RELATIONSHIPS AND SEX EDUCATION POLICY

What is relationships and sex education?

Relationships and sex education (RSE) is learning about the emotional, social and physical aspects of growing up, relationships, sex, human sexuality and sexual health.

A comprehensive programme of RSE provides accurate information at the appropriate times of a pupil's educational journey about the body, reproduction, sex, and sexual health. It also gives children and young people essential skills for building positive, enjoyable, respectful and non-exploitative relationships and staying safe both on and offline. At Pre-Prep the relevant aspects for the Early Years and Key Stage One pupils are taught as part of our personal, social, health and citizenship education (PSHCE) and through Science topics on 'Growing up'.

Why is relationships and sex education in schools important?

High quality RSE helps create safe school communities in which pupils can grow, learn, and develop positive, healthy behaviour for life. It is essential for the following reasons:

- Children and young people have a right to good quality education, as described in the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child.
- Children and young people want to be prepared for the physical and emotional changes they undergo at puberty, and young people want to learn about relationships.
- RSE plays a vital part in meeting schools' safeguarding obligations. Schools must have a preventative programme that enables pupils to learn about safety and risks in relationships. Schools maintain a statutory obligation under the Children Act (2004) to promote their pupils' wellbeing, and under the Education Act (1996) to prepare children and young people for the challenges, opportunities and responsibilities of adult life. A comprehensive RSE programme can have a positive impact on pupils' health and wellbeing and their ability to achieve, and can play a crucial part in meeting these obligations.

Relationships and sex education:

- is a partnership between home and school
- ensures children and young people's views are actively sought to influence lesson planning and teaching
- starts early and is relevant to pupils at each stage in their development and maturity

Owner: DCPSS Deputy Head

- is taught by class teachers who are trained and confident in talking about issues such as respectful relationships, equality, respect, families and people who care for me, caring friendships, online relationships, being safe
- includes the acquisition of knowledge, the development of life skills and respectful attitudes and values
- helps pupils understand on and offline safety, consent
- teaches the importance of communication and assertiveness skills including the importance of values such as respect (for self and others), equality, responsibility, care and compassion
- helps pupils use active learning methods, and is rigorously planned, assessed and evaluated
- is inclusive of difference: gender identity, sexual orientation, disability, ethnicity, culture, age, faith or belief, or other life experience
- Uses active learning methods, and is rigorously planned, assessed and evaluated
- helps pupils understand a range of views and beliefs about relationships and sex in society
- promotes equality in relationships, recognises and challenges gender inequality and reflects girls' and boys' different experiences and needs

In relation to this, the findings in March 2021 on the social media platform #Everyone's Invited reflect the need and importance for clear instruction about respectful attitudes to everyone regardless of their sex, starting from a young age.

Relationships and Sex education contributes to:

- a positive ethos and environment for learning
- safeguarding pupils (Children Act 2004), promoting their emotional wellbeing, and improving their ability to achieve in school
- a better understanding of diversity and inclusion, a reduction in gender-based and homophobic prejudice, bullying and violence and an understanding of the difference between consenting and exploitative relationships
- helping pupils keep themselves safe from harm, both on and offline, enjoy their relationships and build confidence in accessing services if they need help and advice
- reducing early sexual activity, teenage conceptions, sexually transmitted infections, sexual exploitation and abuse, domestic violence and bullying

Why do children, young people and parents think RSE is important?

Children and young people:

- want to learn about issues such as body confidence, love, how to respond to peer pressure, and how to behave in a relationship
- have a right to feel safe and healthy, and a right to education that helps them learn and achieve

- want parents and carers to talk to them about growing up and sex education, and to learn about other people's views and opinions in school
- need help to understand the way their bodies and feelings change as they grow and develop, and to develop skills and confidence

The law in relation to RSE states:

- a. The governing bodies of schools are required to keep an up-to-date RSE policy that describes content and the organisation of RSE provided outside the Science National Curriculum.
- b. Parents/Guardians have the right to withdraw their children from RSE lessons that address sex education lessons
- c. From September Education Act 2020: Relationships Education must be taught in all Primary Schools and Relationships and Sex Education must be taught from the age of 11 in all secondary schools.
- d. Dean Close Pre-Prep follows a RSE curriculum which is in line with the new requirements, using resources from Gloucestershire Local Authority and NSPCC Pants programme.

