered with grass. It is believed to have been constructed nearly 30 years ago! We also found and unearthed two stone pathways. It was such a feeling of accomplishment for those that worked to bring the garden back to life!

Twice this year, the Red Cross Club sponsored a Blood Drive to encourage teachers and students 16 years and older to donate blood to help people in our area. Just one pint of blood can save up to three lives. Each event has been a huge success!

Originally, the mission of the SADD chapter was to help young people say "No" to drinking and driving. Today, the mission has expanded. SADD stands for Students Against Destructive Decisions. Students have told us that positive peer pressure, role models and other strategies can help them say "No" to more than drinking and driving. That is why SADD has become a peer leadership organization dedicated to preventing destructive decisions, particularly underage drinking, other drug use, impaired driving, teen violence and teen depression and suicide.

Finishing with a record of 13-2, the JV squad dominated their competition, winning seven games by 20 points or more! The Varsity Lady Vikings came full circle and won the IAAM "C" Division Championship defeating Park School 50-46 in overtime! The win capped off a great season that saw the Lady Vikings finish with a 18-7 record. The team was led by senior captains, Jennie Ballenger, Hyatt Keller, Megan Middeke and Amy Duncan. Newcomer, six foot centers, Jenna Rimel and Christine Hagan played a major part in the success of the team providing defensive rebounding and shot blocking capabilities. Sophomores Marial Pierce, Katie Barrientos, Alexis Truxillo, Meredith Jones and Brooke Wilson were part of a defensive unit that wore down opponents all year. Congratulations to the Lady Vikings for winning the 2009-2010 IAAM Championship... Next year should be great!

The basketball court saw lots of action during 2009 and 2010! The JV basketball season was extremely fulfilling this year. The boys made it to the semi-finals of the Greencastle end of season tournament and won a double over-time thriller at Saint Steven's Saint Agnes. "I could not be more proud of the kids' effort and look forward to next year," said Coach Krumpotich.

The Varsity Boys' Basketball Team also had a very exciting and fun-filled season. The very young varsity squad really developed through the course of the year. They started the season with a great win at the Jewish Day School and finished by winning the 1st Annual Coach Callahan Classic in honor of Coach Callahan, the first coach at Saint John's in 1959. Coach Cheung said, "I really enjoyed coaching this team this year. They came ready to play in every practice and game and we are looking for big things next year!"

International Day, Sports' Banquets, Faculty vs. Students basketball game, Catholic School's Week, Founder's Day... the list goes on!