Further recommendation from the DFE:

- Schools should set RSE within a broader base of self-esteem and responsibility for the consequences of one's actions.

Aims and Objectives Dean Close School aims to:

- a. inform and prepare pupils for adult life and relationships in an age appropriate way
- b. provide a Christian moral framework as the context for future choices
- c. provide a safe and secure environment within which personal matters relating to their own bodies, and development into young adults, can be discussed openly and honestly
- d. encourage high self-esteem, self-awareness and emotional health
- e. encourage pupils to understand personal responsibility in all matters of relationships – mental and physical
- f. encourage pupils' sensitivity to the needs and situations of others
- g. give pupils the skills to make informed choices (that reduce risk)
- h. develop pupils' understanding of their own bodies and of the rights they have over their own body

Sex and relationship education is mainly delivered through the PSHCE curriculum

Content of RSE within the PSHCE (Personal Social Health and Citizenship Education) curriculum.

At Pre-Prep age, schools must deliver relationships education which teaches the fundamental building blocks and characteristics of positive relationships including:

- Families and people who care for me
- Caring friendships
- Respectful relationships
- Online relationships
- Being safe

Our Relationships Education and Health Education programme is an integral part of our whole school PSHE education provision.

EYFS and Key Stage 1 pupils learn:

- a. How thoughts and feelings can affect behaviour
- b. To maintain positive relationships, being respectful of others
- c. Friends and families, and people who look after us
- d. To build self-esteem and develop resilience
- e. To recognise healthy lifestyle choices
- e. Changes as we grow
- f. How we keep safe, including the NSPCC Pants programme (Year 1 and 2) and safety online.
- g. To respect the views of others and to challenge stereotypes
- h. How to access sources of advice and support and when and where to get help

Involvement of parents and guardians:

- Parents/guardians of pupils at Dean Close Pre-prep School will be informed of the content of the PSHCE curriculum, including RSE, and given the opportunity to withdraw their child from RSE lessons following a discussions with the Head of PSHCE and Head. A letter is sent out advising them of the week when RSE topic is being taught, and they are encouraged to ask questions by email or in person regarding any of the topics. Some request a medium term plan or more information regarding resources.
- At the beginning of each term, parents are given a Curriculum Information booklet with the overview for each subject, including PSHCE.
- All teachers are provided with a fully comprehensive scheme of work with an overview of the year, medium term plans and week by week lesson plans. A summary of the overview is at the end of this document.
- Resources are based on those provided by Gloucestershire Country Council, Twinkl and NSPCC Pants Programme. Staff are supported by the Head of PSHCE when using new resources, sharing good practice amongst staff.
- Assessment takes place through conversations with pupils, any post it notes or work completed to go into the floor books for PSD and PSHCE both in Early Years and KS1.
- Pupils with SEND:
 - All class teachers know the individual plans for children with additional needs. These needs are catered for within teaching lessons. All lesson objectives are clearly explained and taught and tasks are often short, verbal or involve a practical activity. At times this may involve a short written task but pupils are supported with this if required.

Equality Act 2010:

The Act covers all aspects of school life to do with how a school treats pupils and prospective pupils, parents and carers, employees, and members of the community. Everything a school does must be fair, non-discriminatory and not put individuals or groups of people at a disadvantage.

At Dean Close Pre-prep School, we teach pupils tolerance and respect with regard to race, age, sex (including a range of sexualities such as transgender or bisexual), religion, mental health, disability and sexual orientation. This is delivered through assemblies, PSHCE lessons (with an emphasis on British Values), and the school values of love, courage, contribution and flourishing.

Currently all teaching staff in DCPPS teach PSHCE.

The policy is updated annually by Nicole Radley and approved by the Senior Leadership Team.
